Paltz Student Killed, Two Other Area Deaths

BY WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Traffic accidents during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend claimed three lives in this area. A New Paltz college student was killed near Gardiner; a Connecticut man was fatally injured in a Greene County mishap and an elderly Poughkeepsie pedestrian died of injuries after being hit by a car near his home.

6 Killed Near Troy

Death's holiday spree in New York State claimed 48 lives in accidents, a record for the last 10 years on a Labor Day weekend. The traffic toll of 42 was a record, including six—four members of a Troy family—who were killed in a two-car crash on Route 2 near Grafton.

Nationally, 582 persons lost their lives at the end of the 78-hour weekend at midnight Monday. Last year's record Labor Day toll was 636.

State Police said 35 persons reported they were injured or shaken up in the collisions of two chartered buses near Newburgh.

29th for County

The Gardiner fatality was Ulster County's 29th traffic death of 1967. The 29th highway death in 1966 occurred on July 26 on Cape Road near Ellenville.

During the holiday weekend, area authorities investigated a rash of personal injury accidents. More than a score of persons suffered injuries.

Troopers cited a number of motorists for violations.

Victim of the Gardiner accident was Richard Gary Kruse, 20, of Pleasanton, Calif., identified as a student at the State University College at New Paltz.

Fatally injured in the Greene County mishap was Patrick A. Killen, 27, of New Haven, Conn.

The Poughkeepsie fatality was identified as Martin O'Donnell, 72, a resident of that city, who died today at Vassar Hospital of injuries suffered last night.

Highland State Police said Kruse was a passenger in a 1958 convertible operated by John E. Martin Jr., 20, of 10 Mulberry Street, New Paltz.

The car was owned by his father. Martin and another passenger in the vehicle were taken to Kingston Hospital. The passenger was Thomas Davidson, 20, of Prospect Street, New Paltz.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, Kerhonkson, who investigated the fatality at the scene with BCI Investigator Roger Gardiner, Sergeant D. B. Clarek and uniformed troopers, withheld a verdict.

Kruse died at Albany Medical Center.

Troopers said Martin was driving north on Brunswick Road, Town of Gardiner shortly after 7:15 p. m. Monday, and attempting to pass another vehicle when he lost control. The convertible went off the west shoulder, traveled 293 feet before it crashed into a large tree on the property of Mary Kenning.

Killen was a passenger in a car driven by Raymond P. Blessing, 30, of Hamden, Conn., when it was in collision with a vehicle operated by James J. Martell Jr., 21, of Melrose, Mass. The mishap occurred on Route 145 at East Durham at 12:55 a. m. Monday.

Martell was cited by state police for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent. Blessing suffered scalp lacerations and cuts of the forehead.

John J. Gallagher, 36, of Camden, Conn., a passenger, received abrasions of the left leg. They were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

State Police Sergeant R. L. Bourguignon of Leeds said Blessing was driving north on Route 145 attempting to make a left turn into a motel parking lot when the mishap occurred.

The six who met their death Monday in a two-car crash on at 4:15 p. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and hit a utility pole on Canal Road, Town of Marlbtown, according to Trooper Richard Dempsey of Kingston State Police.

Suicided to Miss Dog
Dempsey said Philip J. Scheller, 21, of 110 Springfield Avenue, S. I., was driving north on the highway when he swerved to avoid a dog near High Falls. The car went off the pavement and hit a pole. Injured and taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment were Scheller, bruises of the nose and face; Susan Pionski, 18, of Staten Island, severe lacerations of the face; Patricia O'Connor, 17, also of Staten Island, injuries

Curtain Is Closing On Present UR Unit

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan told The Freeman that he is recommending the lifting of the salary suspension of Eric Hemphill, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

Hemphill's $15,455 yearly salary was suspended by the Department of Housing and Urban Development May 23. The Common Council voted to suspend his salary at their July 11 meeting. The Mayor's recommendation will go to both bodies.

The mayor's move appears not to deal with Hemphill personally but with his position. Hemphill has submitted his resignation and will leave Kingston Sept. 11 for Charleston, W. Va.

Not Appointing Successor

Garraghan said today that he will not appoint a new director. "I'm going to appoint five good men to the agency and it will be their sole responsibility to interview and hire a new executive director," the mayor said.

The appointments will have to wait until definite word from DHUD, according to Garraghan. "I'm not going to ask anyone to serve until we get the go-ahead from DHUD in New York," Garraghan added.

Urban Renewal officials will meet in New York today to decide the future of Kingston's projects. Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick issued a letter Friday to Charles J. Horan, assistant regional administrator for DHUD, calling for the immediate resumption of urban renewal in Kingston.

Meeting Tonight

The UR Agency will meet in its last session tonight at 7:30 in its offices at 436 Broadway. Chairman Frank A. Reis said he will recommend the appointment of Ward Tongue, deputy executive director, as temporary director, and the lifting of Hemphill's salary to the Common Council.

The agency's resignations are dated Sept. 12, the day after Hemphill leaves. All have been submitted to Mayor Garraghan, except, according to the mayor, that of William T. Mahoney.

Garraghan said that as of this morning he has not received Mahoney's resignation.

The committee of businessmen headed by Richard M. Kalish today issued a statement concerning their Friday meeting at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Reports on Conference

Speaking for the committee Kalish said, "It is requested that Mayor Garraghan immediately proceed to form a new urban renewal agency, nonpolitical in substance, which can move to hire a new director and thereby enable the city's urban renewal program to move forward."

"With the issuance of this statement the committee is of the opinion that its services are no longer needed and plans to abandon its group activity. The committee points out that Mr. Kalish, in making recent public remarks about urban renewal was speaking for the committee and not as an individual," the statement concluded.

Kalish did, however, speak as an individual this morning, praising the mayor, KURA and the Kingston Housing Authority for the "fine cooperation" they extended him and the businessmen during the past few weeks.

Comment on Coverage

Kalish added, "I hope this spirit of cooperation will be extended to the men who will be responsible for urban renewal in Kingston in the near future."

Both Kalish and the mayor commented on the coverage by local news media of the urban renewal crisis.

Garraghan singled out The Freeman's coverage as "commendable" but said that other media seemed to have difficulty separating facts from opinions.

"I'm not a newsman," Garraghan said, "But it seems to me you don't mix editorials with news stories."

Kalish said he hoped that coverage would be factual in the future and that personal opinions would not become part of a story.

262 Reds, 63 Yanks Killed

Heavy Fighting Erupts

SAIGON (AP) — The heaviest

ground fighting in two months was reported today in allied war communiques listing 262 Communists and 63 Americans killed, air strikes against a new target in the Haiphong area and another Air Force jet shot down in the North.

The ground action erupted Monday as allied troops redeployed for battle after guarding South Vietnam's presidential elections. Fighting continued today, particularly in the northern war zone adjoining the 17th parallel border.

Hit Near Haiphong
American warplanes attacked three miles from the center of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong, and pilots reported dropping two spans of a major 490-foot bridge previously on the restricted target list and never before bombed.

Ground fighting in northern South Vietnam, the coastal plains, the jungles and in the Mekong delta shattered a lull that had been broken only by short, sporadic battles in the two months that the South Vietnamese, the Americans and the Communists had been preoccupied with the political campaign.

The election of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu as president may have ushered in a renewed test of muscle on the battlefield.

The heaviest fighting cost the Communist forces 160 dead and 23 prisoners in a dogged slug-fighting match with U.S. Marines in the coastal plains, rice paddies and bamboo stands about 25 miles below the big American base at Da Nang.

Report 1,000 Enemy
The Marines estimated they had more than 1,000 of the enemy in an area where planes, helicopters, artillery and ground fire could batter the Reds repeatedly.

Latest reports from the battlefield said enemy resistance was carried the air war deep into North Vietnam with 127 ships and artillery were sealing off the valley outlets to the plains while Marine tanks pounded Red gun positions above the demilitarized zone, the Air Force hit rail lines leading from Hanoi to Red China and the carrier-based Navy and the fighting was continuing, planes swept into the heavily defended skies above Haiphong.

Wolff, an unofficial visitor to Vietnam during the elections, visits the Saigon black market area yesterday, almost one year after his first tour of the district. ## Ballot Rigging Charges Denied By Ky Office

SAIGON (AP) — A spokesman for South Vietnam's victorious military ticket has brushed off charges by defeated civilian candidates that the presidential election was rigged.

U.S. observers sent by President Johnson agreed that the voting Sunday was fair.

Seven of the 10 civilian presidential candidates charged fraud in the balloting. Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran second, said he would demand that the Constituent Assembly void the election as a "nationwide fraud."

A spokesman for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, vice president-elect on the ticket headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, commented: "If Dzu has proof that there was fraud, let him go ahead. If there was fraud, we would have had a bigger margin."

In virtually complete unofficial returns, Thieu and Ky polled slightly more than 35 per cent of the 4.75 million votes cast and more than twice the number recorded for Dzu's second-place ticket.

The 22 observers President Johnson sent to watch the election returned to the United States denying charges of fraud and vote rigging.

"I have never seen an election with such an absence of evidence of fraud," said Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, to a newsman on arrival in Honolulu.

The latest tally gave Thieu 1,638,902 votes, Dzu 800,285, Phan Khac Suu 502,732 and former Premier Tran Van Huong 464,638.

$2,500-$3,000 Taken

Playhouse Safe Is Burglarized

A safe in the Woodstock Playhouse was broken into some time between 12:15 a. m. and 7:55 a. m. Saturday and between $2,500 and $3,000 in cash was taken.

Left Five Checks

The burglary was discovered Saturday morning when the Playhouse was opened at 7:55 o'clock. The burglars left five checks amounting to $74. Silver was strewn about the place.

Under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of Sheriff William B. Martin's staff, the burglary is believed to have been committed by local persons.

Entrance was gained to the Playhouse by use of a crowbar found on the premises which was used to break open a hasp on a door. Apparently in a hurry to complete the job, the office door was kicked down after attempts had apparently been made to force the door with the crowbar. The safe was forced open with the same instrument used to gain entrance to the Playhouse.

Drawers Ransacked

Drawers in the office were ransacked and file cabinets were also broken open. The five checks were found thrown in a desk drawer. The investigation is being continued.

Evidence of Arsonist

$150,000 Fire in City

A fire Sunday night, termed by firemen the work of an arsonist, swept a one-story concrete building located at 21 Grand Street, the home of Kingston City Electric and Supply Co.

The property, owned by Joseph E. O'Connor, Inc., was severely damaged Mr. O'Connor told The Freeman this morning. "Roughly, damage is estimated around $150,000."

The building was used for the storage of electrical wiring. According to firemen, seven engines and two trucks responded to the 8:19 p. m. alarm.

"The fire," firemen said, "was definitely incendiary." Authorities disclosed that the blaze's cause was traced to a pile of rubbish outside the edifice. They said the fire worked from the outside inward, and then gradually climbed toward the roof where it burned wildly.

However, firemen said, some of the damage was caused by heavy black smoke thrown off from the heated supply wire.

Kingston's Detective Division said today the fire showed evidence of an arsonist's work.

They noted the similarity between a fire last week at a barbershop.

Thursday, firemen battled "an incendiary" in the basement of a wooden, one-story barbershop, situated at the corner of Second Avenue and Larch Street.

Police disclosed that the fire erupted when two boxes, filled with rubbish, began to burn simultaneously. The boxes were located in the barbershop's basement, firemen said.

Boxes Feet Apart

At the time, firemen noted that the boxes were several feet apart, casting suspicion upon the nature of their origin.

Compared to Sunday's flames, the fire at the barbershop was small. Damage was slight, firemen said. They noted the barbershop fire was confined exclusively to the basement.

Police said this morning that they are pressing an extensive investigation into the matter.

$2,500-$3,000 Taken

Playhouse Safe Is Burglarized

A safe in the Woodstock Playhouse was broken into some time between 12:15 a. m. and 7:55 a. m. Saturday and between $2,500 and $3,000 in cash was taken.

Left Five Checks

The burglary was discovered Saturday morning when the Playhouse was opened at 7:55 o'clock. The burglars left five checks amounting to $74. Silver was strewn about the place.

Under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of Sheriff William B. Martin's staff, the burglary is believed to have been committed by local persons.

Entrance was gained to the Playhouse by use of a crowbar found on the premises which was used to break open a hasp on a door. Apparently in a hurry to complete the job, the officer door was kicked down after attempts had apparently been made to force the door with the crowbar. The safe was forced open with the same instrument used to gain entrance to the Playhouse.

Drawers Ransacked

262 Reds, 63 Yanks Killed

Heavy Fighting Erupts

SAIGON (AP) — The heaviest

ground fighting in two months was reported today in allied war communiques listing 262 Communists and 63 Americans killed, air strikes against a new target in the Haiphong area and another Air Force jet shot down in the North.

The ground action erupted Monday as allied troops redeployed for battle after guarding South Vietnam's presidential elections. Fighting continued today, particularly in the northern war zone adjoining the 17th parallel border.

Hit Near Haiphong

American warplanes attacked three miles from the center of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong, and pilots reported dropping two spans of a major 490-foot bridge previously on the restricted target list and never before bombed.

Ground fighting in northern South Vietnam, the coastal plains, the jungles and in the Mekong delta shattered a lull that had been broken only by short, sporadic battles in the two months that the South Vietnamese, the Americans and the Communists had been preoccupied with the political campaign.

The election of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu as president may have ushered in a renewed test of muscle on the battlefield.

The heaviest fighting cost the Communists 160 dead and 23 prisoners in a dogged slugging match with U.S. Marines in the coastal plains, rice paddies and bamboo stands about 25 miles below the big American base at Da Nang.

Report 1,000 Enemy

The Marines estimated they had more than 1,000 of the enemy in an area where planes, helicopters, artillery and ground fire could batter the Reds repeatedly.

Latest reports from the battle-

BLACK MARKET — New York's Democratic Congressman Lester L. Wolff, an unofficial visitor to Vietnam during the elections, visits the Saigon black market area yesterday, almost one year after his first tour of the district. Congressman Wolff said that he found the same items on sale in the black market as during his first visit there and purchased several of the items to show to Congress on his return home. UPI RADIOTELEPHOTO.

field said enemy resistance was all but beaten down, and gunships and artillery were sealing off the valley outlets to the plains while Marine tanks plowed into the fray.

Marine losses in 24 hours were 54 dead and 84 wounded and the fighting was continuing. Air Force, Navy and Marine jets carried the air war deep into North Vietnam with 127 raids Monday. The Marines pounded Red gun positions above the demilitarized zone. The Air Force hit rail lines leading from Hanoi to Red China and the carrier-based Navy planes swept into the heavily defended skies above Haiphong.

Ballot Rigging Charges Denied By Ky Office

SAIGON (AP) — A spokesman for South Vietnam's victorious military ticket has brushed off charges by defeated civilian candidates that the presidential election was rigged. U.S. observers sent by President Johnson agreed that the voting Sunday was fair.

Seven of the 10 civilian presidential candidates charged fraud in the balloting. Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran second, said he would demand that the Constituent Assembly void the election as a "nationwide fraud."

A spokesman for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, vice president-elect on the ticket headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, commented: "If Dzu has proof that there was fraud, let him go ahead. If there was fraud, we would have had a bigger margin."

In virtually complete unofficial returns, Thieu and Ky polled slightly more than 35 per cent of the 4.75 million votes cast and more than twice the number recorded for Dzu's second-place ticket.

The 22 observers President Johnson sent to watch the election returned to the United States denying charges of fraud and vote rigging.

"I have never seen an election with such an absence of evidence of fraud," said Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, to a newsman on arrival in Honolulu.

The latest tally gave Thieu 1,638,902 votes, Dzu 800,285, Phan Khac Suu 502,732 and former Premier Tran Van Huong 464,638.

HEY KIDS! Vacations Over, School Resumes Wednesday

BY JEAN F. DOLAN

School bells ring and mothers sing—it's back to school tomorrow for Mid-Hudson area youngsters.

Most schools open for full day sessions Wednesday with Rondout Valley Central students getting a half-day breather. After morning sessions Wednesday, they will start full time Thursday.

In Saugerties, elementary students will have a full day while the teenagers get a break. Junior and senior high school students will have a 7:45 to 10:45 a. m. session Wednesday only, with a full schedule thereafter.

Enrollments Up

Increased enrollments and construction projects mark the overall school scene this fall. In Kingston Schools Consolidated construction is underway on the new Lake Katrine building and plans are progressing for the contemplated Zena area school.

Kingston Consolidated enrollment is expected to be 10,250 tomorrow for Mid-Hudson area youngsters.

New Paltz Central School District anticipates the opening of the new high school on South Putt Corners Road, one mile south of Route 299. Enrollment this fall in kindergarten through 12 is anticipated to be 1,500, a four per cent increase over last year.

John A. Coleman Catholic High School, which opened its co-educational facilities last year on the campus of the former Academy of St. Ursula, expects an enrollment of 310 as compared to 249 last year. Sister Mary Gerald, principal, reports construction of the permanent building on Hurley Avenue is well ahead of schedule and it is expected to be in use sometime during this academic year.

Across the river, Red Hook Central School expects to put its Mill Road Elementary School in use by the Christmas holidays. Enrollment is up by 150, making a total of 2,000 in k-12.

Saugerties Schools anticipate an enrollment of 3,900—140 more pupils than last fall. Onteora Central School's 2,900 students will trek back to classes at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Other Starting Times

Other starting times will be as follows: Kingston Schools Consolidated—9 a. m. to 3 p. m. with homerooms open at 8:45 a. m. Kindergarten sessions 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and 12:30 to 3 p. m. Coleman High School—Opening 8:25 a. m. for full day session. Rondout Valley—High School

Kindergarten sessions are Main Street and Morse, 8 to 10:15; 10:45 to 1 and 1:45 to 4 p. m. At Glasco, 8:30 to 11:05 a. m. and 12:30 to 2:45 p. m. Mt. Marion, 8:10 to 10:25 a. m.; 10:45 to 1 and 1:45 to 4 p. m.

While high school and elementary students end their summer vacation tomorrow, college students still have a week or two of reprieve. Ulster County Community College will begin classes on the new Stone Ridge campus Sept. 18 with an estimated enrollment of 1,500 full and part-time students.

Registration will be held next week in the George Clinton Administration building at Stone Ridge. Hours will be Tuesday 9 a. m. to noon; Wednesday 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. and Thursday 9 to 1 for full time students and Tuesday and Wednesday 6 to 9 p. m. for evening students. Incoming freshmen registered earlier this summer during orientation sessions.

In addition to evening classes in Kingston and Stone Ridge, the community college will offer extension courses at Ellenville, Saugerties and Woodstock Elementary Schools.

Liberals Advocate

Free College Tuition

Ulster County's Liberal party has come out for free tuition for the State University of New York.

The action was taken during a recent meeting of the party when the resolution, calling for free tuition, was unanimously passed by the membership.

The Liberals pointed out that the State University has had a long history of free tuition and that "there is no justification for a State University that does not offer opportunities that private colleges cannot."

The party, in the tuition resolution, said that student loans "place youngsters in debt before they are even of legal age."

It was pointed out that "few income students can afford even minimal tuitional colleges," and that "scholarships do not necessarily go to the neediest individuals."

Citing the "continuing need for more and better trained teachers," the resolution further stated that "graduates from the State University system return more money to New York State and its communities through higher earnings and greater taxes on their incomes than if they were discouraged from going to college."

The Liberals will urge "the Governor and the Legislators of New York State to actively support free tuition for the State University College," and they went on record as standing "proudly behind those Constitutional Convention delegates who favor, and are working towards, free tuition . . ."

Misses Mark

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Visitors at the Utah State Fair Monday night missed the landing of one of the skydivers in an exhibition, but not because they weren't watching.

John Baker, 32, a member of the Alta Jump School, was blown by light winds off target and landed two blocks away in some power lines. The sheriff's office said Baker was not injured but power company officials were called to untangle his parachute from the lines.

Many Unsettled Issues

Time Running Out for Auto Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Union and company bargainers are faced with scores of unsettled issues and little time in which to resolve them if a strike by the United Auto Workers against the Ford Motor Co. is to be averted.

Pact Ends Wednesday — Negotiators return to the bargaining table today. The current contract expires at midnight Wednesday.

Walter P. Reuther, union president, has promised that his 160,000 UAW members employed by Ford will walk off the job if the union does not win the contract it wants to use as a pattern for the other members of the automotive Big Three, General Motors and Chrysler.

The union is awaiting a response from GM to a union proposal that the contract covering 375,000 GM workers be extended if no agreement is reached at Ford.

A similar union proposal is expected to be made to Chrysler, which employs about 100,000 UAW members.

If Ford is struck, the union would allow the other two companies to continue to operate.

Reuther said Monday his men would strike even if President Johnson asks them not to.

Practically no agreements have been reached on what the union calls its "longest and most ambitious" list of wage demands ever made.

Only Observing

A team of federal mediators entered the talks Monday, the first time in more than 20 years that federal officials have sat in at this stage of negotiations.

It appeared, however, that William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and two of his aides are only observing.

"I think the Ford Motor Co. has decided they want a strike," Reuther charged, "and I think they're going to get one."

"I can think of no conceivable reason why the Ford Motor Co. would want a strike," replied Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations.

A shutdown of the firm would idle workers in 27 states and would knock Ford out of production of 1968-model cars with only 85,000 in the hands of dealers. Ford normally makes about 50,000 cars a week.

Among the top UAW demands are paying workers a monthly salary as the basis of a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage boost and equal pay for American and Canadian workers.

The union has rejected the companies' offer to increase wages by 13 cents an hour, then to increase them by 2.8 per cent each year. In wages and fringe benefits, the average worker now makes about $4.70 an hour.

Pact Ends Wednesday
Negotiators return to the bargaining table today. The current contract expires at midnight Wednesday.

Walter P. Reuther, union president, has promised that his 160,000 UAW members employed by Ford will walk off the job if the union does not win the contract it wants to use as a pattern for the other members of the automotive Big Three, General Motors and Chrysler.

The union is awaiting a response from GM to a union proposal that the contract covering 375,000 GM workers be extended if no agreement is reached at Ford.

A similar union proposal is expected to be made to Chrysler, which employs about 100,000 UAW members.

If Ford is struck, the union would allow the other two companies to continue to operate.

Reuther said Monday his men would strike even if President Johnson asks them not to.

Practically no agreements have been reached on what the union calls its "longest and most ambitious" list of wage demands ever made.

Only Observing

A team of federal mediators entered the talks Monday, the first time in more than 20 years that federal officials have sat in at this stage of negotiations.

It appeared, however, that William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and two of his aides are only observing.

"I think the Ford Motor Co. has decided they want a strike," Reuther charged, "and I think they're going to get one."

"I can think of no conceivable reason why the Ford Motor Co. would want a strike," replied Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations.

A shutdown of the firm would idle workers in 27 states and would knock Ford out of production of 1968-model cars with only

85,000 in the hands of dealers. Ford normally makes about 50,000 cars a week.

Among the top UAW demands are paying workers a monthly salary as the basis of a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage boost and equal pay for American and Canadian workers.

The union has rejected the companies' offer to increase wages by 13 cents an hour, then to increase them by 2.8 per cent each year. In wages and fringe benefits, the average worker now makes about $4.70 an hour.

Lockhart Final Speaker for Home Workshop

James H. Lockhart conducted the summary session at the conclusion of the three-day Workshop for Teachers of Emotionally Disturbed Children, which was sponsored by the Children's Home.

Lockhart, who was born in Kingston and resided here for a year, graduated from La Salle Institute in Troy, received an A. B. Degree in English and Social Studies, as well as a Masters Degree in Education from the State University at Albany and has done graduate work at the university, as well as Sienna College.

Currently, Lockhart is an assistant in the Bureau of Educational Integration of the New York State Department of Education. Prior to this, he was a Junior High School Teacher in both the Albany and Schenectady Public School Systems and served as a field representative of the State Education Department's Division of Intercultural Relations.

Lockhart, who has long been active in the N.A.A.C.P., holding both local and state-wide office spent two years in the U. S. Naval Reserve and served as an instructor in the U. S. Armed Forces Institute.

A member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, an elected delegate to the Albany County Anti-Poverty Agency, Lockhart was appointed by Governor Rockefeller to the Albany County Council of the State Commission for Human Rights. He and his wife, the former Esther Murphy of Troy reside with their two daughters in Westmere. Lockhart is the author of a number of published articles, among the most recent, Profiles in Rhyme: Great Negroes.

Liberals Advocate

Free College Tuition

Ulster County's Liberal party has come out for free tuition for the State University of New York.

The action was taken during a recent meeting of the party when the resolution, calling for free tuition, was unanimously passed by the membership.

The Liberals pointed out that the State University has had a long history of free tuition and that "there is no justification for a State University that does not offer opportunities that private colleges cannot."

The party, in the tuition resolution, said that student loans "place youngsters in debt before they are even of legal age."

It was pointed out that "few income students can afford

even minimal tuitional colleges," and that "scholarships do not necessarily go to the neediest individuals."

Citing the "continuing need for more and better trained teachers," the resolution further stated that "graduates from the State University system return more money to New York State and its communities through higher earnings and greater taxes on their incomes than if they were discouraged from going to college."

The Liberals will urge "the Governor and the Legislators of New York State to actively support free tuition for the State University College," and they went on record as standing "proudly behind those Constitutional Convention delegates who favor, and are working towards, free tuition . . ."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Visitors at the Utah State Fair Monday night missed the landing of one of the skydivers in an exhibition, but not because they weren't watching.

John Baker, 32, a member of the Alta Jump School, was blown by light winds off target and landed two blocks away in some power lines. The sheriff's office said Baker was not injured but power company officials were called to untangle his parachute from the lines.

'School's Open' Campaign

Ulster County motorists have more than 20,000 reasons to heed the appeal of the Automobile Club of New York's "School's Open—Drive Carefully" annual campaign. Safety-minded persons join with the auto association and police agencies in warning operators of motor vehicles to go slow and slow down for school zones.

Each of the reasons is a boy or girl who will be crossing streets to and from schools throughout Ulster County this fall term.

The danger of traffic accidents involving school children is greatest during the first few weeks of the new school year. Fresh from vacation, children may forget to be cautious and it is up to motorists to help safeguard them by driving extra carefully.

The Automobile Club of New York together with affiliated clubs throughout the state initiated their first "School's Open" campaign in 1946. The program has been conducted ever since with excellent results. The campaign's success may be gauged by a look at official statistics which show a marked reduction in traffic fatalities among children from 5 to 14 years of age in New York State in every year since 1945, the year before the first campaign. During the same period, both motor vehicle registrations and the school population have risen to all-time highs.

The more than 22,500 posters being displayed at major intersections, business and shopping districts and school crossings are but a part of the Auto Club's fall safety effort. The posters will be augmented by 160,000 bumper strips carrying the "School's Open" message on public, private and commercial vehicles. Then, too, AAA-sponsored School Safety Patrol boys and girls will be stationed at school crossings to assist police and civilian guards.

This safety program deserves the whole-hearted support of all persons interested in traffic safety.

Oil Seizure, Algeria's nationalization of American-owned oil companies hit only those engaged in refining and marketing oil. France, the major producer, was not disturbed. The move was more political than economic.

'Welfare Rights'

So firmly established in America has welfare become as a way of life, that more than a thousand welfare recipients have conducted a mass lobby of Congress and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to demand withdrawal of some mild restrictions put on those who now draw welfare.

They were not received by any of the 17 Senators they had invited to hear their plight. Not even Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits, perhaps the two most open minded on the subject of welfare in the Capitol, heard them. They sent staff members.

That was probably the most significant sign of the changing mood of the Congress. Reports that welfare has become a way of life for families into the second and third generations, that hundreds of thousands of people are rushing onto welfare rolls from all corners of the country, that many able-bodied among them are unwilling to work for their keep, had roused the House to enact the bill these recipients wanted the Senate to reject so that it would not become law.

Last year, the welfare recipients went to Washington to demand an improvement in their benefits and to extend them to persons not covered by law. This year, they went to stop a deterioration in their own benefits. In each instance, they called them their rights. They denounced the House-passed legislation as betrayal of the poor, a declaration of war on our families, and a fraud on the future of our nation.

The bill would limit aid to families with dependent children by freezing the present ratio of welfare children according to the total number of children in the state. It would put a limitation on the grants paid to mothers of children born out of wedlock. Also, it would require employable adults on welfare rolls to take training and jobs. Those are anathema to people who have had all their wants furnished them without question by a welfare state more concerned with their vote than with safeguarding the purse of the taxpayers.

To encourage Puerto Ricans to enlist in the police department, New York cut the height limit one inch to 5 feet 7 inches. If the Puerto Ricans don't respond, the height minimum will be restored to 5 feet 8 inches. Puerto Ricans are numerous enough in New York to deserve the concession but they will have to show whether they want it enough to join the force.

For 50 years, the Communist government of the Soviet Union tried with all its resources to stamp out religion as the "opiate of the people." A recent survey in Kazan, a city of 900,000 people 450 miles east of Moscow, showed that 21 per cent profess they have a religion. Officialdom cannot kill God and his worship.

Rift Over Use of Air Power

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Resentment is building up throughout the country because the Johnson administration has not allowed the war in Vietnam to be fought effectively and vigorously by the United States armed services, as recommended unanimously by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. At the recent convention of War Veterans in Boston, a large number of delegates to the American Legion meeting manifested a bitterness unprecedented in previous years.

President Johnson apparently doesn't realize what has been going on between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense McNamara. The President insists that there is "no deep division" between Mr. McNamara and himself and the Joint Chiefs. But the subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, after three weeks of hearings, in which top military officers testified, has come to the conclusion that a serious blunder has been made. The eight members of the subcommittee — five Democrats and three Republicans — are unanimous in their denunciation of the President's policy, and charge him openly with having failed to heed military advice. The subcommittee. In its report, says in part:

"Targets on the Joint Chiefs of Staff list could not be hit without the approval of the Secretary of Defense and other high civilian authority. As a result, during the entire year of 1966 less than one per cent of the total sorties flown against North Vietnam were against fixed targets on the JSC target list."

The subcommittee adds: "In our hearings we found a sharp difference of opinion between the civilian authority and the top-level military witnesses who appeared before the subcommittee over how and when our air power should be employed against North Vietnam. In that difference we believe we also found the roots of the persistent deterioration of public confidence in our air power, because the plain facts as they unfolded in the testimony demonstrated clearly that civilian authority constantly overruled the unanimous recommendations of military commanders and the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a systematic, timely, and hard-hitting integrated air campaign against the vital North Vietnam targets."

"Instead, and for policy reasons, we have employed military aviation in a carefully controlled, restricted and graduated buildup of bombing pressure which discounted the professional judgment of our best military experts and substituted civilian judgment in the details of target selection and the timing of strikes. We shackled the true potential of air power and permitted the buildup of what has become the world's most formidable anti-aircraft defenses."

"We have not lost, but we have not achieved our objectives and the war goes on. The price we have exacted from North Vietnam for its continued aggression is one that it is still willing to pay and the level of interdiction of the southward flow of men and material has permitted enough infiltration to enable the enemy to continue to fight in the South."

The subcommittee states that the military chiefs are confident that the port of Haiphong can be closed, the land lines of communication to China interdicted, and Hanoi's receipt and distribution of "war-sustaining material" greatly reduced by the planes of the Air Force and the Navy. But this is not being permitted.

Thus the "credibility gap" in Washington is widening. The administration is arguing that there is no serious rift between civilian leaders and the military chiefs. The President declares that during the 36 years he has been in Washington and associated with the military, he has never known a period when he thought "there was more harmony, more general agreement, and a more cooperative attitude or when there were more able men in control."

The members of the Senate Subcommittee would agree that there never was more harmony among the military men, but they do not agree that there is harmony as between the military men and the secretary of defense. Their feeling is that the President has been getting only one side of the story, and this through a member of his cabinet. For Mr. Johnson has not called in the military men alone for direct consultations day by day in forming the decisions which only the commander-in-chief is supposed to make.

War Tax Will Be Trimmed

WASHINGTON — Judging by the mood of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, President Johnson should get his war tax, but it will be trimmed down to less than the 10 per cent he has requested.

This will be followed by a big show over tax reforms to quiet the public clamor over tax loopholes. Once the clamor abates, insiders indicate, the reforms will be sidetracked.

Meanwhile, the taxpayers will be stuck with paying the increased costs of the Vietnam war while the oil millionaires and other privileged people continue to escape paying their fair share of the burden.

The oil industry is now putting out the propaganda that plugging the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance won't save enough revenue to be noticed.

But Treasury experts have told this column that $2.5 billion a year drains through the oil depletion loophole. This would go a long way toward paying for more arms and ammunition. The oil millionaires, of course, would rather spend it on air-conditioned Cadillacs and heated swimming pools.

One of the nation's foremost tax experts, whose credentials are respected by liberals and conservatives alike, is ex-Senator Paul Douglas. He has contended that the tax rate could be cut in half without reducing federal revenue a single cent, if Congress would only plug the tax loopholes.

In one of his last appearances on the Senate floor, he declared: "Last year a charwoman earning $55 a week paid more in income taxes than an oil company whose income was $26 million." Additional evidence can be found in the fine print of the New York Times financial columns. Consider this notice which appeared several months ago in the "capital wanted" column: "West Texas ranchman has one-half interest in oil well on his ranch and is selling one-fourth interest to drill additional wells. Income from this oil production is suitable for non-active investor needing 27½ per cent depletion allowance."

For years, oil privileges were protected on Capitol Hill by that powerful pair from Texas, the late Sam Rayburn and his pupil, Lyndon Johnson. The venerable Rayburn as Speaker of the House, controlled appointments to the Ways and Means Committee. No one was admitted to this select circle who couldn't give Rayburn the right answer to one question: "Do you favor the oil depletion allowance?"

Although Rayburn has now been dead six years, his influence still haunts the Ways and Means Committee. A majority of members, in response to inquiries from this column, expressed a willingness to consider tax reforms. But close questioning indicated that they didn't have the oil giveaway in mind.

"I don't consider oil depletion allowances to be tax loopholes," grumbled Rep. James B. Eastland, R-Miss.

"What's one man's loophole is another man's equity," said Rep. Syd Herlong, D-Fla.

"I know how people feel about this oil depletion," said Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., "but I think they are inclined to view it more simply than they should. The return on capital investment isn't red hot, not as much as you would think from the 27½ per cent depletion allowance."

Rep. George Bush, R-Texas, echoed the Texas view: "I do not view the depletion or depreciation provisions of the tax law as inequitable."

The prevailing sentiment was summed up by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.: "Whether or not we could eliminate the 27½ per cent depletion allowance? . . . I am sure that we couldn't go that far."

Model in Race Relations

HONOLULU—The sombre graveyard of sunken ships long ago has been cleared out of Pearl Harbor, but the battleship Arizona still sticks its grim superstructure above the water, and the headquarters building at Hickam Field is still pockmarked with bullet holes from Japanese bombers which flew low on that fateful day in December 26 years ago.

Every so often a new Air Force commander, arriving at Hickam Field, determines to put a coat of plaster over the holes of the headquarters building. But his new broom never has a chance to sweep clean. But such a protest comes from the residents of Honolulu, both civilian and military, that the pockmarked walls are allowed to remain.

Despite these reminders of an attack which aroused people to a white heat of hatred, the people who live and work around these reminders of the past have accomplished a miracle of human relations.

In no city of the United States have so many people of so many different races, some of them from countries at war with each other, lived so harmoniously together.

Skeptical Older Japanese

When Congress was considering Hawaii for statehood, critics claimed the Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese and Philippine population would jar with the predominantly Caucasian race of the United States. Today, it's the mainland that has seen bitter big-city race riots, while the many races of Hawaii, now eight years a state, have set an example of racial understanding.

This has not been easy. Rivalries and national jealousies are not subdued by accident. It takes education, understanding and the passage of time. The older Japanese, for instance, watched with disapproval the enlistment of their sons in the American Army. And after the war was over, they could not realize that Japan had been defeated. Their allegiance was still back in the country where they were born.

What finally won over the older generation, however, was social security. When the pension checks began coming in and they found that their adopted country was supporting them in their old age, they decided it was a great place.

What's happened in Hawaii is a healthy reversal of what's happening on the mainland. In Detroit, Newark, and other big cities, it's the young Negro who is the disillusioned troublemaker. In Hawaii, it's the young generation which is building up a loyal citizenry, setting an example of racial understanding.

All this has not been accomplished without some interesting friction, such as when James Michener, the famed novelist, was denied the right to buy a home in a white neighborhood because he had married a Japanese. This exclusion has largely vanished. Today it's the Japanese who sometimes bar white home buyers or who discriminate against whites in job hiring.

Chinese vs. Japanese

Japanese discrimination against whites is nothing, however, compared with the discrimination between Japanese and Chinese.

When Sen. Hiram Fong, a Republican and one of the major investment bankers in the islands, was notified that his son, Hiram Jr., had married Janet Nishino in Reno last Dec. 23, his comment was not conducive to better race relations. Miss Nishino was the former Cherry Blossom Queen and came from a good Japanese family.

That made no difference to Chinese Sen. Fong. He hopped on a plane to Reno that same day—too late, however, to upset the Japanese-Chinese alliance which Hiram Jr. had negotiated.

The Chinese comprise only 5 per cent of the population, yet do a major part of the big business. An illustration is Chinn Ho, whose grandfather came to Hawaii in the 1870s, whose father was born about a mile from famed Waikiki Beach and who has now built in Waikiki a 1,400-room hotel, the Ilikai, and is building another.

Land on which his hotel stands was offered to Chinn Ho by the Bishop estate in 1955 for $225 a foot. He turned it down. But in 1961 he bought it for $25 a foot. Today it would sell for $50 a foot.

That's the fabulous success story of Chinn Ho and the fabulous success story of Hawaii. The success of the former is wrapped up in the success of the latter, and Hawaii's amazing development has come with statehood, which guaranteed the future, and with the sympathetic understanding among the islands' many races.

Brainwash clues—Pentagon doctors have been studying communist films of U.S. prisoners in North Vietnam for clues to brainwashing techniques. There is evidence in some of the films that the prisoners do not react normally. But the doctors have been unable to determine whether the prisoners have been drugged or tortured. The communist technique is to apply psychological torture, combined with extreme physical discomfort, particularly loss of sleep, until the victim loses control of his emotions.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Count up the dead. The weekend is over. Keep telling yourself that it can't happen to you. That's what I do. Thus far, I'm right and the statistics are wrong. There are hundreds of people who zipped down the highway three days ago who will be making the slow, solemn ride in a hearse today.

Congress complains about the weakness of the automobile. Nobody takes a second look at the driver. There are over 90,000,000 vehicles on our roads. This year, the drivers will kill each other and their passengers at the rate of about 132 per day. In all the time the U.S. has been in Vietnam, America has lost less than 14,000. At home, we kill at the rate of more than 50,000 each year.

In North Dakota, you can get knocked off by a nervous 13-year-old girl, because a child that age can get a driver's permit. She may not know how to ride a bicycle, but as long as her indulgent daddy or mommy is in the car, she can learn how to jam her foot down on the accelerator and get it caught between that and the foot brake.

Too many drivers are either too young or too old. The kids want zip; the old are so cautiously cranky that they often attain the privilege of being killed in low gear. There is something compelling about the site of an accident. Live drivers slow down to study the dead. There is a gloating sensation in looking at somebody else's blood. And a slight aura of It-can't-happen-to-me.

Accidents aren't accidental. They are faults. Sometimes it's the machine; at others, it's the drivers. The car is less culpable. It will continue to hold the road, abused and neglected, shod with bald tires and loose king pins. It has no personality, but the driver has. This is unfortunate. The person behind the wheel is subject to pressures. The afternoon sun hurts his eyes; the car ahead refuses to move out of the highspeed lane; his job isn't going as well as it should; bills are coming in which were not anticipated; the boss has been on his back; the kids are more trouble than they are worth.

Stress shows in driving. The 18-year-old boy, subject at other times to parental discipline, works his hostility off in high speed. The lady for whom nothing turned out right all day hurries homeward to get those pots on the stove before he arrives. The sore head is not going to let anybody get ahead of him, no matter what the cost.

Dead, they exhibit no personality. The police, the ambulance drivers, the reporters and photographers are the ones who see them at peace. I saw them. The young girl on the West Side highway came out of the car with both breasts off, hanging in her slip. She kept talking quietly as though she didn't realize that she was dead.

The Incredible Michelangelo

On my way home from Southern Europe I stopped in Florence. Have you seen, in the Franciscan Church of Santa Croce there, Michaelangelo's small grave with only its simple marker? The great Florentine who made so many monuments insisted on this.

He died with the heartaches of despair: the trapped feeling that sometimes comes to all of us. But, blessings be, despair and personal defeat are not the same. Witness, with solace, the story of this incredible man.

Michaelangelo at 30, with his youthful Pieta and the great David behind him, was summoned by Pope Julius II to begin a monumental tomb for the Pope.

Everything about this prospect challenged the great Florentine's imagination and skill. Then, this vast undertaking, so near to his heart, died aborting.

The Pope was indifferent about payments. Michelangelo grew afraid he might have to pay the immense bills for the materials and his helpers. Julius kept reassigning him to a huge bronze figure of himself or to the Sister Chapel decorations. Despair grew in the artist, a blunt, rough-hewn man who wished to be alone with his art but was constantly importuned — a man forced into a continual ferment.

Bit by bit the monument's size was reduced. And after Julius died the great tomb was not only aborted, but the bronze statue of Julius was destroyed during a political upheaval. Michaelangelo's cartoon of young soldiers bathing vanished and his great statue of David was injured.

Even as a child he had known that Florentine aristocrat Giuliano de' Medici, who sat for Leonardo, was stabbed to death during High Mass on Easter Sunday, 1478, in the cathedral where he prayed. And this knowledge, along with the events which overtook him, seemed to Michelangelo to symbolize his whole life.

By 1516 his evil star was still in the ascendancy. Julius was succeeded by Leo X. The Medici family, too, re-established its influence in Florence. The Medici chose Michelangelo to adorn the family Church of San Lorenzo in an undertaking as vast as his first conception of Leo's tomb.

The Italians have a saying that no one understands his own servants as badly as the master. Michelangelo suffered by this under the Medici and Leo alike. He went to Carrara for his marble. The Medici ordered him to quarries at Pietrasanta instead. He found himself (and his art) impeded by the mechanical obstructions there, and the disloyalty and incompetence of those with whom he was forced to deal. The contract for the San Lorenzo project was rescinded in 1518 and Michelangelo's entire conception came to nothing.

Then, in 1527, French King Charles V sacked Rome, the Florentines expelled the Medici and the great artist was diverted to the banal construction of fortifications.

Immortal Michelangelo was a fundamental element, like Leonardo da Vinci, with the magnificent energy of nature itself. Yet he felt destruction to be the nature of his life. He saw the world not as orderly, as man lives in it, but a constant falling short; man not governed by beauty and truth, but by anxiety, doubts, fears, sin.

This column once before wrote how he then painted nothing for 15 years. But he returned to the Sistine Chapel in his 50s and began The Last Judgment, the profusion of his 300 figures there portraying mankind in its breathless beauty, its weaknesses, its indestructible strength. And his resulting fresco may well be considered the world's most valuable piece of art.

He was 72 when he started St. Peter's, surely the most monumental understanding of the Renaissance. He was old and tired. His nose had been smashed flat in a boyhood quarrel and he had a mutilated face that displayed its own crucifixion—the imprint of misery, of age and toil. But he assumed the added burden of St. Peter's as a manifestation of his religious devotion, and repeatedly refused any payment.

His despair notwithstanding, he designed this largest cathedral in the world as a jubilant fortress of faith, bright and dazzling in the spirit of "Hallelujah!" and dedicated to the reassuring resurrection of the Lord.

Undeafened, Michelangelo died on the threshold of his 90th year.

The Automobile Club of New York together with affiliated clubs throughout the state initiated their first "School's Open" campaign in 1946. The program has been conducted ever since with excellent results. The campaign's success may be gauged by a look at official statistics which show a marked reduction in traffic fatalities among children from 5 to 14 years of age in New York State in every year since 1945, the year before the first campaign. During the same period, both motor vehicle registrations and the school population have risen to all-time highs.

The more than 22,500 posters being displayed at major intersections, business and shopping districts and school crossings are but a part of the Auto Club's fall safety effort. The posters will be augmented by 160,000 bumper strips carrying the "School's Open" message on public, private and commercial vehicles. Then, too, AAA-sponsored School Safety Patrol boys and girls will be stationed at school crossings to assist police and civilian guards.

This safety program deserves the whole-hearted support of all persons interested in traffic safety.

Oil Seizure, Algeria's nationalization of American-owned oil companies hit only those engaged in refining and marketing oil. France, the major producer, was not disturbed. The move was more political than economic.

'Welfare Rights'

So firmly established in America has welfare become as a way of life, that more than a thousand welfare recipients have conducted a mass lobby of Congress and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to demand withdrawal of some mild restrictions put on those who now draw welfare.

They were not received by any of the 17 Senators they had invited to hear their plight. Not even Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits, perhaps the two most open minded on the subject of welfare in the Capitol, heard them. They sent staff members.

That was probably the most significant sign of the changing mood of the Congress. Reports that welfare has become a way of life for families into the second and third generations, that hundreds of thousands of people are rushing onto welfare rolls from all corners of the country, that many able-bodied among them are unwilling to work for their keep, had roused the House to enact the bill these recipients wanted the Senate to reject so that it would not become law.

Last year, the welfare recipients went to Washington to demand an improvement in their benefits and to extend them to persons not covered by law. This year, they went to stop a deterioration in their own benefits. In each instance, they called them their rights. They denounced the House-passed legislation as betrayal of the poor, a declaration of war on our families, and a fraud on the future of our nation.

The bill would limit aid to families with dependent children by freezing the present ratio of welfare children according to the total number of children in the state. It would put a limitation on the grants paid to mothers of children born out of wedlock. Also, it would require employable adults on welfare rolls to take training and jobs. Those are anathema to people who have had all their wants furnished them without question by a welfare state more concerned with their vote than with safeguarding the purse of the taxpayers.

To encourage Puerto Ricans to enlist in the police department, New York cut the height limit one inch to 5 feet 7 inches. If the Puerto Ricans don't respond, the height minimum will be restored to 5 feet 8 inches. Puerto Ricans are numerous enough in New York to deserve the concession but they will have to show whether they want it enough to join the force.

For 50 years, the Communist government of the Soviet Union tried with all its resources to stamp out religion as the "opiate of the people." A recent survey in Kazan, a city of 900,000 people 450 miles east of Moscow, showed that 21 per cent profess they have a religion. Officialdom cannot kill God and his worship.

Rift Over Use of Air Power

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Resentment is building up throughout the country because the Johnson administration has not allowed the war in Vietnam to be fought effectively and vigorously by the United States armed services, as recommended unanimously by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. At the recent convention of War Veterans in Boston, a large number of delegates to the American Legion meeting manifested a bitterness unprecedented in previous years.

President Johnson apparently doesn't realize what has been going on between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense McNamara. The President insists that there is "no deep division" between Mr. McNamara and himself and the Joint Chiefs. But the subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, after three weeks of hearings, in which top military officers testified, has come to the conclusion that a serious blunder has been made. The eight members of the subcommittee — five Democrats and three Republicans — are unanimous in their denunciation of the President's policy, and charge him openly with having failed to heed military advice. The subcommittee, in its report, says in part:

"Targets on the Joint Chiefs of Staff list could not be hit without the approval of the Secretary of Defense and other high civilian authority. As a result, during the entire year of 1966 less than one per cent of the total sorties flown against North Vietnam were against fixed targets on the JSC target list."

The subcommittee adds: "In our hearings we found a sharp difference of opinion between the civilian authority and the top-level military witnesses who appeared before the subcommittee over how and when our air power should be employed against North Vietnam. In that difference we believe we also found the roots of the persistent deterioration of public confidence in our air power, because the plain facts as they unfolded in the testimony demonstrated clearly that civilian authority constantly overruled the unanimous recommendations of military commanders and the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a systematic, timely, and hard-hitting integrated air campaign against the vital North Vietnam targets."

"Instead, and for policy reasons, we have employed military aviation in a carefully controlled, restricted and graduated buildup of bombing pressure which discounted the professional judgment of our best military experts and substituted civilian judgment in the details of target selection and the timing of strikes. We shackled the true potential of air power and permitted the buildup of what has become the world's most formidable anti-aircraft defenses."

"We have not lost, but we have not achieved our objectives and the war goes on. The price we have exacted from North Vietnam for its continued aggression is one that it is still willing to pay."

and the level of interdiction of the southward flow of men and material has permitted enough infiltration to enable the enemy to continue to fight in the South."

The subcommittee states that the military chiefs are confident that the port of Haiphong can be closed, the land lines of communication to China interdicted, and Hanoi's receipt and distribution of "war-sustaining material" greatly reduced by the planes of the Air Force and the Navy. But this is not being permitted.

Thus the "credibility gap" in Washington is widening. The administration is arguing that there is no serious rift between civilian leaders and the military chiefs. The President declares that during the 36 years he has been in Washington and associated with the military, he has never known a period when he thought "there was more harmony, more general agreement, and a more cooperative attitude or when there were more able men in control."

The members of the Senate Subcommittee would agree that there never was more harmony among the military men, but they do not agree that there is harmony as between the military men and the secretary of defense. Their feeling is that the President has been getting only one side of the story, and this through a member of his cabinet. For Mr. Johnson has not called in the military men alone for direct consultations day by day in forming the decisions which only the commander-in-chief is supposed to make.

Count up the dead. The weekend is over. Keep telling yourself that it can't happen to you. That's what I do. Thus far, I'm right and the statistics are wrong. There are hundreds of people who zipped down the highway three days ago who will be making the slow, solemn ride in a hearse today.

Congress complains about the weakness of the automobile. Nobody takes a second look at the driver. There are over 90,000,000 vehicles on our roads. This year, the drivers will kill each other and their passengers at the rate of about 132 per day. In all the time the U.S. has been in Vietnam, America has lost less than 14,000. At home, we kill at the rate of more than 50,000 each year.

In North Dakota, you can get knocked off by a nervous 13-year-old girl, because a child that age can get a driver's permit. She may not know how to ride a bicycle, but as long as her indulgent daddy, or mommy, is in the car, she can learn how to jam her foot down on the accelerator and get it caught between that and the foot brake.

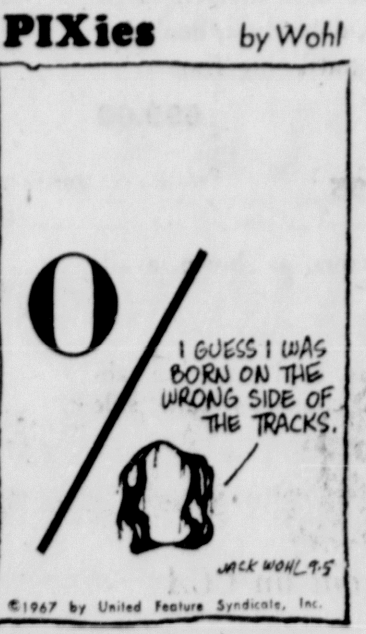

Too many drivers are either too young or too old. The kids want zip; the old are so cautiously cranky that they often attain the privilege of being killed in low gear. There is something compelling about the site of an accident. Live drivers slow down to study the dead. There is a gloating sensation in looking at somebody else's blood. And a slight aura of It-can't-happen-to-me.

Accidents aren't accidental. They are faults. Sometimes it's the machine; at others, it's the drivers. The car is less culpable. It will continue to hold the road, abused and neglected, shod with bald tires and loose king pins. It has no personality, but the driver has. This is unfortunate. The person behind the wheel is subject to pressures. The afternoon sun hurts his eyes; the car ahead refuses to move out of the highspeed lane; his job isn't going as well as it should; bills are coming in which were not anticipated; the boss has been on his back; the kids are more trouble than they are worth.

Stress shows in driving. The 18-year-old boy, subject at other times to parental discipline, works his hostility off in high speed. The lady for whom nothing turned out right all day hurries homeward to get those pots on the stove before he arrives. The sore head is not going to let anybody get ahead of him, no matter what the cost.

Dead, they exhibit no personality. The police, the ambulance drivers, the reporters and photographers are the ones who see them at peace. I saw them. The young girl on the West Side highway came out of the car with both breasts off, hanging in her slip. She kept talking quietly as though she didn't realize that she was dead.

War Tax Will Be Trimmed

WASHINGTON — Judging by the mood of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, President Johnson should get his war tax, but it will be trimmed down to less than the 10 per cent he has requested.

This will be followed by a big show over tax reforms to quiet the public clamor over tax loopholes. Once the clamor abates, insiders indicate, the reforms will be sidetracked.

Meanwhile, the taxpayers will be stuck with paying the increased costs of the Vietnam war while the oil millionaires and other privileged people continue to escape paying their fair share of the burden.

The oil industry is now putting out the propaganda that plugging the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance won't save enough revenue to be noticed.

But Treasury experts have told this column that $2.5 billion a year drains through the oil depletion loophole. This would go a long way toward paying for more arms and ammunition. The oil millionaires, of course, would rather spend it on air-conditioned Cadillacs and heated swimming pools.

One of the nation's foremost tax experts, whose credentials are respected by liberals and conservatives alike, is ex-Senator Paul Douglas. He has contended that the tax rate could be cut in half without reducing federal revenue a single cent, if Congress would only plug the tax loopholes.

In one of his last appearances on the Senate floor, he declared: "Last year a charwoman earning $35 a week paid more in income taxes than an oil company whose income was $26 million." Additional evidence can be found in the fine print of the New York Times financial columns. Consider this notice which appeared several months ago in the "capital wanted" column: "West Texas as ranchman has one-half interest in oil well on his ranch and is selling one-fourth interest to drill additional wells. Income from this oil production is suitable for non-active investor needing 27½ per cent depletion allowance."

For years, oil privileges were protected on Capitol Hill by that powerful pair from Texas, the late Sam Rayburn and his pupil, Lyndon Johnson. The venerable Rayburn as Speaker of the House, controlled appointments to the Ways and Means Committee. No one was admitted to this select circle who couldn't give Rayburn the right answer to one question: "Do you favor the oil depletion allowance?"

Although Rayburn has now been dead six years, his influence still haunts the Ways and Means Committee. A majority of members, in response to inquiries from this column, expressed a willingness to consider tax reforms. But close questioning indicated that they didn't have the oil giveaway in mind.

"I don't consider oil depletion allowances to be tax loopholes," grumbled Rep. James Battin, R-Mont. "What's one man's loophole is another man's equity," said Rep. Syd Herlong, D-Fla.

"I know how people feel about this oil depletion," said Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., "but I think they are inclined to view it more simply than they should. The return on capital investment isn't red hot, not as much as you would think from the 27½ per cent depletion allowance."

Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., echoed the Texas view: "I do not view the depletion or depreciation provisions of the tax law as inequitable."

The prevailing sentiment was summed up by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.: "Whether or not we could eliminate the 27½ per cent depletion allowance? . . . I am sure that we couldn't get that far."

Model in Race Relations

HONOLULU—The sombre graveyard of sunken ships long ago has been cleared out of Pearl Harbor, but the battleship Arizona still sticks its grim superstructure above the water, and the headquarters building at Hickham Field is still pockmarked with bullet holes from Japanese bombers which flew low on that fateful day in December 26 years ago.

Every so often a new Air Force commander, arriving at Hickham Field, determines to put a coat of plaster over the holes of the headquarters building. But his new broom never has a chance to sweep clean. But such a protest comes from the residents of Honolulu, both civilian and military, that the pockmarked walls are allowed to remain.

Despite these reminders of an attack which aroused people to a white heat of hatred, the people who live and work around these reminders of the past have accomplished a miracle of human relations.

In no city of the United States have so many people of so many different races, some of them from countries at war with each other, lived so harmoniously together.

Skeptical Older Japanese

When Congress was considering Hawaii for statehood, critics claimed the Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese and Philippine population would jar with the predominantly Caucasian race of the United States. Today, it's the mainland that has seen bitter big-city race riots, while the many races of Hawaii, now eight years a state, have set an example of racial understanding.

This has not been easy. Rivalries and national jealousies are not subdued by accident. It takes education, understanding and the passage of time. The older Japanese, for instance, watched with disapproval the enlistment of their sons in the American Army. And after the war was over, they could not realize that Japan had been defeated. Their allegiance was still back in the country where they were born.

What finally won over the older generation, however, was social security. When the pension checks began coming in and they found that their adopted country was supporting them in their old age, they decided it was a great place.

What's happened in Hawaii is a healthy reversal of what's happening on the mainland. In Detroit, Newark, and other big cities, it's the young Negro who is the disillusioned troublemaker. In Hawaii, it's the young generation which is building up a loyal citizenry, setting an example of racial understanding.

All this has not been accomplished without some interesting friction, such as when James Michener, the famed novelist, was denied the right to buy a home in a white neighborhood because he had married a Japanese. This exclusion has largely vanished. Today it's the Japanese who sometimes bar white home buyers or who discriminate against whites in job hiring.

Chinese vs. Japanese

Japanese discrimination against whites is nothing, however, compared with the discrimination between Japanese and Chinese.

When Sen. Hiram Fong, a Republican and one of the major investment bankers in the islands, was notified that his son, Hiram Jr., had married Janet Nishino in Reno last Dec. 23, his comment was not conducive to better race relations. Miss Nishino was the former Cherry Blossom Queen and came from a good Japanese family.

That made no difference to Chinese Sen. Fong. He hoped on a plane to Reno that same day—too late, however, to upset the Japanese-Chinese alliance which Hiram Jr. had negotiated.

The Chinese comprise only 5 per cent of the population, yet do a major part of the big business. An illustration is Chinn Ho, whose grandfather came to Hawaii in the 1870s, whose father was born about a mile from famed Waikiki Beach and who has now built in Waikiki a 1,400-room hotel, the Ilikai, and is building another.

Land on which his hotel stands was offered to Chinn Ho by the Bishop estate in 1955 for $2.25 a foot. He turned it down. But in 1961 he bought it for $25 a foot. Today it would sell for $50 a foot.

That's the fabulous success story of Chinn Ho and the fabulous success story of Hawaii. The success of the former is wrapped up in the success of the latter, and Hawaii's amazing development has come with statehood, which guaranteed the future, and with the sympathetic understanding among the islands' many races.

Brainwash clues—Pentagon doctors have been studying communist films of U.S. prisoners in North Vietnam for clues to brainwashing techniques. There is evidence in some of the films that the prisoners do not react normally. But the doctors have been unable to determine whether the prisoners have been drugged or tortured. The communist technique is to apply psychological torture, combined with extreme physical discomfort, particularly loss of sleep, until the victim loses control of his emotions.

The Incredible Michelangelo

On my way home from Southern Europe I stopped in Florence. Have you seen, in the Franciscan Church of Santa Croce there, Michelangelo's small grave with only its simple marker? The great Florentine who made so many monuments insisted on this.

He died with the heartaches of despair: the trapped feeling that sometimes comes to all of us. But, blessings be, despair and personal defeat are not the same. Witness, with solace, the story of this incredible man.

Michelangelo at 30, with his youthful Pieta and the great David behind him, was summoned by Pope Julius II to begin a monumental tomb for the Pope.

Everything about this prospect challenged the great Florentine's imagination and skill. Then, this vast undertaking, so near to his heart, died aborning.

The Pope was indifferent about payments. Michelangelo grew afraid he might have to pay the immense bills for the materials and his helpers. Julius kept reassuring him to a huge bronze figure of himself or to the Sister Chapel decorations. Despair grew in the artist, a blunt, rough-hewn man who wished to be alone with his art but was constantly importuned — a man forced into a continual ferment.

Bit by bit the monument's size was reduced. And after Julius died the great tomb was not only aborted, but the bronze statue of Julius was destroyed during a political upheaval. Michelangelo's cartoon of young soldiers bathing vanished, and his great statue of David was injured.

Even as a child he had known that Florentine aristocrat Giuliano de' Medici, who sat for Leonardo, was stabbed to death during High Mass on Easter Sunday, 1478, in the cathedral where he prayed. And this knowledge, along with the events which overtook him, seemed to Michelangelo to symbolize his whole life.

By 1516 his evil star was still in the ascendancy. Julius was succeeded by Leo X. The Medici family, too, re-established its influence in Florence. The Medici chose Michelangelo to adorn the family Church of San Lorenzo in an undertaking as vast as his first conception of Leo's tomb.

The Italians have a saying that no one understands his own servants as badly as the master. Michelangelo suffered by this under the Medici and Leo alike. He went to Carrara for his marble. The Medici ordered him to quarries at Pietrasanta instead.

He found himself (and his art) impeded by the mechanical obstructions there, and the disloyalty and incompetence of those with whom he was forced to deal. The contract for the San Lorenzo project was rescinded in 1518 and Michelangelo's entire conception came to nothing.

Then, in 1527, French King Charles V sacked Rome, the Florentines expelled the Medici and the great artist was diverted to the banal construction of fortifications.

Immortal Michelangelo was a fundamental element, like Leonardo da Vinci, with the magnificent energy of nature itself. Yet he felt destruction to be the nature of his life. He saw the world not as orderly, as man lives in it, but a constant falling short; man not governed by beauty and truth, but by anxiety, doubts, fears, sin.

This column once before wrote how he then painted nothing for 15 years. But he returned to the Sistine Chapel in his 50s and began The Last Judgment, the profusion of his 300 figures there portraying mankind in its breathless beauty, its weaknesses, its indestructible strength. And his resulting fresco may well be considered the world's most valuable piece of art.

He was 72 when he started St. Peter's, surely the most monumental understanding of the Renaissance. He was old and tired. His nose had been smashed flat in a childhood quarrel and he had a mutilated face that displayed its own crucifixion—the imprint of misery, of age and toil. But he assumed the added burden of St. Peter's as a manifestation of his religious devotion, and repeatedly refused any payment.

His despair notwithstanding, he designed this largest cathedral in the world as a jubilant fortress of faith, bright and dazzling in the spirit of "Hallelujah!" and dedicated to the reassuring resurrection of the Lord.

Undeafened, Michelangelo died on the threshold of his 90th year.

The Second School System

On a Careening Roller Coaster Ride Downhill

(First in a Series)

By L. F. PALMER JR.,
NEA Special Writer

CHICAGO (NEA) — Three Julys ago, President Johnson declared that education must become the "first work" of this nation.

Three years later, as millions of pupils across the nation prepare to make the back-to-school trek, what should be America's first work continues to be, for countless principals, teachers, parents, and students, their first frustration.

Many pupils and teachers are about to begin or return to rewarding, meaningful educational experiences.

Millions, however, are wedded to this nation's second school system, the system in the dark ghettos of our cities, large and small.

For them, school is a sham, a road to nowhere.

Consider the torment in this tableau: The mood in the classroom was as gray as the day outside. Ominous clouds hung low with promise of storms. The patches of color which decorated the room, the bright pictures on the walls could not dispel the gloom which had gripped the teacher.

On Roller Coaster

Tension was building and the teacher was on a roller coaster ride. It was all downhill and the controls were under command of an unseen force.

It was a third grade. The teacher: male, Negro. The class: male, female, all Negro. The location Chicago's "inner city"—polite term for the ghetto.

The clock edged toward 2 o'clock, but even a glance in the direction of the timepiece added fury to the teacher's frustration; only a handful of the pupils could tell time.

The teacher winced when one girl asked for counting sticks to solve the problem: 5 take away 3. He silently begged for patience when child after child could not tell him that the words "ball" "bat" "bell" have the beginning sound of "b."

Johnny could not write his numbers from 1 to 10. Sarah could not read, not even from the primer.

This is how it had been all day long, for weeks.

The teacher's insides churned. And the roller coaster careened crazily.

Phil sat up front, to the teacher's right. From the beginning, he had stood out like an amputee in a sea of cripples. In his own haunting way, Phil seemed to radiate the sum total of alienation, the essence of withdrawal which is an affliction of the children of the ghetto.

Phil refused to talk.

On the playground, the teacher often heard his shrill voice, sometimes expressing the joys of childhood, often spitting out the language of hostility.

But in the classroom, Phil—slight of build and with exquisitely inquisitive eyes—remained mute.

"He ain't gonna talk, teacher," the children warned repeatedly. Despite prodding—first gentle, then firm—Phil refused to answer when asked to name a word that rhymes with cat.

He stared at the teacher. But he said nothing. Somehow, his silence became deafening. It drowned out the ceaseless buzzing of 33 kids, the nerve-grating screeching of desk legs scraping the floor, the lit of Tommy's compulsive humming, the irritating sounds of restlessness.

Nearing exasperation, the third grade teacher began to try to teach the beginning sounds of words, an exercise in reading which is basic to the first grade curriculum.

The lesson was interrupted by the plaintive words of a little girl near the rear of the room.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 5, 1947—Mayor William F. Edelmuth was expected to name a woman to the board of education to replace Charles de la Vergne who moved to New York City. Edward Everett Horton was the guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

Sept. 5, 1957 — A notice from the state indicated that rent decontrol would become effective Dec. 1. The Common Council had approved it by a 9-2 vote at their August meeting.

A total of 19,231 children enrolled in area schools for the coming year. It was reported that 5,713 of them were in city schools.

"Teacher, Carl called me a dirty name."

That did it. The roller coaster ride came to a shattering halt. The tensions snapped. And the teacher yelled.

"Don't you kids want to learn ANYTHING?"

Each word was a link in a stormy crescendo, the last rolling out in a roar. The class jerked to a stunned silence as the teacher fled from the room to the faculty lounge.

There he sank into a chair and struggled to sort out his emotions. Emptied of all sensation, numbed by the reality of deprivation, shamed by his inability to cope with it, he was paralyzed by futility.

I know because I was that teacher.

Nine years had passed since I had been so palsied by a confrontation with the human condition. Both times I had been momentarily immobilized by the strange American rite of race.

Edited Negro Weekly

The earlier experience came while I was editor of a Negro weekly newspaper in Memphis. I had gone across the bridge to the West Memphis, Ark., police headquarters on a mission connected with my work.

After I stated my business, the lone policeman on the other side of the counter looked me over and decided to teach me "how to act like a nigger is supposed to act." (I had neglected to call him "sir.")

He jumped across the barrier which separated us and beat the hell out of me.

I staggered to my car, slumped over the steering wheel and cried out of control. Humiliation smothered me. The senselessness of the beating overwhelmed me. Unable to move, powerless to act, I sat there—who knows for how long?—drowning in despair.

Not until I had gained sufficient composure to drive back to my office and write a bitter story about the experience, not until then did I realize why I had felt no physical pain immediately after the assault.

The hurt was all in the soul.

So it was, almost a decade

later, that I experienced this massive trauma, this torment of our time.

This time, after dusting off my emotions, I was to realize that I had not been screaming AT the innocent, deprived, forgotten children of that dark ghetto classroom in Chicago.

I had been screaming out FOR them.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

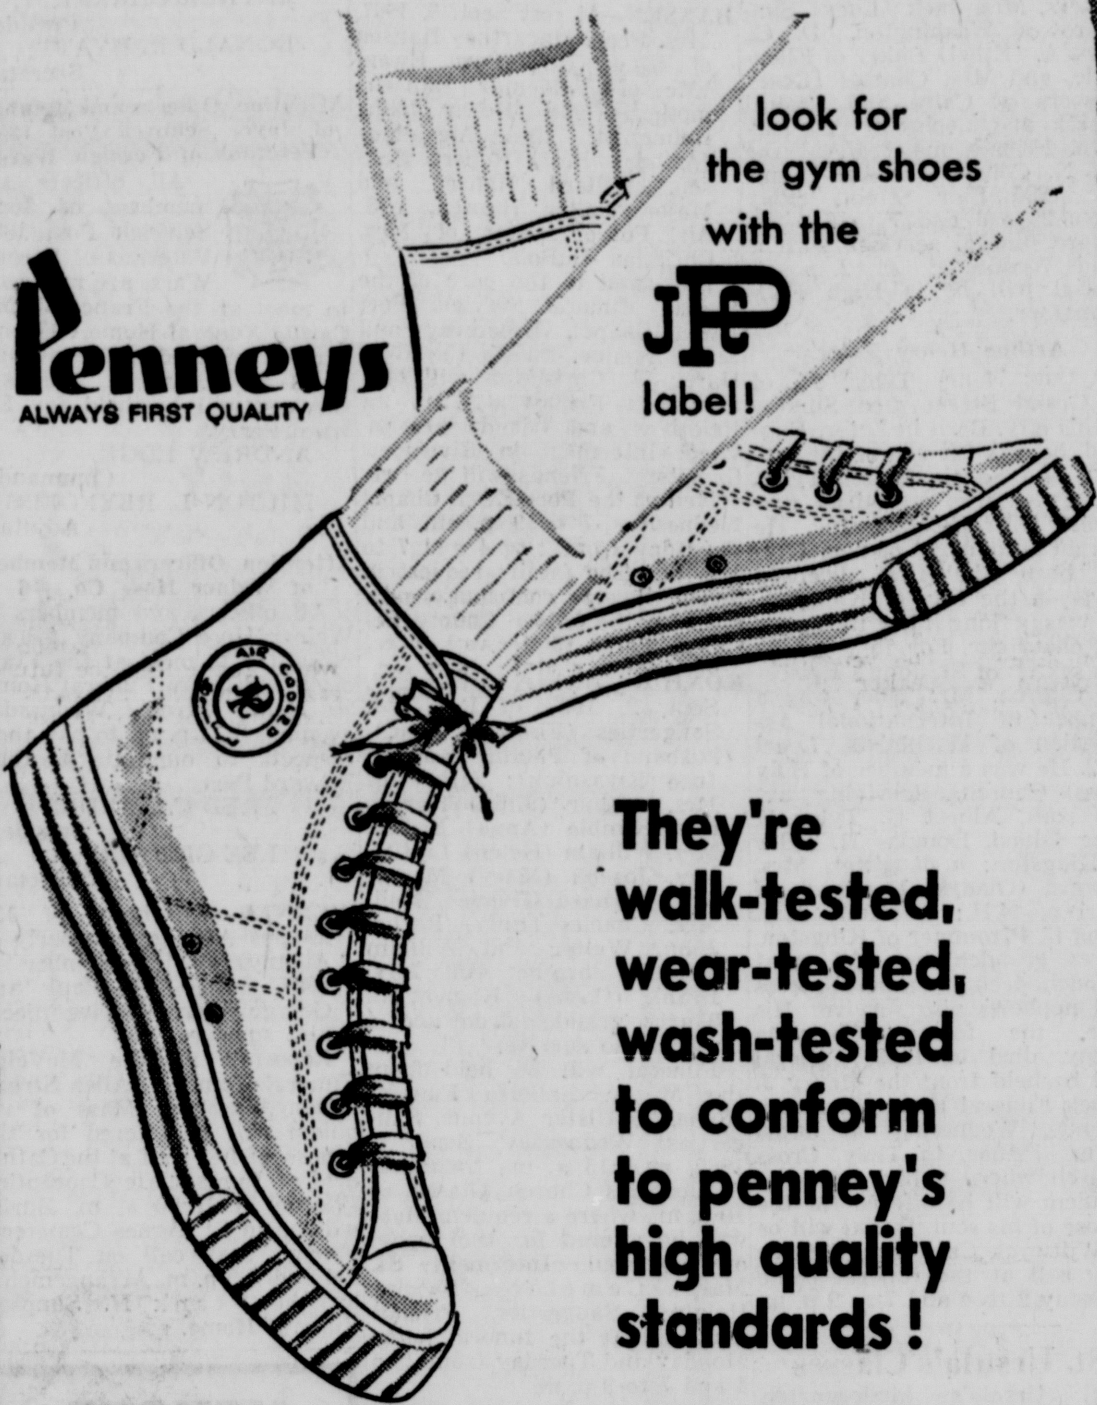

In this year of 1967, with permanent registration, only a very small number of eligible voters have registered so far. Going back to Oct. 30, 1850, in a local press, called the Ulster Republican, I see where they were having the same problem at that time. The 1850 item reads in part, "Your duty to your country requires you to lay aside all business on Tuesday, next, and repair to the Polls to deposit your ballots, for the friends and supporters of democratic principles and measures—the candidates of your choice. Are you prepared for the conflict? Have you seen your neighbors and ascertained to a certainty that they are coming with you? If not, lose no time to see them. Set about the work at once. Delays are always dangerous, but especially in conducting a political campaign."

From the Kingston Argus of Feb. 2, 1887, quoting in part, "The work of a political party was building log cabins and singing songs." The log cabin in Kingston was built on an empty lot adjoining the old Eagle Hotel. The new Ulster County Office Building now stands where the old Eagle Hotel formerly stood.

In the early 1900's politicians did not spend much money on elections. They made torchlight parades to various parts of the city, in person. For weeks before election, Rondout saw parades almost every night by both parties. Most of the speeches downtown were made from the Mansion House balcony and usually drew a large crowd. The many downtown saloons did a very good business on those nights with their nickel beer.

Phil refused to talk. On the playground, the teacher often heard his shrill voice, sometimes expressing the joys of childhood, often spitting out the language of hostility.

But in the classroom, Phil—slight of build and with exquisitely inquisitive eyes—remained mute.

"He ain't gonna talk, teacher," the children warned repeatedly. Despite prodding—first gentle, then firm—Phil refused to answer when asked to name a word that rhymes with cat.

He stared at the teacher. But he said nothing. Somehow, his silence became deafening. It drowned out the ceaseless buzzing of 33 kids, the nerve-grating screaming of desk legs scraping the floor, the lit of Tommy's compulsive humming, the irritating sounds of restlessness.

Nearing exasperation, the third grade teacher began to try to teach the beginning sounds of words, an exercise in reading which is basic to the first grade curriculum.

The lesson was interrupted by the plaintive words of a little girl near the rear of the room.

"Teacher, Carl called me a dirty name."

That did it. The roller coaster ride came to a shattering halt. The tensions snapped. And the teacher yelled.

"Don't you kids want to learn ANYTHING?"

Each word was a link in a stormy crescendo, the last rolling out in a roar. The class jerked to a stunned silence as the teacher fled from the room to the faculty lounge.

There he sank into a chair and struggled to sort out his emotions. Emptied of all sensation, numbed by the reality of deprivation, shamed by his inability to cope with it, he was paralyzed by futility.

I know because I was that teacher.

Nine years had passed since I had been so palsied by a confrontation with the human condition. Both times I had been momentarily immobilized by the strange American rite of race.

Edited Negro Weekly

The earlier experience came while I was editor of a Negro weekly newspaper in Memphis. I had gone across the bridge to the West Memphis, Ark., police headquarters on a mission connected with my work.

After I stated my business, the lone policeman on the other side of the counter looked me over and decided to teach me "how to act like a nigger is supposed to act." (I had neglected to call him "sir.")

He jumped across the barrier which separated us and beat the hell out of me.

I staggered to my car, slumped over the steering wheel and cried out of control. Humiliation smothered me. The senselessness of the beating overwhelmed me. Unable to move, powerless to act, I sat there—who knows for how long?—drowning in despair.

Not until I had gained sufficient composure to drive back to my office and write a bitter story about the experience, not until then did I realize why I had felt no physical pain immediately after the assault.

The hurt was all in the soul.

So it was, almost a decade

later, that I experienced this massive trauma, this torment of our time.

This time, after dusting off my emotions, I was to realize that I had not been screaming AT the innocent, deprived, forgotten children of that dark ghetto classroom in Chicago.

I had been screaming out FOR them.

KERHONKSON FIRE—An abandoned residence on Clay Hill Road, owned by Arthur Markle, was the scene of a fire quelled Sunday by the Kerhonkson Fire Department. Fire Chief Martin Somers indicated that children playing with matches might have been the cause of the blaze which apparently started in a mattress and bed clothing. Damage, although unestimated, was considered slight. (Stephen Schwartz photo)

Fire Destroys Ellenville Landmark

An old Ellenville landmark, dating to canal navigating days, the former Silas Van Wagner building, was the scene of a fire Sunday night at 11:20 p. m.

While Ellenville Fire Company was fighting the blaze, another fire call came in from Greenfield Park where a bungalow, owned by David Levinson, burned to the ground. Napanoch and Woodbourne Fire Departments responded.

Early this morning, at Ellenville, firemen were called back at 4:19 to quell another blaze that erupted from debris arising out of the original fire Sunday.

The Van Wagner blaze was confined to one section of the building bordering Canal Street. It houses a print shop and the apartment of the owner, Elmer Coketele, which was damaged extensively by smoke and water, according to the fire department report.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRICK

Certain people are concerned about the image we create in the uncontrolled 'demonstrations' led by self-styled leaders, many of whom are intoxicated by the sound of their own voices. They deplore the image in the spectacle of ambitious, arrogant politicians who seek prominence at the cost of causing a false image of wide spread disunity among us. They lament the image of unsavory tantrums of corrupt officials. The image of delinquent children and parents prey on their mind. They fret over the image of the tragic tableau of increased crime, of the Godlessness, lawlessness and violence of the jungle seen in many streets. Admittedly, these reports are shamefully true —

BUT — let's keep the record straight! Let it be stressed that the signs and symbols of American demoralization is fashioned by a MINORITY of our people. An overwhelming MAJORITY are decent, law abiding citizens. Let it be stressed the majority have a deep rooted faith in God and believe His justice will prevail. Let it be stressed the majority believe, regardless of a deserved or undeserved image here or abroad, that our land is STILL the best place on earth to live! It is up to the majority to change the ways of the minority and not only improve our image, but make our country a still BETTER place to live!

Flying Saucers Near London Are Student's Hoax

LONDON (AP)—Six 85-pound "flying saucers" found in a line across southern England were made and planted by students at Farnborough Technical College as a hoax.

Chris Southall, 21, who masterminded the project, said he and his chums wanted publicity for their school's Rag Week, during which they hope to collect $5,600 for local charities.

Southall said he and 13 other students planted the silver-gray objects Sunday night at intervals of about 30 miles from the Thames Estuary to the Bristol Channel. Made of molded plastic and fiberglass, about 4 by 3 feet, they sent out "bleep-bleep" signals and gave off a foul smell. Some flashed red and green lights.

There was no panic or hysteria among the finders, who calmly informed the police.

One was flown by helicopter to the Royal Air Force station at Manston for examination. Army bomb disposal men blew another open and found inside two British storage batteries and a British transmitter and loudspeaker to send out the signals.

Southall said the smell came from a mixture of flour and water paste.

"Of course," said one official. "The boys could be accused of creating a public nuisance, but this seems very doubtful."

Deaths Needless In Detroit Riot Study Reveals

DETROIT (AP)—More than half of the 43 persons killed during Detroit's July riot need not have died.

This is the conclusion of the Detroit Free Press in what appears to be the most exhaustive study yet made public of the riot deaths.

The Free Press investigation said that the National Guard "did not obey" orders to unload weapons and fire only at the command of an officer.

"As a result, the Guard was involved in a total of eleven deaths in which nine innocent people died," the newspaper said.

The 24,000-word copyright study was published in the Free Press Sunday.

More than 300 people were interviewed by three reporters, who also studied thousands of documents, the paper said, before coming to the "inescapable" conclusion that "a majority of the riot victims need not have died. Their deaths could have been—and should have been—prevented."

The Free Press said despite the qualification that "no one will contend that men should have behaved rationally during those awful hours," it concluded:

"Both the number of snipers active in the riot area and the danger that snipers presented were vastly overstated. Only one sniper is among the riot victims and only three of the victims may possibly have been killed by snipers. Two of them were arrested and charged with sniping; none of those cases has gone to trial."

Two Days Work

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ludwig Mischlich retired at age 70 after 46 years, 8 months and 21 days with the U.S. Post Office, and in that time he was never late to work and missed only two days on the job. Mischlich said he wanted to take vacation for those two days—used to have two teeth pulled—but his supervisor made him use sick leave.

more than a quarter century ago still are doing business in the United States.

They are the envoys from Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—states over-run by the Soviet Union in 1940 while Nazi Germany was marching against the West.

To this day the U.S. government refuses to recognize the Soviet annexation of the Baltic lands, and both the executive branch and Congress periodically encourage the Baltic missions here to keep their flags flying.

Have Full Rights

As a result, the Baltic diplomatic establishments carry on with the full protocol rights accorded other foreign government representatives in the United States—even though they have in fact no foreign government to represent.

Headquartered in Washington are the Latvian legation, run by Dr. Arnolds Spekke, accredited as minister plenipotentiary and charge d'affaires since 1954, and the Lithuanian legation headed by Joseph Kajeckas, charge d'affaires since 1957.

Estonia's combination legation-consulate in New York City is operated by acting Consul General Ernst Jaakson.

A legation is a foreign mission with a diplomatic rank just below that of an embassy. Lithuania also has consulates in Chicago and New York.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 5, the 248th day of 1967. There are 117 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1774, the First Continental Congress assembled in Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia.

On this date: In 1585, the French statesman,

Cardinal Richelieu, was born.

In 1905, the Treaty of Portsmouth, N.H., ended the Russo-Japanese War.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in the World War II.

In 1945, the American flag was raised on Wake Island after the surrender of Japanese forces in the Pacific war.

considerable work to do even though their duties no longer include normal diplomatic traffic with home forcing ministries.

"We're doing all the obligations of legations except trade," said Dr. Spekke in an interview.

Spekke listed translation of documents for his countrymen here, estate matters and publication and information work among his legation's principal activities.

Guest Speakers

Spekke—courtly, white-haired and goateed—and his colleagues often are called on for speech-making or attendance at ceremonies involving Baltic groups.

Kajeckas, who has been in the Lithuanian diplomatic service since 1929, lists Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston as main centers of Lithuanian settlement in the United States.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the 1960 count showed 6,972 foreign-born Latvians in this country, along with 2,378 Estonians and 6,594 Lithuanians.

The Census Bureau estimates at 892,000 the total Baltic-derivative population in the United States.

On the question of whether their nations ever will regain independence, the envoys keep a chin-up attitude, claiming the tide of history is on their side.

"Nationalism is a driving force all over the world," says Spekke. "It's just an inevitable thing—in due course the oppressed will govern themselves."

Kajeckas says in a similar vein. "If you keep the aspiration alive, sooner or later the time will come."

Tough Driving

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)

—State highway patrol officers say a woman motorist stopped in the left lane of Interstate 494 to fasten the hood of her car during morning rush hour and the result was three cars piled up in one accident, four in another and two in a third. A motorist said the woman drove off with the hood still up and her head out the car window.

Man Creates Family Of Small Businesses

BY JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Eugene M. Lang has created what he calls an international family of small businesses.

He is president of Resources & Facilities Corp., of New York, which he founded 15 years ago. The company specializes in creating overseas manufacturing ventures for small businesses through licensing and joint venture arrangements.

Hardly Tapped
When it grants a license for manufacture of a product of an American company to an existing firm or one being formed abroad, it receives a share in ownership of the concern in addition to royalty fees on sales.

Lang feels that the opportunity for small U.S. manufacturers to enter foreign markets through licensing arrangements has hardly been tapped.

He says that more than 250,000 U.S. small manufacturers who make products with overseas sales potential have no export plans or programs for developing overseas markets.

He adds that most of them lack the know-how, personnel and financing to attempt their overseas voyage or feel their product cannot make the grade.

He points out that if only 10,000 of these small manufacturers were to develop enough foreign markets to average a net inflow of $200,000 each, the U.S. balance of payments deficit would be wiped out.

When Lang's firm began operation its major assets were a new idea in international cooperation and a general franchise from Heli-Coil Corp. of Danbury, Conn., to license the manufacture of its screw thread inserts abroad.

Splits Profits
Today Heli-Coil products are being manufactured under Lang company licenses in nine countries with a 10th — Argentina — due to be added this year.

Lang says his firm represents about 40 American companies and administers more than 300 licenses and joint venture relationships in 23 countries.

He says these relationships have created a composite turnover of more than $100 million annually.

Resources & Facilities Corp., and the American companies it represents split the profits down the middle. Lang says his company's share in 1966 was $7 million.

Boy Burned Saturday Is 'Doing Fine'

Ten-year old Steven Storms, the Quarryville youngster who was seriously burned Saturday after he had thrown gasoline on a fire, is reported as "doing fine" by a spokesman at Kingston Hospital.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Storms, Quarryville, was rushed to the hospital by Saugerties Ambulance on Saturday with burns from shoulders to his hips and on the palm of his right hand.

A neighbor, Mrs. Elsworth Hewitt, was reported to have torn a burning shirt from the boy's body in time to save him from more serious injuries.

The parents were away at the time of the accident.

Wiltwyck Hose Co. Meets Sept. 14

The regular meeting of Wiltwyck Hose Co. No. 1, scheduled for Sept. 7, has been re-scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 14, it was announced today.

The meeting will be held at the meeting rooms, 32 Joy's Lane.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in active trading early Tuesday.

Gains outnumbered losses by 3 to 1 or better as Wall Street went back to work after the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Ford lost a fraction as it was singled out by the United Auto Workers as the strike target in the event negotiations fail to prevent a walkout by Wednesday night.

General Motors and Chrysler advanced more than a point. American Motors was active and up a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead about a point.

6 Are Hurt In City Mishaps During Holiday

Six persons suffered injuries within Kingston City limits over the Labor Day weekend in four traffic accidents, police disclosed this morning.

Those injured included: Joseph Oppenheimer, 23 Oak Street, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for face, head and leg injuries sustained when he was hit by an auto as he crossed an intersection along Broadway.

Authorities said Oppenheimer was found bleeding profusely after he was hit by a north-bound vehicle. Police said the operator of the auto was William Blair of 164 Fair Street.

The mishap occurred shortly past midnight Monday morning.

Also injured was Kathleen Bradley, 22, of 106 Highland Avenue, who was treated at Kingston Hospital following a two-car collision on Broadway.

Police said Miss Bradley was injured when her car collided with a vehicle driven by Robert J. Hoffman, 27, of 68 German Street.

Miss Bradley was pulling away from the curb, 9:25 p. m., Sunday, when the accident took place, police said.

Three persons were treated at Kingston Hospital Sunday morning after an auto struck a utility pole at the corner of Hasbrouck Avenue and Murray Street.

Police said John Watkins, 78, 78 Abel Street, Patricia Marshall of 21 East Pierpont Street and Donald Van Ness, also of that address sustained head and neck injuries.

According to information filed with police, the auto was driven by Watkins. Police said he was traveling along Hasbrouck Avenue, attempted a left turn into Murray Street, when he smashed into the pole.

And finally, Louis Bush, 27, of Bearsville, was treated at Kingston Hospital for face and head injuries sustained in a two-car collision at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Pearl Street. Bush operated one of the vehicles.

The other auto, police noted, was driven by Albert Maurizi, Van DeBogart Road, Zena. Both drivers claimed they had the green light.

The accident took place Saturday afternoon at 12:22 p. m.

Fast Growth Required to Meet Need

Q "We are in the window cleaning business. We have been making expenses and putting a son through college. Our big problem and worry is a younger son who is both physically and mentally retarded. We would like to insure his future by investing some money for him."

A "I have the greatest understanding and sympathy for your grave problem and for the constant concern that it must cause you. Public Service Electric is a sound utility but like others in its group it has been unable to make headway for the past years because of the pressure of high money rates, of which the end is not yet in sight. Franklin National is in my opinion a well-managed and growing institution, but bank stocks as a group have been able to make relatively little progress because they, too, are affected by money conditions."

For your purpose, I would seek fast growth reflected in consistent price gains which seem likely to continue with minor interruptions. For your needs I advise American Home Products and Avon.

Q "In a recent column you mentioned that series E bonds registered in two names as co-owners become the property of the survivor. Do these bonds first have to be included in the estate of the decedent?"

A "I am advised by the Savings Division of the Treasury Department that bonds held by co-owners do not have to be included in the estate of a decedent. There is income tax liability on accrued interest of the survivor when the bonds mature or are redeemed. And remember that the survivor, if he wishes, can add another name as co-owner of the little bonds and perhaps again defer tax liability."

Sergeant R. L. Bourguigno said Charles John Hochstrasser, 29, of the Bronx, pleaded innocent and was held in $200 bail pending hearing.

Man Creates Family Of Small Businesses

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Eugene M. Lang has created what he calls an international family of small businesses.

He is president of Resources & Facilities Corp., of New York, which he founded 15 years ago.

The company specializes in creating overseas manufacturing ventures for small businesses through licensing and joint venture arrangements.

Hardly Tapped
When it grants a license for manufacture of a product of an American company to an existing firm or one being formed abroad, it receives a share in ownership of the concern in addition to royalty fees on sales.

Lang feels that the opportunity for small U.S. manufacturers to enter foreign markets through licensing arrangements has hardly been tapped.

He says that more than 250,000 U.S. small manufacturers who make products with overseas sales potential have no export plans or programs for developing overseas markets.

He adds that most of them lack the know-how, personnel and financing to attempt the overseas voyage or feel their product cannot make the grade.

He points out that if only 10,000 of these small manufacturers were to develop enough foreign markets to average a net inflow of $200,000 each, the U.S. balance of payments deficit would be wiped out.

When Lang's firm began operation its major assets were a new idea in international cooperation and a general franchise from Heli-Coil Corp. of Danbury, Conn., to license the manufacture of its screw thread inserts abroad.

Splits Profits
Today Heli-Coil products are being manufactured under Lang company licenses in nine countries with a 10th — Argentina — due to be added this year.

Lang says his firm represents about 40 American companies and administers more than 300 license and joint venture relationships in 23 countries.

He says these relationships have created a composite turnover of more than $100 million annually.

Resources & Facilities Corp., and the American companies it represents split the profits down the middle. Lang says his company's share in 1966 was $7 million.

Boy Burned Saturday Is 'Doing Fine'

Ten-year old Steven Storms, the Quarryville youngster who was seriously burned Saturday after he had thrown gasoline on a fire, is reported as "doing fine" by a spokesman at Kingston Hospital.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Storms, Quarryville, was rushed to the hospital by Saugerties Ambulance on Saturday with burns from shoulders to his hips and on the palm of his right hand.

A neighbor, Mrs. Elsworth Hewitt, was reported to have torn a burning shirt from the boy's body in time to save him from more serious injuries.

The parents were away at the time of the accident.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in active trading early Tuesday.

Gains outnumbered losses by 5 to 3 or better as Wall Street went back to work after the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Ford lost a fraction as it was singled out by the United Auto Workers as the strike target in the event negotiations fail to prevent a walkout by Wednesday night.

General Motors and Chrysler advanced more than a point. American Motors was active and up a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead about a point.

We would like to insure his future by investing some money for him. We now own Public Service Electric & Gas. Should we buy more? Franklin National Bank has been suggested. What is your opinion? Should we just put money in a savings account?"

A) I have the greatest understanding and sympathy for your grave problem and for the constant concern that it must cause you. Public Service Electric is a sound utility but like others in its group it has been unable to make headway for the past years because of the pressure of high money rates, of which the end is not yet in sight. Franklin National is in my opinion a well-managed and growing institution, but bank stocks as a group have been able to make relatively little price progress because they, too, are affected by money conditions.

R. U.

A) I am advised by the Savings Division of the Treasury Department that bonds held by co-owners do not have to be included in the estate of a decedent. There is income tax liability on accrued interest which becomes the responsibility of the survivor when the bonds mature or are redeemed. And remember that the surviving co-owner can add another name as co-owner of the bonds and perhaps again defer tax liability.

Millions Tour Congress, Get 95 Parking Spaces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tourists finally are going to get places to park near the Capitol, but not in the House's new $13.5 million underground garages or on convenient Capitol Plaza.

Instead, Capitol visitors—who number in the millions each year—will have set aside for their parking needs a tiny 95-space lot in the shadow of the massive Rayburn House Office Building.

If they can find the lot, visitors will be able to park there up to two hours while they observe Congress at work.

Staffs Come First

Additional spaces could have been provided by moving some congressional staff members' cars off the Plaza into the new garages. But no one wanted to do that.

Another possibility, tourist parking atop the two new garages, was rejected several years ago in favor of a $1.425-million beautification project. Congressmen—and visitors themselves—long have complained that the Capitol was the nation's only major tourist attraction without a tourist parking place.

"It is probably the one place in all America that they want to see that they cannot find a parking place," Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., complained to Capitol Architect J. George Stewart during appropriations hearings earlier this year.

But Stewart said he didn't know what could be done because of the demand for places by congressional staff workers. However, Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., of the House's

UCCC Offers Courses at Local Schools; Announces Hiring of Additional Persons

Ulster County Community College will offer college courses at Ellenville High School, Saugerties Junior-Senior High School and the Woodstock Elementary School beginning this fall.

It was also announced by the college that three non-teaching personnel have been hired. They include Herbert Lyons Jr. and Mrs. Jean H. Robertaccio, who will be counselors in the student personnel office and Clarence S. Gutt, appointed assistant to the dean of administration.

Speaking of the extension courses, Dr. George B. Erbstein said, "These extension courses, as a community service, will extend the college's educational services in helping to meet the needs for higher education in Ulster County and, as the need and demand justify, the college will continue to be sensitive to the community's requests for additional extension courses."

Lauds Cooperation

Dr. Erbstein lauded the cooperation the college had received from the three school districts in developing extension courses for the people in their local areas.

At Ellenville High School, UCCC will offer a three semester hour credit course in the Principles of Sociology from 7 to 9:40 p. m. on Tuesday nights. It is anticipated that Criminology will be offered in the spring semester for those who will have completed the Principles of Sociology course.

Two extension courses will be offered at the Saugerties Junior-Senior High School. One, Principles of Data Processing, will be offered on Monday nights from 7 to 9:40 p. m. starting Sept. 25, and the other, Business Principles and Practices, will be given on Wednesday nights starting Sept. 27. Both are three credit hour courses.

Two credit extension courses are planned at the Woodstock Elementary School in the Otsego Central School District. One, History of Civilization I, will be offered Tuesday nights from 7 to 9:40 p. m. starting Sept. 19, while the other, Freshman Composition I, will be offered on Thursday nights from 7 to 9:40 p. m. starting Sept. 21.

Persons interested in taking any of these courses can register on the nights of Tuesday, Sept. 12, and Wednesday, Sept. 13, at Ulster County Community College's Stone Ridge campus.

In describing the responsibilities of the new college employees, Dr. Erbstein said: Lyons will have special responsibility in placement, while Mrs. Robertaccio will have special concern for the area of financial aids and will assist in developing plans for a health program.

A native of Kingston, Lyons formerly was an admissions counselor at the State University College at New Paltz. He has had additional experience as a teacher and assistant football coach at Admiral Farragut

High School, as a vice president for Standard-Rosenbaum, Inc., as a camp counselor and as a warehouse supervisor.

Lyons received his BA degree in political science from Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and his master of education degree with a major in guidance and personnel services in higher education from Springfield College in Massachusetts. He has completed graduate study beyond his master's degree in the area of psychology.

He resides at 50 Mountain View Avenue, with his wife and two children.

Mrs. Robertaccio has four years of teaching and 11 years as a caseworker as well as experience as a student advisor.

Since 1965, she has been a caseworker for the Child Welfare section of the Ulster County Department of Social Services. She has a BS degree from Mississippi State College for Women and an MA degree from New York University.

She also has taken additional courses at the University of Alabama.

Gutt, a resident of Metzger Road, Rhinebeck, has had wide business experience in Cleveland and New York City.

In Cleveland, he served as a sales representative for the Kellogg Sales Co., as a production control clerk for the Champion Rivet Co., and as a methods analyst for the E. F. Hauserman Co.

In New York, Gutt was a methods analyst, assistant office manager and administrative assistant for The American Express Co. As administrative assistant to the firm's comptroller, he mechanized the accounts payable, reorganized a cumbersome filing system, and worked on a feasibility study that resulted in the ordering of the first company computer.

Gutt has a BS degree in management and banking from New York University, and also received training at an IBM Customer Administration Program in Endicott.

Many Passing Up $1 Bill Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a speculative furor, many Americans apparently are missing or ignoring a chance to turn a profit on old dollar bills.

Treasury officials said almost $8 million worth of silver certificates—bills backed by silver—have been retired since July 1 but only $4.7 million were redeemed for silver, which can be sold on the open market at a higher price.

The rest were retired through the normal money circulation process and sent to the Treasury by Federal Reserve Banks.

Some speculators are offering 20 and 30 cents on the dollar to buy silver certificates—paper money issued from 1929 to the early 1960s. They then redeem the certificates for Treasury silver at the rate of $1.29 an ounce and sell the silver at the higher market price—now above $1.60.

During July, officials said, $2.24 million worth of certificates were retired but only $1.16 million worth actually were redeemed for silver.

For August, $5.67 million worth of silver certificates were retired through Aug. 29—the last date for which figures are available—but only $3.56 million worth were turned in for silver.

Because of this process, the Treasury's stock of free silver—the amount not backing silver certificates—actually increased by about 3 million ounces on Aug. 29 when the last batch of retirements showed up in the figures.

This raised the stock of free silver to 103.9 million ounces. The government is selling 2 million ounces weekly and bids accepted Friday ranged up to about $1.64 an ounce that compared with more than $1.80 an ounce brought on the open market in July after the Treasury abandoned its policy of holding the price at $1.29 an ounce to protect the coinage.

The Treasury still redeems silver certificates at $1.29 an ounce and plans to do so until next June 24.

As of last Tuesday, the government estimated there was $389.7 million worth of silver certificates in circulation.

Minister's Son Pedals to Campus

BRANCHPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Benedict whose father, the Rev. Dan Benedict, is minister of the Branchport Methodist Church, said he hoped to average 113 miles a day on the 1,135-mile trip.

To prepare for the trip, the collegian rode his bike 70 miles each weekend on trips home from his summer job at a Methodist training center on Owasco Lake, near Auburn.

Millions Tour Congress, Get 95 Parking Spaces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tourists finally are going to get places to park near the Capitol, but not in the House's new $13.5 million underground garages or on convenient Capitol Plaza.

Instead, Capitol visitors—whose number in the millions each year—will have set aside for their parking needs a tiny 95-space lot in the shadow of the massive Rayburn House Office Building.

If they can find the lot, visitors will be able to park there up to two hours while they observe Congress at work.

Staffs Come First
Additional spaces could have been provided by moving some congressional staff members' cars off the Plaza into the new garages. But no one wanted to do that.

Another possibility, tourist parking atop the two new garages, was rejected several years ago in favor of a $1.425-million beautification project. Congressmen—and visitors themselves—long have complained that the Capitol was the nation's only major tourist attraction without a tourist parking place.

"It is probably the one place in all America that they want to see that they cannot find a parking place," Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., complained to Capitol Architect J. George Stewart during appropriations hearings earlier this year.

But Stewart said he didn't know what could be done because of the demand for places by congressional staff workers.

However, Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., of the House's new parking committee, says the group definitely agrees there should be tourist parking, and has pretty much agreed which lot should be used.

Work on Problem
"The general feeling has been that for congressional visitors that probably a surface place would be more convenient," Sisk said in an interview. "It's just a matter of working out the mechanics." The lot to be used for tourists has not been in use and recently was resurfaced.

Sisk said the two new House garages, which originally were scheduled to open by April 1966, finally will be ready for occupancy about Sept. 15.

Their 1,276 places will bring to 4,015 the total available on the House side of the Capitol. The over-all total, counting 1,888 on the Senate side, will be 5,903.

All of these except the 95 for tourists are assigned to congressmen, senators, staff members, newsmen and Capitol employees.

Questions and Answers on Federal Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My mother receives Medicare benefits. Will I have to count them to determine whether I provide more than half her support for dependency purposes?

A—No. Benefits under Medicare should not be included for support purposes.

Q—Does a return have to be filed for the year a taxpayer dies? If so, who has to file it?

A—A return must be filed for the year of the taxpayer's death. It is due on the same date it would have been due had he lived.

The executor or administrator of the taxpayer's estate, or his legal representative, should file the return.

Q—I have moved. Will the refund I'm expecting be forwarded to me?

A—Mail should be forwarded to you if a change of address card has been filed with your post office.

Q—I just divorced my wife. Will I have to make any change in my tax withholding?

A—If you have been claiming a withholding exemption for your wife, file a new W-4 withholding certificate with your employer dropping that exemption. You are no longer entitled to claim her exemption since you are divorced.

If you have children and are claiming their exemptions you should drop them too unless you expect to provide more than half their support this year. If your wife is supporting them she will be entitled to their exemption not you.

Q—My employer provides me with an expense account to cover food and hotel bills on the business trips I make. Will I have to report these expenses on my tax return?

A—If you account to your employer for these expenses and your reimbursement does not exceed these expenses you will not have to report them on your tax return. Employees who are not reimbursed for their business travel costs should keep records of what they spend and claim a business expense deduction for them when they file their income tax returns.

For details on record keeping, send a post card to your district director. Ask for Publication No. 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses."

Q—I've been keeping a record of the tips I receive. Can I report them at the end of the year when I file my tax return?

A—Tips are income and must be reported on your tax return. They should also be reported to your employer each month when they amount to $20 or more. Based on these reports, your employer will withhold the necessary income and Social Security taxes.

Use Form 4070, available at IRS offices, to report tip income to your employer.

Q—Are fees paid to a licensed veterinarian for the care of a pet considered a medical expense?

A—Veterinarian fees are not a medical expense for tax purposes.

To establish a casualty deduction for storm damage to our home will before and after photos be enough?

A—Photos will be helpful but you should also keep records that show the cost of the home including improvements, the value of the property before and after the storm, the cost of repairs and whatever you received as an insurance reimbursement.

RESTRICTED OXYGEN SUPPLY A CAUSE OF HEART PAINS

(Last of Two Related Articles)

Q—I had a coronary heart attack a year ago. One doctor told me to take Metamine twice a day and another said to take it once a day. What is it for? Is two a day too many?

A—Metamine is given to relieve or prevent the pain of angina pectoris. Two a day is not too many if one a day fails to give you complete relief. Some persons have to take on even larger dosage.

Q—I have coronary insufficiency and arteriosclerotic heart disease. What causes me to have so much pain? Will smoking make it worse? What kind of life can I expect from now on?

A—When any muscle is deprived of oxygen through interference with its circulation there is severe pain. Because smoking causes your blood vessels to contract it will definitely make your heart condition worse. You can expect a good life if you will lay low until your heart has had a chance to recover and if you follow your doctor's recommendations.

Q—A doctor told a friend that she has a heart murmur. What does this mean? Is it serious? Can it be cured?

A—A functional murmur one that is not caused by a structural change in the heart, is of no significance and usually clears up with exercise. On the other hand when the blood flows through the heart over roughened or leaky valves a doctor can hear an organic murmur. This may or may not be serious, depending on other findings. A doctor would not try to cure the murmur but would treat the underlying cause.

Q—What is the cardiac pacemaker?

A—This is a node of nervous tissue with its network of nerve fibers that initiates each beat of the heart. When it is working properly the auricles contract forcing blood into the ventricles, then the ventricles contract. There is a slight pause between successive beats. When anything happens to interfere with the normal rhythm some form of arrhythmia (skipped beats, heart block, fibrillation or flutter) occurs. The interference may be mild or severe and transitory or persistent. If it is serious a battery-operated artificial pacemaker can be implanted under the skin.

Q—What is wrong with the heart when digitalis is given? Can it be taken over a long period?

A—Digitalis is given to strengthen the heart action in persons with decompensation or threatened decompensation. Under medical supervision it can be taken indefinitely.

Furniture Polish

Homemakers often ask about furniture polishes they can make at home. You will find good results from the polish suggested below, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. It is easy to make and store.

YOU WILL NEED: Denatured alcohol solvent; fresh lemon juice, strained (do not use canned or frozen juice); olive oil; gum turpentine.

TO MIX: Mix equal parts of the above liquids. Shake mixture each time before using. This polish will keep indefinitely.

TO APPLY: Dampen a clean, absorbent, lintless cloth with polish. Discard used cloth or store in a covered jar or can. They are flammable.

Before polishing, and for regular dusting, use a tack cloth gently. You may make or purchase these at a hardware store. You may apply this furniture polish several times a year.

Tack Cloth

A tack cloth is a handy tool for the homemaker for regular dusting and is suggested for use on furniture before a new coat of polish is applied.

To make a tack cloth at home, take a piece of closely woven cheesecloth and wash it several times. Dip the cloth in warm water, wring it out slightly to prevent dripping, wet the cloth with turpentine and shake it out loosely.

Dribble varnish freely over the surface of the cloth, then fold and twist it into a tight roll to force out the water and to allow the varnish and turpentine to saturate the pores. Repeat the twisting a second time. Use enough varnish to make the cloth quite yellow. It should be sticky enough to pick up dust, but dry enough not to leave moisture on the furniture.

If it should dry out in the using, sprinkle a few drops of turpentine and water over it. If it is too moist, shake it out in the air for a few minutes. Rough edges should always be folded inside as the cloth is used.

A tack cloth will last a long time if it is not allowed to dry out. It should be kept in a covered jar, small enough to prevent air from drying it.

Combination Careers

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Marguerite Fleming, a teacher of eighth-grade English and science in the daytime, literally lets down her hair when she sings in a coffee house at night.

Two nights a week she releases her hair, which falls to her waist, from its pinned-up schoolroom style. She takes up her guitar to perform as a folksong artist.

Miss Fleming finds her two careers have much in common and has introduced folksinging in her classes. "There's nothing like singing to bring out the rhythm and musical words of a poem," she says.

Health for All

FLU SEASON AHEAD

"That time of year" isn't very far off—the winter season with its threats of serious flu outbreaks.

This year the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, Dr. William H. Stewart, is rather emphatic about the danger. Flu cases may be expected in "substantial numbers," he warns.

Which flu bug is the bugaboo this time? Much of the trouble is likely to be caused by type A-2, according to Dr. Stewart. Fortunately, we the people aren't defenseless. An improved vaccine has been found effective against disease agent A-2, and promises better protection than any in the past.

Meanwhile, back at the Public Health Service, it is urgently suggested that those in need of flu immunization should take care of the matter right after October 1st if possible. A little time is required for the vaccine to take effect.

Who are the people that need immunization? PHS is specific about it: (a) those 45 years old or more, and particularly those over 65; (b) those who have chronic illness; (c) patients in nursing homes, chronic disease hospitals, and comparable places; (d) pregnant women.

If you are in any of these groups, and haven't been vaccinated against flu since 1963, you should have the new vaccine—two injections, a month apart. If you have been immunized since July 1963, all you need is a single booster of the new vaccine.

The National Tuberculosis Association and your local Christmas Seal organization, dedicated to fighting all respiratory diseases, recommend early action to protect yourself against the oncoming flu threat if you are in one of the vulnerable groups.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

Now don't laugh! I want to talk to all of you tired housewives who iron pillowcases.

I agree with you . . . they should be ironed. I even like them lightly starched. But some days we just don't have the time.

And guess what? I found a new easy way and I think I should pass it along to you.

If it doesn't get you off to a running start, I'll sure be surprised.

I have box springs and mattresses like most of us do these days. So when I take my pillowcases out of the drier—and I never let them OVER dry—I immediately fold them and carry them into the bedroom. I lift up a corner of the mattress and flop the folded pillowcases between the box spring and mattress!

I just let them stay there until the following week. I have found this to be the most energy-free pressing job you can find! Put a lovely crease in them, too.

I am now using this method to press my sheets, too. Imagine it?

After all, we strip a bed and do the laundry each week. It's far easier than ironing, for us to lift up a corner of the mattress. We've got to anyway.

Just put a foot on the box spring and hold that mattress up with your knee. Put that folded sheet and those pillowcases which belong to that very bed under it. Then forget about them until the next changing time.

This is the greatest. Not only do you save time by not ironing them, but they are right there when you are ready to change that bed. Saves walking to the linen closet each week and according to how many beds you have, lots of linen closet space . . .

You might try it, gals. I know you'll love it. That's the way I keep mine now.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's what I did with one of my old formal:

I made a fancy dust ruffle for our baby's crib.

The full skirt of the dress made the actual ruffle. An inexpensive piece of cotton, which I purchased in the same shade, is perfect under the mattress where it doesn't show.

The dust ruffle is both decorative and useful since it provides hidden, extra storage space beneath the crib.

"Faithful Reader"

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip if you have left over dips from a party.

With the onion or garlic dip, I added just a little milk and mayonnaise to make it thin enough to pour over a tossed salad.

It makes a very tasty dressing that is a little different. Try it when you have leftover dips. You'll like it too.

Mrs. Paul D'Anna

Dear Heloise:

When using a few curlers to pep up a hair-do, or between shampoos of the whole head . . . instead of wetting the hair, simply wet each roller. Give it two or three shakes to remove the excess water, then roll as usual.

The dry hair will immediately stick to the roller and will roll perfectly and dry sooner for a nice touch-up hair-do.

Helen Keith

Dear Heloise:

When my liquid make-up gets low in the bottle, I pour in a small amount of hand lotion and shake real good.

It works well and stretches my make-up. This way a bottle will last me a little longer.

Lina McCallon

Dear Heloise:

When cake layers are uneven in thickness, I squeeze miniature marshmallows together and stick them between the edges of the layers. They will spring back and hold the cake up.

They also keep the layers from slipping after the cake is frosted.

Imel Chaney

Dear Heloise:

Here's a neat and simple way of cutting and scraping fresh corn from the cob.

After husking and cleaning it, I stand the ear with the small end in the center hole of a tube cake pan.

I support the ear with my free hand and as I cut and scrape, the corn falls neatly into the pan.

Sure saves a mess.

Ellen Clark

Dear Heloise:

I had been using the seat belt in our car as a weight-watcher. Then one day I noticed the belt was extremely tight and naturally assumed I had been putting on pounds!

I starved myself for a week before realizing my husband had moved the car seat forward!

"Weight-Watcher"

Dear Heloise:

Being an Army wife I must "think moveable."

I keep my in-season shoes in a plastic holder with a heavy clothes hanger at the top. (The hanger makes moving easier.)

My out-of-season shoes are stored in shoe boxes stacked at one end of the closet.

I label each box on one end for winter shoes and the other end for summer shoes.

Then when the season changes, I change shoes in the boxes and turn the appropriate label in view.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute
THE PROBLEM OF THE HABITUALLY BORROWER

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you do with a neighbor who is a habitual borrower? Her habit has just made me blow my top.

This lady borrows everything from cereal for the children's breakfast to most of the ingredients "she" is using in "her" spaghetti sauce. Friday evening at eight-thirty she came over to borrow my card table for a game at her home.

At nine her daughter came over for ice. At ten, the doorbell rang for the third time and the little girl asked to borrow coffee. That was the last straw.

Besides spoiling my peaceful evening, which I enjoy after putting my children to bed, she ruined a very good movie I had been trying to concentrate on. Please, Mrs. Post, what do I do to stop this and still keep peace? — Mrs. P.

Dear Mrs. P.: There is only one way to stop a habitual borrower. You must consistently be out of the things that she wishes to borrow. If you refuse to help her in this fashion regularly, she will soon get the hint and will turn elsewhere for her supplies.

Guests, When Possible, Belong in Guest Rooms

Dear Mrs. Post: In a recent column, you implied that a man should give up his bed and bedroom to a guest. As a young married man who attends school during the day and works at night, I find my bed and bedroom important to me, in order to relax. We often have friends visit for the weekend and we keep our bed and bedroom of our age group.

I would not expect their bed if we spent a weekend at their home. However, if older people visit, then our room becomes theirs. Is this improper etiquette, not to give company the use of your bed and bedroom? — Bob

Dear Bob: We have no difference of opinion. In the column you mention, the only available sleeping space seemed to be a storeroom which the hostess did not feel mac an adequate guest room. Ordinarily, and especially among young people, no one expects the host and hostess to give up their bed, and the guests accept whatever accommodations are available.

Guest Fees in Clubs Paid by Member

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a member of an outdoor swim club. In addition to paying a $325 bond, I pay $60 annually. The membership entitles me to take 20 guests during the week and 20 on weekends; guests must pay to enter. When inviting guests, I feel awkward not offering to pay and still feel justified as I have already paid a considerable sum. Am I obliged to pay?

Dear Miss K.: Unless your guests insist on repaying you, it is up to you, as hostess, to pay any guest fees. This is true in all clubs, including swimming fees, tennis court fees, or greens fees on the golf course.

Who do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in Elizabeth L. Post's booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this paper.

No Excuse for Visitors' Unrestrained Children

Dear Mrs. Post: We recently had two sets of visitors on two separate occasions, but the problems were the same. While the adults visited and talked, the children roamed the house, going through dresser drawers, closets, and even bringing objects into the living room to ask what they were. In neither instance did the parents rebuke the children or ask them to stay in our presence. I was so angry and upset by this invasion of privacy, that I cannot bring myself to invite these families again. How could I have tactfully let these parents know that I did not like their children snooping through my personal belongings? — Louise

Dear Louise: It is very difficult, almost impossible in fact, to criticize other people's children without causing resentment. However, this is such a flagrant disregard of your property that you would be justified in saying to the parents, "May I get a cookie or game to entertain Jimmy here in the living room where we can keep an eye on him so that he won't hurt himself or get into trouble?"

Girl Postman

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP) — Judy Grodzinsky, a recent high school graduate, is taking her first steps toward becoming a doctor — five miles of steps every day, as a female postman.

She undertook the summer job of carrying the mail to local residents to save up money for pre-medical studies at the University of Vermont. She's already been bitten twice by dogs but likes the work anyhow. And she has made plans to take a short vacation before school starts — a hiking trip, naturally.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT—The longest and the shortest girls of the Miss America Pageant are shown as they met at Atlantic City. On the tall side is Sharon Evans, Miss Arkansas, who is six-foot tall. On the short side, (l) is Kathleen Rowley, Miss Vermont, who is 5-foot, 1/2-inch. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The Doctor Says

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
TODAY'S LEISURE TIME:
HELP, OR HEALTH HAZARD?

Is leisure a curse or a blessing? In ancient Greece Socrates said leisure was the best of all possessions. Much later, England's prime minister Disraeli said, "Increased means and leisure are the two civilizers of man."

How great a blessing it is, however, depends on what use is made of it. We are now confronted with a society in which the greatest increases in leisure are going to laborers while business executives and professional people are spending longer hours at their jobs.

Historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr. said, "The most dangerous threat hanging over American society is the threat of leisure. Those who have the least preparation for it will have the most of it." For the laborer there has been a progressive shortening of the work week, and increasing number of paid holidays and longer vacations. In addition to this there is enforced retirement at an earlier age than ever before in human history.

For his wife there has been an increase in labor-saving devices and a decrease in the size of the living quarters to be cared for. Often there has also been a smaller number of children to be raised.

If a man spends 40 hours of every week at work, 56 hours sleeping and 24 hours eating, dressing, bathing and getting to and from work, he will have 16 hours for leisure. One survey indicated that nearly 70 per cent of this leisure is spent watching television. About six hours is spent reading—chiefly the sports page of the daily paper. The rest is spent visiting friends and relatives, watching sports, participating in outdoor recreation and going to church, movies or Bingo parties.

Despite the untiring efforts of labor leaders many union members and their wives are opposed to any further reduction in working hours and many, if given a choice, would prefer to go on working after reaching retirement age. How does so much leisure affect the health of persons who have had no preparation for using it constructively? One study showed that most suicides occur during the weekends, holidays and vacations.

When boredom does not cause suicides it favors the production of a host of neuroses, sometimes called weekend neuroses. These range from digestive upsets, intestinal bloating and constipation to palpitation of the heart, listlessness, depression and vague body aches for which no organic cause can be found. There can be only one conclusion. Greater efforts must be made to get people to develop artistic, cultural and philanthropic interests that will give a deeper meaning to their leisure time.

Robes for Legs

TORONTO, Ontario (AP)—A judge in a local court suggested to female reporters that if they wished to wear mini-skirts in his court, they should cover themselves in judicial robes as he does. He said bared knees and legs constitute a definite distraction to himself and others in the courtroom.

MOVIE COUPLE—British actress Vanessa Redgrave and her American co-star, actor Jason Robards, make a charming couple as they attend photo session and luncheon in London celebrating the start of filming of the movie "Isadora." Robards portrays Paris Singer, the sewing-machine millionaire, who became her lover. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The Doctor Says

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
TODAY'S LEISURE TIME: HELP, OR HAZARD?

Is leisure a curse or a blessing? In ancient Greece Socrates said leisure was the best of all possessions. Much later, England's prime minister Disraeli said, "Increased means and leisure are the two civilizers of man."

How great a blessing it is, however, depends on what use is made of it. We are now confronted with a society in which the greatest increases in leisure are going to laborers while business executives and professional people are spending longer hours at their jobs.

Historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr. said, "The most dangerous threat hanging over American society is the threat of leisure. Those who have the least preparation for it will have the most of it." For the laborer there has been a progressive shortening of the work week, and an increasing number of paid holidays and longer vacations. In addition to this there is enforced retirement at an earlier age than ever before in human history.

For his wife there has been an increase in labor-saving devices and a decrease in the size of the living quarters to be cared for. Often there has also been a smaller number of children to be raised.

If a man spends 40 hours of every week at work, 56 hours sleeping and 24 hours eating, dressing, bathing and getting to and from work, he will have 48 hours for leisure. One survey indicated that nearly 75 per cent of this leisure is spent watching television. About six hours is spent reading—chiefly the sports page of the daily paper. The rest is spent visiting friends and relatives, watching sports, participating in outdoor recreation and going to church, movies or Bingo parties.

Despite the untiring efforts of labor leaders many union members and their wives are opposed to any further reduction in working hours and many, if given a choice, prefer to go on working. After reaching retirement age, how does so much leisure affect the health of persons who have had no preparation for using it constructively? One study showed that most suicides occur during weekends, holidays and vacations.

When boredom does not cause suicides it favors the production of a host of neuroses, sometimes called weekend neuroses. These range from digestive upsets, intestinal bloating and constipation to palpitation of the heart, listlessness, depression and vague body aches for which no organic cause can be found. There can be only one conclusion. Greater efforts must be made to get people to develop artistic, cultural and philanthropic interests that will give a deeper meaning to their leisure time.

Aiken Thinks Rocky Coming On Strongest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., believes that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is emerging as the strongest candidate the Republicans could pit against President Johnson next November.

"It's looking more like Rockefeller every day," Aiken, 75, said in an interview. "Moreover, he's a willing draftee."

Aiken's assessment of Rockefeller's draft willingness, he admits, is based more on hunch than on personal knowledge.

Rockefeller has disclaimed repeatedly any interest in the GOP presidential nomination in 1968.

Aiken says that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is handicapped by his association with Barry Goldwater's unsuccessful 1964 campaign. The same goes for California Gov. Ronald Reagan, he adds.

Aiken says of Michigan Gov. George Romney: "Oh yes, we've got a political amateur again."

Aiken, who has been in the Senate since 1940, longer than any other Republican, feels that anyone bidding for the presidency is asking for an impossibly difficult job.

"When you come down to it," he says, "no man is being enough for the presidency."

But the snow-haired Vermont thinks that 1968 is the year the Republicans can wrest that impossible job from the Democrats.

"I am inclined to agree with my Democratic friends who openly say that only the Republicans will beat the Democrats in 1968," Aiken says.

He refers to the charge that Republicans sap their strength with internal dissension.

Asked about the prospects of a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket, Aiken says: "It wouldn't be any more screwy than the Johnson-Humphrey ticket."

PHOENICIA NEWS NOTES

Phoenicia School Urges Dropouts to 'Hang on'

The Phoenicia Elementary School today called attention to America's growing "dropout" problem, urging students who are contemplating quitting school to hang on.

The school said that if the dropout rate continues, by 1975 there will be 32 million adults without a high school education. The school said the U. S. economy nor business could afford such a surplus group.

In other Phoenicia happenings, Mrs. Elizabeth Getman, a graduate of the State University of New York at Oswego, will be teaching the third grade class for the year 1967-68. Mrs. Getman is replacing Mrs. Marie McClure, who has moved to Oklahoma.

Mrs. Maryann Dechn of Kingston will teach Grade 2 for the coming year, replacing Mrs. Diana Schlessinger, who retired. Mrs. Dechn is a graduate of State University of New York at New Paltz, where she is presently working on her Masters Degree.

Miss Susan Sturrock, who has been a cadet teacher under Mrs. Flo Epstein during 1966-67 and formerly taught in the Saugerties School, will be replacing Mrs. Cora Ford who has retired. Paul Karasaw will replace Ronald Westervelt, teaching instrumental music in the Phoenicia Elementary School.

Wednesday, Aug. 30 the executive board of the P-TA held its meeting at the Phoenicia Elementary School. Mrs. Jane Rositz presided and Executive Board newly elected officers for 1967 attended for the first time. Principal Robert Maroney, Phoenicia Elementary School, recently met with Mrs. Edna Hoyt, director of Shandaken Community Action Center and reviewed the Federal Title Program for the Phoenicia School year 1967-68. An evaluation of the past 1966-67 program was made at this time also. The Title 1 Program is the individualizing of the reading program for disadvantaged children.

The Ontario Bowling League held its first session of the 1967-68 season and elected their officers for the coming season; President Fred Rosa, Vice President Leroy Winchell, Secretary Edward Grant and Treasurer Edward Huggins.

The league is composed of 12 three man teams which will start competition at the Woodstock Lanes on Monday night, September 11, 7:00 p. m. Howard Sebald was designated as the delegate to the Bowlers Association.

The league will be composed of the following teams: Shandaken Sanitation, Sportsmens Grill No. 1, Sportsmens Grill No. 2, M. F. Whitney Hose Co. Fire Dept., Bush's Grocery, and other fish and game clubs that the annual turkey shoot will be held at the clubhouse grounds Sunday, Oct. 8. Refreshments will be served in the clubhouse by members of the committee.

The Senior Citizens Club of the Town of Shandaken recently met at the Phoenicia Library. Plans were discussed at this meeting for an excursion in the next week or two.

Mrs. Amasa Smith of Huntington Beach, Calif., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Mervale Jones.

The Smorgasbord Supper, sponsored by the Phoenicia Post of the American Legion and the Auxiliary, Aug. 26, Parish Hall, was well attended. The overwhelming response by the public set a new record in patronizing this annual event.

GOP Will Urge Rejection Of New Constitution: Travia

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia declared openly today what other Democrats have been saying privately for weeks:

That the Republican minority will urge voters to reject the draft constitution when it appears on the November election ballot.

Scores GOP

"The Republicans want to defeat this constitution," Travia told The Associated Press in an interview. "They're being obstructionist."

The convention president also expressed anger over what he termed the GOP leadership's refusal to meet with him to discuss possible compromise on disputed proposals.

He referred to the proposed article dealing with state finance, and said, "I can't get them to give me the right time."

Republicans have hardly concealed their anger and dismay over convention approval of plans they view as too costly for the state.

But Republican Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said in an interview last Friday night he did not think the GOP would take a party position against the draft constitution.

Nonetheless, he said he regarded as "serious" the convention's adoption — by a narrow margin — of a plan for free higher education.

Renews Attack

And over the weekend, Brydges renewed his attack on Travia's proposal for a gradual state takeover of the costs of local welfare programs.

Brydges asked: "What billion-dollar tax increase does he support to pay for a state takeover of welfare? That would be the minimum cost of this program 10 years from now, and it could be much greater."

"This might well be a desirable step," Brydges added, "but it certainly needs more than a frivolous mini-study. It has no business in the Constitution."

Travia said he was not concerned over the possibility that Republicans would work to defeat the proposed constitution.

"They might like to kill it, but we won't let them do it," he snapped.

Against this background of high-level ferment, delegates returned to work today after a weekend lengthened by Monday's holiday.

The big jobs for this week, as outlined by Travia, will be to complete initial action on the revised judiciary article, to dispose of the article on state finances and to hammer out a revised revision on local borrowing powers.

GOP Will Urge Rejection Of New Constitution: Travia

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia declared openly today what other Democrats have been saying privately for weeks:

That the Republican minority will urge voters to reject the draft constitution when it appears on the November election ballot.

Scores GOP

"The Republicans want to defeat this constitution," Travia told The Associated Press in an interview. "They're being obstructionist."

The convention president also expressed anger over what he termed the GOP leadership's refusal to meet with him to discuss possible compromise on disputed proposals.

He referred to the proposed article dealing with state finance, and said, "I can't get them to give me the right time."

Republicans have hardly concealed their anger and dismay over convention approval of plans they view as too costly for the state.

But Republican Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said in an interview last Friday night he did not think the GOP would take a party position against the draft constitution.

Nonetheless, he said he regarded as "serious" the convention's adoption — by a narrow margin — of a plan for free higher education.

Renews Attack

And over the weekend, Brydges renewed his attack on Travia's proposal for a gradual state takeover of the costs of local welfare programs.

Brydges asked: "What billion-dollar tax increase does he support to pay for a state takeover of welfare? That would be the minimum cost of this program 10 years from now, and it could be much greater."

"This might well be a desirable step," Brydges added, "but it certainly needs more than a frivolous mini-study. It has no business in the Constitution."

Travia said he was not concerned over the possibility that Republicans would work to defeat the proposed constitution.

"They might like to kill it, but we won't let them do it," he snapped.

Against this background of high-level ferment, delegates returned to work today after a weekend lengthened by Monday's holiday.

The big jobs for this week, as outlined by Travia, will be to complete initial action on the revised judiciary article, to dispose of the article on state finances and to hammer out a revised revision on local borrowing powers.

Do You Know THE ABC's of School Traffic Safety?

All facts authenticated by and through the courtesy

SCHOOL CROSSINGS

School crossings may or may not be marked by a lighted sign like the one on the right. If they are, it operates just like a traffic light. Red means STOP and flashing yellow means proceed with caution. Heavy traffic intersections are usually patrolled by a crossing guard, either man or woman, with the same power of arrest as a policeman, or by a school patrol boy. Word of caution! . . . where there is both a flashing signal and a crossing guard, the guard has the final say. The red light is on a timer and may switch to flashing yellow before the children clear the intersection, so wait for the signal from the guard. Always drive like it was your own children in the intersection.

SCHOOL ZONE TRAFFIC SAFETY

These reduced speed zones are rigidly enforced in most areas during school hours. Look at it this way; . . . at 20 MPH it takes you about 9 seconds longer to go through the length of the school zone as it would at 40 MPH. However, you can stop in 3 car lengths (47 feet) at 20 MPH, while at 40 it takes 149 feet, or 9 car lengths to stop, and that is three times further. These school zone signs are important in the summer, too. It is a tip-off that this is an area where children are very likely to be playing and that you should be extra alert and prepared to stop in case one darts into the street.

SCHOOL BUSES

It's tough enough to be the driver of a bus load of giggling, yelling, screaming youngsters, so don't ask him to go to the extra trouble of sending in your license number. If he does, you can bet it will cost you money. Except on a divided highway WITH A MEDIAN STRIP BETWEEN LANES, state law requires traffic from BOTH directions to STOP while the bus is loading or unloading passengers. Wait until the bus starts to move again before you start to move. State law also requires buses to stop at all railroad crossings, so be on your toes.

Operators of Rondout Marine Builders of Emergency Center

The operators of Rondout Marine, Inc., Brydon Corp. of Newburgh, were the contractors on a new building to house the Western District Office of the State Civil Defense Commission in Batavia.

The site was dedicated Saturday with John P. Lomenzo, New York secretary of state, the keynote speaker.

The first of the Commission's six districts to become operational at its permanent location, the Western District Office will serve a 10-county area comprised of the counties of Albany, Cattaraugus, Chautauque, Erie, Genesee, Livingston, Monroe, Niagara, Orleans and Wyoming, as well as the civil defense jurisdiction in the five cities of Jamestown, Niagara Falls, North Tonawanda, Olean and Salamanca.

"The 10 counties," said Lt. Gen. M. J. Asensio, State Civil Defense director, "will report to the Western District Office, which will report to the Commission's headquarters in Albany, ensuring an orderly flow of communication to and from the State Emergency Operating Center Alternate Seat of Government, an important consideration during times of statewide or national emergency."

The new underground facility is protected from radioactive fallout by 21 inches of earth and 12 inches of reinforced concrete. The 8700-square-foot installation is designed to remain fully operational during either a natural or nuclear disaster. It has an independent water supply system and a self-contained electric power generating unit.

The program opened with a rendition of America by the St. Joseph's Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, and an invocation by the Rev. Francis Schwartz, of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Batavia.

Addresses of welcome were given by Edward T. Cain, Gen-

Con Ed Says New Power Plant Would Enhance Scenic Values

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consolidated Edison Co. said today its proposed underground hydroelectric plant at Cornwall, N.Y., would enhance rather than impair "the value of the Hudson River Valley as a scenic and recreational resource."

The Scenic Hudson Preservation Conference opposes location of the proposed hydro plant on the ground it would "irretrievably damage" the Hudson Highlands in general and Storm King Mountain in particular.

The Federal Power Commission granted a license for the Storm King project March 9, 1965, but the action was set aside the following December by the U.S. Court of Appeals on petition of Scenic Hudson. The court sent the case back to the FPC for further hearings, which ended in May.

Con Edison said briefs by Scenic Hudson and the Sierra Club opposing the project "are thrown back upon the argument that any work of man would destroy beauty, notwithstanding that such beauty has not been destroyed by a road which girdles the mountain, a railroad which goes around its bases, or over 30 structures which existed at the power station site."

In its brief prepared for filing with the FPC today, Con Edison said the Storm King project would be the only facility in its system allowing "storing" of power by using it to pump water to an upland reservoir behind mountains back of Storm King. The water would be released to flow downhill to regenerate electricity when required.

The company said this feature contributed to the project's ability to cut air pollution in the New York metropolitan area by enabling it to use substantial amounts of purchased energy in addition to that available, primarily from non-pollution nuclear sources, from the Con Edison system.

Expect TV Strike Decision Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A broadcast union said it plans to call a strike that could affect all live programming on the NBC and ABC radio and television networks after the networks rejected the union's "rock-bottom minimums."

The minimums turned down Monday during negotiations in Miami Beach included a four-day work week for 3,000 members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, AFL-CIO, according to Tim O'Sullivan, a NABET spokesman.

O'Sullivan said the starting time of the strike would be announced in a news conference at 2 p.m. EDT today.

Despite the deadlock, network sources were inclined to doubt that a walkout would be called immediately, observing that the union would probably pick a time when a live major program is scheduled.

The introduction of the new television season, which begins tonight, was not expected to be hampered by a strike. Regular series are taped in advance.

"The effect of a strike depends largely on the degree to which we are supported by other unions, principally AFTRA."

American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, O'Sullivan said. He said AFTRA had pledged to support the strike in return for NABET's support of the AFTRA walkout last spring.

O'Sullivan said a strike would not halt broadcasting since the networks have libraries of taped programs, but live news broadcasts and other live programming would be hit if members of AFTRA—performers, announcers and the like—stayed off their jobs.

Scenic Hudson has proposed that the company build a nuclear-gas turbine combination plant and has contended the company could save $140 million during the first 20 years of its operation. The company has disputed this and said such a plant would cost $119 million more during the first 20 years and have an additional increased capital cost of $75 million.

Three Newburgh Residents Held On Drug Counts

Because of undercover information obtained by State Police officials, three Newburgh residents were picked up Saturday morning and charged with possession of marijuana.

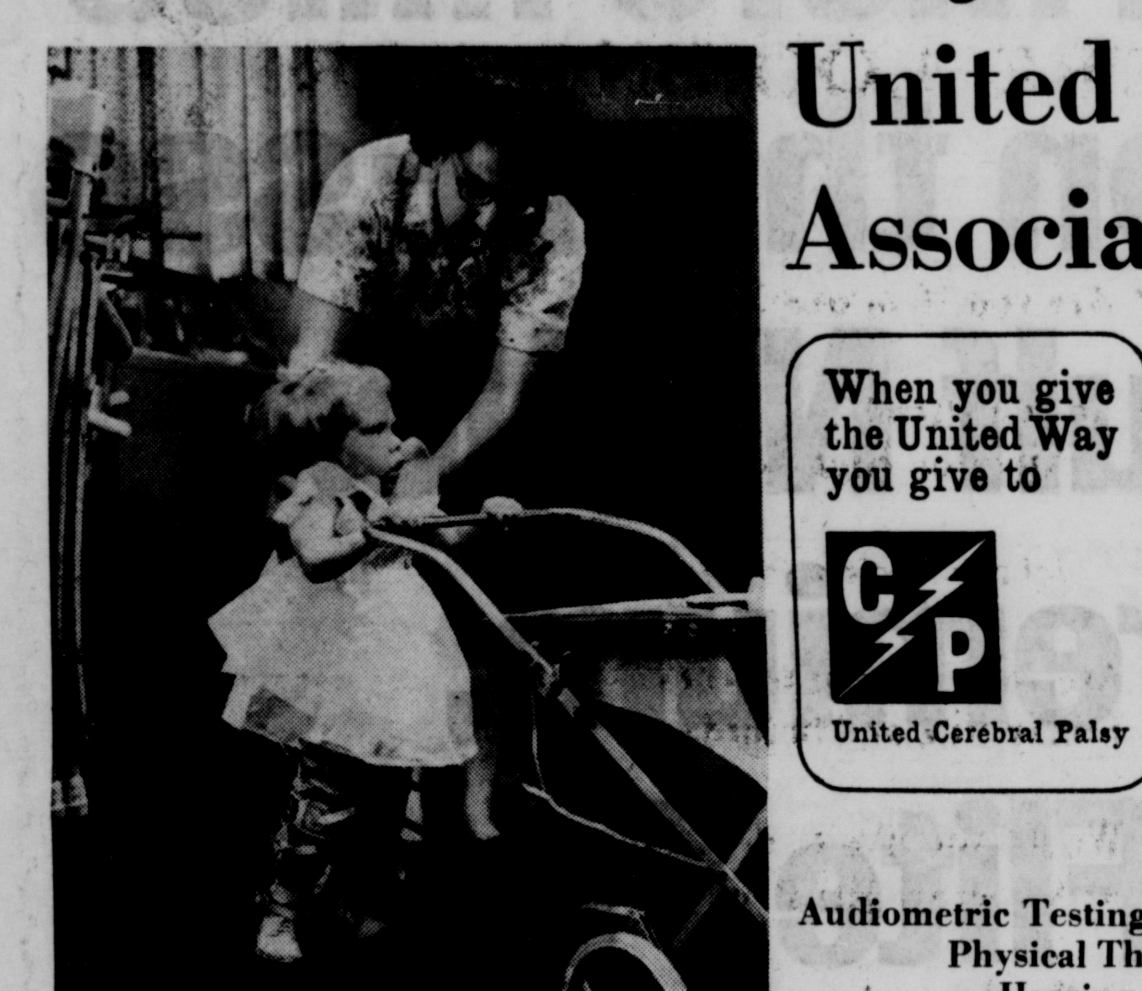

Arrested at their 144 West Parmenter Street apartment were William Robert Ford, 23, Arthur H. Ford, 21 and 18-year-old Pamela P. Theriot.

Raiders included members of the State Police BCI division and Detectives from the Newburgh Police Department. Police charged they found 39 bags of marijuana weighing at least an ounce a bag.

The trio was charged with the felony of possession of marijuana and taken before Special City Judge Charles J. Roskoski.

Examination was waived and the three suspects were taken to the Orange County Jail to await grand jury action. No bail was set at the time.

When parents learn that their child has a physical handicap, where do they go for help?

Some sixteen years ago, a group of such parents banded together under the leadership of such prominent citizens as the late Dr. Henry Bibby and Rabbi Herbert Bloom to establish the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Center at 400 Broadway, Kingston.

So pressing was this need, that the program soon expanded from 25 C.P. children to include treatment for all types of handicap.

Specialized equipment Professional Staff of Therapists and Consultants was added and the caseload now numbers 200 children.

The youngsters receive individual help in basic rehabilitation through a program of diagnostic evaluation; individual physical therapy; Speech-Hearing training; fitting of braces; part time Nursery; parent counseling and loan of special equipment.

There is presently a need for further expansion, but lack of building-space precludes this and causes a waiting list for enrollment in the program.

The Center is open Monday-Friday from 9:00 a. m. to 4:40 p. m. and welcomes visitors to observe first hand this vital Children's Service — a Member Agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., 1942

Birth of Atomic Bomb Celebrated

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — The stocky, mustached general stood on the barren hillside, surrounded by more cows than people, threw his swagger stick to the ground and declared that the spot would mark the center of a new town.

The year was 1942 and in that tranquil scene, Oak Ridge was born to produce the first atomic bomb, the weapon that ultimately brought an abrupt end to World War II.

Li. Gen. Leslie R. Groves was the officer, named by President Franklin D. Roosevelt some months earlier to head the top-secret "Manhattan Project." It was under his direction that Oak Ridge and the bomb were developed.

Now 70 and retired the Army general returned Monday to take part in the city's 25th anniversary celebration. Ironically, the head of the wartime nuclear project will be given a tour only of unclassified sections of the plants which were built under his direction.

"He is so very security conscious I'm sure he understands the system, so to speak," said Dr. Clarence Larson, president of the Union Carbide Nuclear Division, which operates the facilities.

The town, nestled in the East Tennessee hills, is a little different than it was in September 1942, when 58,000 square acres were purchased for $2.6 million as the location for "Clinton Engineering Works." The name was picked, Groves has said, because it was innocuous and "wouldn't attract attention."

Bulldozers tore into the peaceful valley farmland and transformed it into a city where 70,000 persons were employed, and only a handful knew what they were doing.

Guarded by six-foot-tall fences and sentries, surrounded by piles of dust and streets of mud, scientists set about producing the enriched uranium which went into the 10-foot-long bomb.

Today, Oak Ridge is a bustling, independent, incorporated city of 30,000 persons, the largest city in land area in Tennessee with 94 square miles.

Almost all the 30,000 residents are turning out to celebrate the 25th birthday of what they call the "youngest world city."

Plan Pageant
Focal point of the celebration is an outdoor pageant which recounts incidents in the city's history, including the time Groves "borrowed" 15,000 tons of silver from the Treasury Department for use in conducting electricity because copper was scarce.

Even as it looks over its shoulder, however, Oak Ridge is moving full speed toward involvement in the age of the peaceful atom.

The first indication of the new role came in 1953, when scientists here first produced electricity from a homogenous nuclear reactor.

As research into atomic power has grown more sophisticated, Oak Ridge has maintained its ranking as the world's largest supplier of radioisotopes for medical and industrial use.

Middleman's Misery
NEW DELHI (AP) — A resident complained to newspapers that city officials were mistreating him.

He said he was served with a warrant ordering him to repair a wall in his building. After repairing the wall, he claims he was served with another warrant alleging the construction was unauthorized.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "If the police of this country could run it for about two years then it would be safe to walk in the streets and walk in the parks," former Alabama Gov. George Wallace said Tuesday.

Wallace spoke to the national convention of the Fraternal Order of Police. He received two standing ovations from the 1,000 delegates.

Span Authority Adopts Unused Sick Leave Law

State Bridge Authority, meeting at Catskill last week, voted to adopt the "Unused Sick Leave Law" which became effective September 1.

Under this law, the employee unused sick leave will be converted to a dollar and cents basis to be used to pay health insurance premium when they retire. The law to date, only covered state workers, and not political sub-divisions and authorities.

The Bridge Authority Chapter is also seeking recognition from the authority as the sole bargaining agent in matters of negotiating wages, working conditions and the settlement of grievances effective Sept. 1 as provided for in the Public Employees' Fair Employment Act.

Kenneth W. Miller serving with the Armed forces in Vietnam writes:

"I want to thank you all for the packages being sent to me. I have received three in the past two months. They have been enjoyed fully by all the men in my tent.

"I realize that to take care of this volunteer job it requires many hours of your time to prepare these boxes for shipment overseas.

"I am glad that many people care about what is going on over here instead of sitting around complaining. It's got to be done some way and for the individual like me and all the rest, all we can do is follow orders and do our best and hope we get out soon.

"Thank you again from the boys in the 1st Squad of the First Construction Platoon of B Company. Also, I hope the boys in the infantry are getting more than their share. They are the ones that really need a package to keep their morale up."

Cpl. Arden A. Weeks serving with the U. S. Marine Corps in Vietnam writes:

"I would at this time like to express my gratitude for all you have done for area servicemen here in Vietnam.

"The overwhelming response from the people of Ulster County for your program was really a great morale booster.

"Some of my buddies from various parts of the country were also glad to hear of the outstanding support the people back home are giving us.

"Many thanks for a job well done."

Louis Blass, Jr., serving in Vietnam writes:

"Today I received four packages from the drive sponsored by Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, and countless other people from the Ulster County area.

"I would like to thank you all for what you have done for all of the home town men and women over here. I am quite sure that when I give you my thanks that it comes with the deepest gratitude and appreciation of everyone of us over here.

"It really makes a guy proud to know that the people of my home town area are giving support to every American over here and not demonstrating against their own relatives that may be over here.

"It is a very great morale booster to know that you are behind us all the way. Thank you very much for all you have done and may God bless you all."

Cpl. Conrad Moore writes from Vietnam the following:

"I want to thank you for the package you sent me. It was received by many empty stomachs. All the men in my section which is Commo, though it was real nice. No one has seen or heard of anything like your program.

"For myself, all I can say is that the package was greatly appreciated, even though it didn't last long, but with 16 men in the section, you can't expect something to last long, especially when it was very tasty."

Rosendale Mayor Injured Doing Volunteer Work

Mayor Joseph S. Reid of Rosendale was injured Monday when a payloader he was operating at the site of the village water system at the lime plant back of Tillson Estates, overturned and threw him to the ground.

Reid, who had volunteered with three other men to do the work without cost to the community, was taken to Benedictine Hospital. At his home today it was said he suffered shoulder and back injuries.

The men have been lowering the water lines to provide more water for the village system.

Milwaukee Demonstrations Continue

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee's marathon open-house marches will be on a "round-the-clock" basis, Dick Gregory said today as he marched a band of 100 demonstrators along the city's northwestern boundary.

The "round-the-clock" marching technique began Monday night after demonstration leaders vowed they would add steam to their campaign with a school boycott today.

Rests at Church

While Gregory and 100 marchers continued to keep city police occupied, the demonstrations co-leader, the Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest, headed back toward headquarters and rest at St. Boniface Roman Catholic church in the predominantly Negro Inner Core.

"The longer we march, the longer rest Father Groppi's group will have," Gregory told newsmen.

The Chicago-based Negro comedian said he has canceled three months of engagements and would "stay in Milwaukee as long as I'm needed."

The demonstrators have walked more than 50 miles in three days of marches that have been interrupted only for rallies, strategy meetings and snatches of sleep.

They added to the burden of their police escort Monday night by splitting into two columns, one of about 600 persons led by Father Groppi and one of about 300 headed by Gregory.

Fainted Linkup

The columns fainted a linkup near a viaduct bridge leading toward the heavily Polish-

American South Side, then strolled by separate routes into Wauwatosa — where Father Groppi-led demonstrations provoked hostile crowds of whites last summer and forced Gov. Warren P. Knowles to summon the National Guard.

Only quiet greeted the marchers Monday night as they moved through into the edges of the tree-lined suburb.

The twin marches Monday night began after a rally at a Baptist church in the Inner Core where most of Milwaukee's 86,000 Negroes live.

"School starts tomorrow," said Father Groppi to the audience that filled the church to overflowing. "Are we going to cool it off?"

"No!" the audience answered. "Then if you don't want to go to school," the priest said, "don't go to school."

The Rev. William B. Hoard, president of the Milwaukee chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told the rally. "This is war. We will not sign a new peace pact until the Negro is as free in Milwaukee as the Polish people are. This is only the beginning. We should have been at this crossroad years ago."

DeGaulle Will Be Cautious

PARIS (AP) — When President Charles de Gaulle visits Poland Wednesday, he will try to avoid doing anything to upset West Germany while seeking to expand France's relations with Communist East Europe, informed sources said today.

But his policy of opposition to blocs may create some resentment among Communist leaders, they added.

To avoid upsetting the West Germans, De Gaulle is expected to make little reference to the Oder-Neisse frontier between Poland and East Germany which he said eight years ago should not be questioned.

He also is expected to maintain his refusal to recognize East Germany. He is scheduled to make a short visit to Zabrze, formerly Hindenburg, in the territory Poland seized from Germany in the war, but he will not deliver a speech there.

The trip to Poland is part of De Gaulle's plan to visit all or most European countries. Sources said he intends to insist on the individualism of each nation inside the Communist bloc in an attempt to help them recover self-determination and play their own part in what he calls a renewed "European Europe."

U.S. Will Help Insurance Cover Some of Riot Losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government indirectly will help insurance companies cover some of their riot losses this year because of the mechanics of income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service says payments made by insurance companies to cover claims are part of the cost of doing business and can be deducted for income tax purposes. This has the effect of reducing the income subject to taxes and thus the total amount of tax to be paid.

"There's nothing unusual or extraordinary about it," a spokesman said.

The corporate tax rate is now 48 per cent, but like individuals, corporations don't pay taxes on everything they take in.

An individual, IRS noted, can deduct for federal income tax purposes the amount paid in state income taxes. An IRS spokesman compared an individual's state tax payments—and deductions—to the payments by insurance companies of claims by policy-holders in riot-hit areas.

But he emphasized there's no provision in the Internal Revenue Code for it to pay money directly to insurance companies to cover riot damage.

James L. Bentley, Georgia insurance commissioner and president of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, said in Atlanta earlier this week that in some cases the federal government will pay as much as 48 per cent of recent riot losses through income tax refunds to insurance companies.

IRS said Bentley apparently referred to the 48 per cent corporate tax rate and the fact that payments made by companies to cover insurance claims are deductible.

The service said, however, that corporations can obtain refunds only if they have overpaid their taxes.

He advocates the same sort of independence from American leadership in Western Europe.

Any appeals for self-determination and independence may raise eyebrows in Polish official circles and in Moscow, but observers in Paris feel De Gaulle's statements will be cautiously worded in order not to impede his long range policy of rapprochement with the East.

Sources close to the Elysee Palace said De Gaulle would recall that France got out of the North Atlantic Treaty organization's military setup and was the first country to free itself from a European military bloc.

New Approach Plea

These sources said an appeal to political independence may impress the Polish people who feel the burden of Soviet leadership although their government considers its firm attachment to Moscow the best defense against West German ambitions to regain the lost territories. Although the positions of the two governments toward West Germany are wide apart, the sources said De Gaulle would try to persuade Polish officials a new approach is needed to ease tension.

Tribes Gather

HASTINGS, Mich. (AP) — Five carloads of Indians from Tonawanda, Seneca Reservation in New York camped here during the weekend for a conference on North American Indian unity with the Chippewa, Potawatomi and other tribes.

Another meeting was planned at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., with a Canadian caravan of Mohawk, Algonquin and Ottawa Indians.

Mad Bear Anderson of the Tuscarora Reservation in Sanborn, N.Y., said the Indians want to unite all North American Indians to fight U.S. Canadian assimilation policies, to retain their traditional culture, and stay apart from the white man.

Bechtold Seeking Charter Reports

Questioning why the Kingston Charter Revision Committee "has not filed any periodic reports to the public," the GOP candidate for mayor, C. John Bechtold, mentioned today the "many problems that face us" and said that "the future of our city holds very little promise."

Bechtold said that the Charter Revision Committee "is charged with the duty of getting our city operating under an up-to-date city constitution," but in that the committee, "appointed by Mayor (Raymond W.) Garraghan last year," has not, it was charged, "filed any periodic reports," Bechtold went on to ask, "I was wondering if they have progressed on the matter."

Citing the problems, the Republican listed, "the large property and school tax bills, urban renewal, the lack of public swimming pools, the one recreation center which is in poor condition, and the inadequate library facilities."

The GOP candidate noted that "a new city charter can begin to help remedy some of the problems which we now face, as the idea of reorganization offers to us the promise of a city in which we can once again be proud."

Bechtold further stated that he hoped "people will once again decide to build homes in Kingston rather than residing in another area where a better way of life can be found," and he asked for "a more business-like government, well organized city departments, leadership in the hands of experienced city government officials, and other modern city charter trends," ideas "that Kingstonians have deserved for many years."

Stating that "the old city charter may have been adequate years ago when the main duty of local government was to preserve law and order," Bechtold went on to say that a modern charter should "guide our city in the many expanded duties which we now face."

The mayoral candidate concluded his remarks by saying, "Let us build Kingston into a city in which we can be proud, and let us do it by first creating a new foundation upon which to rise—a new, modern city charter."

Two City Men Hurt in Crash

Two Kingston men were injured Sunday when a car driven by Thaddeus Hudela, 53, of 507 Delaware Avenue, went out of control on Whitfield Road, Town of Wawarsing, and hit rocks. He suffered a broken collar bone, according to Ellenville State Police. A passenger, Robert Haslam, 39, of Ravine Street, sustained lacerations of the knees.

In another mishap investigated by Ellenville State Trooper C. R. Larson, Daniel Jaffe, 21, Brooklyn, suffered pains in the back. Troopers said his car was in rear-end collision with a vehicle operated by Peter Hensenberger, Elmhurst, who was cited for following too close.

Cash, Jewelry In Safe Taken In Ellenville

Ellenville village police and State Police BCI officers today continued investigation of a burglary at the home of Abe Levine at 9 Center Street in that community, which netted a safe containing cash and jewelry.

Police Chief Abe Rand said the house was entered sometime Friday. According to the chief, who is directing the investigation, an inventory was being taken to determine the value of the jewelry and amount of cash taken. He said it will be "high."

Entry was gained by smashing a window on the west side rear of the residence of the Levine, who operate the Abe Levine & Sons Wholesale and Retail Meat Corp. at 104 Center Street, Ellenville. No one was home at the time of the daring daylight break-in.

After entering the porch, the intruders broke through an inside door leading to the first floor rooms. The safe was described as medium size.

Chief Rand asks area residents, who might have seen anyone around the Levine home between 9 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. Friday to notify police and any information will be held in strict confidence.

of the forehead and chipped teeth and Michael Tarbey, 18, same place, multiple bruises and chipped teeth. Trooper A. J. Scarscell investigated.

Two persons were injured at 6:55 p. m. Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 32, Town of Saugerties. Trooper J. J. Brainard reported the cars were operated by Alfred Bechtold, 25, of 594 Broadway, and William Taylor, 19, of Arlington, Va. Bechtold was cited for failure to keep to the right, driving without a license and driving a car with unsafe tires. Trooper Dempsey said.

Troopers said Bechtold was driving south. Taylor was traveling north when the mishap occurred. Injured and treated at Benedictine Hospital were Taylor, who sustained lacerations over the right eye and upper lip and chest injuries; Ronald Cole, 23, of 75 Prospect Street, lacerations of the forehead, and Howard Fortin, 16, of 7 Cedar Street, lacerations. Summonses issued Bechtold are returnable later before Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties, according to Trooper Dempsey.

3-Car Collision

A three-car collision on Route 9W near the Oak Grove Motel, Town of Ulster, was investigated by Kingston Trooper Robert Molloy at 8:10 p. m. Saturday.

Tight End McLeod Quits Bills Camp

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bob McLeod, a tight end obtained by the Buffalo Bills from Houston over the weekend, left camp Monday without giving an explanation. Coach Joe Collier said.

McLeod, a six-year American Football League veteran, signed his contract with the Bills Saturday after taking part in a light workout. He was obtained in exchange for a future draft choice.

"I don't have any idea what his gripe was," Collier said. "Other than seeing him run Saturday and informing him with the rest of the squad that we'd work at 2 o'clock Monday, I haven't talked with him."

Open Tennis Tournaments Supported by Billie Jean

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Bigtime tennis needs a shot in the arm and it might start by offering incentive payments to players for every match they win, Wimbledon queen Billie Jean King proposed today.

"The game is 50 years behind the times," insisted the 23-year-old Long Beach, Calif., housewife. "Open tennis would be the big salvation. But if we can't have that we should do something to make kids want to play—and win."

Mrs. King, seeking to become the first player since Althea Gibson in 1958 to win both the Wimbledon and U.S. titles in a single year, levelled a blast at tennis administrators as the National Singles Championships moved through the third round at the West Side Tennis Club.

Firmly ensconced in the round of 16, the outspoken Californian is idle today while the opposite bracket plays for quarter-final berths.

The main women's matches send second-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of England against young Kerry Melville of Australia and seventh-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco against Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., No. 12.

Third Round Matches

In the men's division, meanwhile, third round matches are scheduled in the upper bracket. Top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, the Wimbledon winner, plays Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in the principal offering. Jim McManus, of Berkeley, Calif., who upset England's Roger Taylor, takes on Australia's Owen Davidson.

Australian Bill Bowrey's victory over fourth-seeded Nikola Pilic of Yugoslavia highlighted Monday's holiday action. Bowrey won 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 to intensify the already awesome Aussie threat.

Aging Roy Emerson, Australia's two-time winner seeded No. 2 behind Newcombe, looked like a guy who might take it all in sweeping past Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.

America's top entry, Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, seeded seventh, won over Herbie FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Judy Tegart of Australia upset eighth-seeded Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis 6-3, 6-2 in a third round women's match. Mrs. King had to play her best to beat 17-year-old Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

Clinkscals Due In Court Later

Curtis Clinkscals, 48, of 2 Post Street, arrested Friday and charged with criminal trespass, appeared in City Court today to hear himself accused of grand larceny in the third degree.

The defendant requested an adjournment to secure counsel. The case is slated to appear again in City Court on Thursday.

Last Friday, Clinkscals was arrested on a complaint by Ann De Groat, 2 Post Street, who charged that he had criminally trespassed upon her property by entering her apartment.

Now, in addition to the trespass charge Clinkscals faces grand larceny.

According to information filed with City Court, the charges stem from the theft, and resale of certain commodities taken from Clinkscals' former employer. Clinkscals is accused of the alleged theft.

Police said that the defendant was hired July 11 as a porter for the Standard Furniture Co., located on Wall Street. On Aug. 25, police said, two radios were stolen from the company and later resold at the Club Commanche.

On Sept. 1, police said, additional goods were taken from the furniture store, finally ending up in the 2 Post Street apartment of Ann De Groat.

Killed in Crash

HICKSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Philomena Mastroianni, 49, of Hicksville, was killed Monday night when the car in which she was riding was in collision with another car.

U. S. Swimmers Grab 32 Medals

TOKYO (AP) — The United States, given a record start by its swimmers and divers, completed its domination of the World University Games by capturing a 32nd gold medal as the competition drew to a close Monday.

Madeline Manning of Tennessee State provided the final prize with a victory in the women's 800-meter run by eight meters over Canada's Abigail Hoffman in 2:06.8.

Japan, which won three of the eight titles decided on the final day, finished with 21 of the 86 gold medals awarded. Germany had eight golds to place third among the 34 competing nations.

Only a pullout by the Soviet Union and other Communist countries marred the Games. The Communists declined to participate because North Korea was not allowed to compete under the name of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

U.S. swimmers and divers started their country to its overwhelming victory by winning 24 of the 26 events, 10 of them in world record time.

A small track and field team added seven gold medals and the undefeated basketball team provided the other.

In all, the United States carried off 61 medals — 23 silver and six bronze.

Reds Terminate Buffalo Pact

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League and the Cincinnati Reds have terminated their working agreement after two years.

Jack Guthrie, Bisons president, said Saturday the club was close to signing a new pact with another major league team. He did not identify the team but published reports have identified it as the Boston Red Sox, now the parent organization of the Toronto Maple Leafs, also of the International League.

Termination of the pact was by mutual agreement between the Bisons and the National League Reds, Guthrie said.

Lovable, Laughable Stanky Pins Ward in Quick Fall

By MURRAY CHASS

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Stanky is, by his own admission, "the most lovable, laughable guy in baseball."

By his own admission, the Chicago-White Sox manager also was an all-state 144-pound wrestler for Northeast High School in Philadelphia some time ago.

Weighing 164 pounds now, Stanky took on his 205-pound third baseman, Pete Ward, Monday and came away with a victory in one fall.

No one was laughing at the time, but Ward quipped afterward:

"I think I could've handled him if no one else had come around."

Stanky and Ward got into it during the second game of a doubleheader, which Chicago split with New York.

The Yankees won the opener 2-2 with the help of errors by Don Buford and Rocky Colavito, and the White Sox took the explosive nightcap 3-2 on Duane Josephson's run-scoring single in the 10th inning.

Ward was batting in the fourth inning when Steve Barber fired a pitch in tight. Umpire Emmett Ashford said the ball hit the bat for a foul, but Ward angrily insisted it hit him.

"The ball hit my finger tips," the third baseman said after the game, pointing to the last two fingers on his right hand.

Hard Call for Ump

"It was a hard call for an umpire to make, and I don't condemn him for not calling it. But I got angry because it didn't seem to me he was paying attention to what I was saying."

Ward ripped off his batting helmet and threw it to the ground. Ashford immediately ejected him from the game, the first time that happened to Ward in his five years in the majors.

"Because of the manner in which he did it, I had no choice but to throw him out," Ashford explained. "The flagrancy of the offense left me no alternative."

Ward grew more vehement, and Stanky dashed from the dugout and rushed between the two. Ward pushed his manager away, but Stanky wheeled around, grabbed Ward from behind, threw him to the ground and rolled over on top of him.

Coaches Grover Reisinger and Marv Grissom and catcher Josephson rushed in to help.

"I know Ward is a docile type fellow, but I knew this had him upset," Stanky said.

"A pennant race will do this to the most quiet of people. I knew he was not going to hit him, but I was fearful of a brush up that would cost him one or two days.

"If I get a broken back, I can manage from a hospital bed. But I need Pete tomorrow."

Robert Kotary of Rome, brother of the fourth-place finisher, and Ray Ladouceur of Syracuse were injured in pre-race events.

Hoag, driving a 1936 Chevrolet body powered by a 1966 Corvette engine, set a track record by qualifying at 91.2 miles an hour for the race.

Bechtold Seeking Charter Reports

Questioning why the Kingston Charter Revision Committee "has not filed any periodic reports to the public," the GOP candidate for mayor, C. John Bechtold, mentioned today the "many problems that face us" and said that "the future of our city holds very little promise."

Bechtold said that the Charter Revision Committee "is charged with the duty of getting our city operating under an up-to-date city constitution," but in that the committee, "appointed by Mayor (Raymond W.) Garraghan last year" has not, it was charged, "filed any periodic reports," Bechtold went on to ask, "I was wondering if they have progressed on the matter."

Citing the problems, the Republican listed, "the large property and school tax bills, urban renewal, the lack of public swimming pools, the one recreation center which is in poor condition and the inadequate library facilities."

The GOP candidate noted that "a new city charter can begin to help remedy some of the problems which we now face, as the idea of reorganization offers to us the promise of a city in which we can once again be proud."

Bechtold further stated that he hoped "people will once again decide to build homes in Kingston rather than residing in another area where a better way of life can be found," and he asked for "a more business-like government, well organized city departments, leadership in the hands of experienced city government officials, and other modern city charter trends."

Stating that "the old city charter may have been adequate years ago when the main duty of local government was to preserve law and order," Bechtold went on to say that a modern charter should "guide our city in the many expanded duties which we now face."

Two City Men Hurt in Crash

Two Kingston men were injured Sunday when a car driven by Thaddeus Hudela, 53, of 507 Delaware Avenue, went out of control on Whitfield Road, Town of Wawarsing, and hit rocks. He suffered a broken collar bone, according to Ellenville State Police. A passenger, Robert Haslam, 39, of Ravine Street, sustained lacerations of the knees.

In another mishap investigated by Ellenville State Trooper C. R. Larson, Daniel Jaffe, 21, Brooklyn, suffered pains in the back. Troopers said his car was in rear-end collision with a vehicle operated by Peter Hesenberger, Elmhurst, who was cited for following too close.

10,000 Boots Lost

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Firemen called to a blaze Monday were hampered by thick black smoke.

Gus de Brovy, owner of the building, said he lost 5,000 pairs of surplus Army rubber boots, valued at $5,000, in the fire.

Cash, Jewelry In Safe Taken In Ellenville

Ellenville village police and State Police BCI officers today continued investigation of a burglary at the home of Abe Levine at 9 Center Street in that community, which netted a safe containing cash and jewelry.

Police Chief Abe Rand said the house was entered sometime Friday. According to the chief, who is directing the investigation, an inventory was being taken to determine the value of the jewelry and amount of cash taken. He said it will be "high."

Entry was gained by smashing a window on the west side rear of the residence of the Levines, who operate the Abe Levine & Sons Wholesale and Retail Meat Corp. at 104 Center Street, Ellenville. No one was home at the time of the daring daylight break-in.

After entering the porch, the intruders broke through an inside door leading to the first floor rooms. The safe was described as medium size.

Chief Rand asks area residents, who might have seen anyone around the Levine home between 9 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. Friday to notify police and any information will be held in strict confidence.

of the forehead and chipped teeth and Michael Tarbey, 18, same place, multiple bruises and chipped teeth. Trooper A. J. Scarselli investigated.

Two persons were injured at 6:55 p. m. Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 32, Town of Saugerties. Trooper J. J. Brainard reported the cars were operated by Alfred Bechtold, 25, of 594 Broadway, and William Taylor, 19, of Arlington, Va.

Bechtold was cited for failure to keep to the right, driving without a license and driving a car with unsafe tires. Trooper Dempsey said.

Troopers said Bechtold was driving south. Taylor was traveling north when the mishap occurred. Injured and treated at Benedictine Hospital were Taylor, who sustained lacerations over the right eye and upper lip and chest injuries; Ronald Cole, 23, of 75 Prospect Street, lacerations of the forehead, and Howard Fortin, 16, of 7 Cedar Street, lacerations.

Summons issued. Bechtold is returnable later before Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties, according to Trooper Dempsey.

Tight End McLeon Quits Bills Camp

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bob McLeon, a tight end obtained by the Buffalo Bills from Houston over the weekend, left camp Monday without giving an explanation. Coach Joe Collier said.

McLeon, a six-year American Football League veteran, signed his contract with the Bills Saturday after taking part in a light workout. He was obtained in exchange for a future draft choice.

"I don't have any idea what his gripe was," Collier said. "Other than seeing him run Saturday and informing him with the rest of the squad that we'd work at 2 o'clock Monday, I haven't talked with him."

Open Tennis Tournaments Supported by Billie Jean

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Bigtime tennis needs a shot in the arm and it might start by offering incentive payments to players for every match they win, Wimbledon queen Billie Jean King proposed today.

"The game is 50 years behind the times," insisted the 23-year-old Long Beach, Calif., housewife. "Open tennis would be the big salvation. But if we can't have that we should do something to make kids want to play — and win."

Mrs. King, seeking to become the first player since Althea Gibson in 1958 to win both the Wimbledon and U.S. titles in a single year, levelled a blast at tennis administrators as the National Singles Championships moved through the third round at the West Side Tennis Club.

Firmly ensconced in the round of 16, the outspoken Californian is idle today while the opposite bracket plays for quarter-final berths.

The main women's matches send second-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of England against young Kerry Melville of Australia and seventh-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco against Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., No. 12.

Third Round Matches
In the men's division, meanwhile, third round matches are scheduled in the upper bracket.

Top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, the Wimbledon winner, plays Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in the principal offering. Jim McManus, of Berkeley, Calif., who upset England's Roger Taylor, takes on Australia's Owen Davidson.

Australian Bill Bowrey's victory over fourth-seeded Nikola Pilic of Yugoslavia highlighted Monday's holiday action. Bowrey won 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 to intensify the already awesome Aussie threat.

Aging Roy Emerson, Australia's two-time winner seeded No. 2 behind Newcombe, looked like a guy who might take it all in sweeping past Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., 6-0, 6-3.

America's top entry, Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, seeded seventh, won over Herbie FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Judy Tegart of Australia upset eighth-seeded Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis 6-3, 6-2 in a third round women's match. Mrs. King had to play her best to beat 17-year-old Patti Hogan of LaJolla, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

Clinkscales Due In Court Later
Curtis Clinkscales, 48, of 2 Post Street, arrested Friday and charged with criminal trespass, appeared in City Court today to hear himself accused of grand larceny in the third degree.

The defendant requested an adjournment to secure counsel. The case is slated to appear again in City Court on Thursday.

Last Friday, Clinkscales was arrested on a complaint by Ann De Groat, 2 Post Street, who charged that he had criminally trespassed upon her property by entering her apartment.

Now, in addition to the trespass charge Clinkscales faces grand larceny.

According to information filed with City Court, the charges stem from the theft, and resale of certain commodities taken from Clinkscales' former employer. Clinkscales is accused of the alleged theft.

Police said that the defendant was hired July 11 as a porter for the Standard Furniture Co., located on Wall Street. On Aug. 25, police said, two radios were stolen from the company and later resold at the Club Commanche.

On Sept. 1, police said, additional goods were taken from the furniture store, finally ending up in the 2 Post Street apartment of Ann De Groat.

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — A young woman teaching a teen-age girl how to drive was fatally injured when the car went out of control and struck a tree and stone wall in this Sullivan County community Monday night.

The woman was Dorothy Ann Conklin, 23, of Monticello. The girl at the wheel, Bonnie Price, 16, of Monticello, who police said had a learner's permit, was treated at Monticello Hospital for slight injuries.

Mrs. Conklin died in the same hospital late in the evening.

Crash Injures Four
Four persons were injured and a motorist was cited for reckless driving as the result of a two-car collision on Briggs Highway four miles west of Ellenville at 5:20 p. m. Sunday.

State Trooper Francis Steiner said the cars were driven by Walter Zdzorow, 20, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Robert Silverman, 57, Brooklyn. Zdzorow, who was driving east and negotiating a right curve lost control when his car started to skid and sideswiped the Silverman vehicle. Zdzorow's car crossed the highway to the south shoulder, snapped off a utility pole and hit a tree. Trooper John Huntzicker cited him for reckless driving. ## U. S. Swimmers Grab 32 Medals

TOKYO (AP) — The United States, given a record start by its swimmers and divers, completed its domination of the World University Games by capturing a 32nd gold medal as the competition drew to a close Monday.

Madeline Manning of Tennessee State provided the final prize with a victory in the women's 800-meter run by eight meters over Canada's Abigail Hoffman in 2:06.8.

Japan, which won three of the eight titles decided on the final day, finished with 21 of the 86 gold medals awarded. Germany had eight golds to place third among the 34 competing nations.

Only a pullout by the Soviet Union and other Communist countries marred the Games. The Communists declined to participate because North Korea was not allowed to compete under the name of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

U.S. swimmers and divers started their country to its overwhelming victory by winning 24 of the 26 events, 10 of them in world record time.

A small track and field team added seven gold medals and the undefeated basketball team provided the other.

Reds Terminate Buffalo Pact

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League and the Cincinnati Reds have terminated their working agreement after two years.

Jack Guthrie, Bisons president, said Saturday the club was close to signing a new pact with another major league team. He did not identify the team but published reports have identified it as the Boston Red Sox, now the parent organization of the Toronto Maple Leafs, also of the International League.

Termination of the pact was by mutual agreement between the Bisons and the National League Reds, Guthrie said.

Australian Bill Bowrey's victory over fourth-seeded Nikola Pilic of Yugoslavia highlighted Monday's holiday action. Bowrey won 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 to intensify the already awesome Aussie threat.

Lovable, Laughable Stanky Pins Ward in Quick Fall

By MURRAY CHASS
NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Stanky is, by his own admission, "the most lovable, laughable guy in baseball."

By his own admission, the Chicago-White Sox manager also was an all-state 144-pound wrestler for Northeast High School in Philadelphia some time ago.

Weighing 164 pounds now, Stanky took on his 205-pound third baseman, Pete Ward, Monday and came away with a victory in one fall.

No one was laughing at the time, but Ward quipped afterward:

"I think I could've handled him if no one else had come around."

Stanky and Ward got into it during the second game of a doubleheader, which Chicago split with New York.

The Yankees won the opener 3-2 with the help of errors by Don Buford and Rocky Colavito, and the White Sox took the explosive nightcap 3-2 on Duane Josephson's run-scoring single in the 10th inning.

Ward was batting in the fourth inning when Steve Barber fired a pitch in tight. Umpire Emmett Ashford said the ball hit the bat for a foul, but Ward angrily insisted it hit him.

"The ball hit my finger tips," the third baseman said after the game, pointing to the last two fingers on his right hand.

Hard Call for Ump
"It was a hard call for an umpire to make, and I don't condemn him for not calling it. But I got angry because it didn't seem to me he was paying attention to what I was saying."

Ward ripped off his batting helmet and threw it to the ground. Ashford immediately ejected him from the game, the first time that's happened to Ward in his five years in the majors.

"Because of the manner in which he did it, I had no choice but to throw him out," Ashford explained. "The flagrancy of the offense left me no alternative."

Ward grew more vehement, and Stanky dashed from the dugout and rushed between the two. Ward pushed his manager away, but Stanky wheeled around, grabbed Ward from behind, threw him to the ground and rolled over on top of him.

Coaches Grover Resinger and Marv Grissom and catcher Josephson rushed in to help.

"I know Ward is a docile type fellow, but I knew this had him upset," Stanky said.

"A pennant race will do this to the most quiet of people. I knew he was not going to hit him, but I was fearful of a brush up that would cost him one or two days."

"If I get a broken back, I can manage from a hospital bed. But I need Pete tomorrow."

Stock Car Race To Dutch Hoag

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Donald "Dutch" Hoag, 41, of Bath captured the 25-mile state championship modified stock car race Monday at the State Fair after leading 24 of the 25 laps.

He was followed by Billy Rafter of Buffalo, second; Sammy Reakes of Brewerton, third; Cliff Kotary of Rome, fourth, and Bob Cain of Auburn, fifth.

The race had no official time, since the racing was delayed by a three-car crash on the 14th lap.

Robert Kotary of Rome, brother of the fourth-place finisher, and Ray Ladouceur of Syracuse were injured in pre-race events.

Crusaders Top Stamford, 17-6, in Football Opener

Myrick Proves Find Before 800 At Stadium

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

About 800 fans greeted the return of semi-pro football to the city Sunday night at Dietz Stadium and saw the Hudson Valley Crusaders make their Kingston debut with a 17-6 victory over the Golden Bears of Stamford, Conn.

Although Manuel Rodriguez was tabbed as the No. 1 quarterback before the game, the Crusaders may have come up with their own version of Johnny Unitas in 6-foot, 200-pound Roger Myrick, former Beacon High quarterback.

Myrick ran the club well and displayed unusual talent as a rusher. On the Crusaders' 43-yard touchdown drive in the fourth period, he carried five times for 36 yards on rushes of 8, 6, 9, 8 and 5 yards.

Chip McDowell, 6-1, 200-pound halfback accounted for the Crusaders' second touchdown with a 55-yard runback of an intercepted pass.

Tracy Effective
Bob Tracey, the Scottish loquacious specialist, kicked a 20-yard field goal in the first quarter and added two extra points later in the game.

The seemingly disorganized Golden Bears, who appeared in a variety of shirts (some without numbers) scored their only TD on a 2-yard pass from quarterback Solomon Harris to William McDonald. The pass climaxed a 24-yard march after an interception. Don Roman blocked the try for extra point.

Kingston's defense contained the Golden Bears, although they were outscored, 100 to 71 yards. They picked off five interceptions.

Best Player on the Field ever, had to be Solomon Harris, the Golden Bears quarterback, who ran and passed superbly.

First Big Break
Crusaders capitalized on a big break at the start of the game when defensive tackle Melvin Bennett recovered a Golden Bear fumble on the kickoff on the Stamford 2. Pushed back to the 20, with a penalty, the Crusaders called on Tracy for a field goal and he split the up-rights to put them ahead, 3-0.

Saunders Peter intercepted a Crusader pass in the second quarter on the 30 and returned it to the 24. Harris passed to Rich Bartlett for 6 yards and slammed to first down on the 12. An offside against the Crusaders and Norman Lloyd's slam gave Stamford a first down on the 2. On the first play Harris passed to William McDonald for the TD and a 6-3 lead as the half ended.

Myrick was the whole show in the Crusaders' 43-yard trek for their first touchdown with 36 yards on 5 carries. He picked up two first downs on a quarter-back sneak and right end sweep, then bulldozed over from the 5 with half the Stamford tracey kicked the point to put Crusaders ahead for the first time, 10-6.

McDonald was accompanied by a crowd of blockers on his 55-yard pass interception and was untouched the last 30 yards. Tracey missed the first try for extra point but got a reprieve when Stamford was off side. He didn't miss the second time.

Kickers Tie Canadians In Last Second, 3 to 3

A disputed last second goal by All-America Eugene Ventriglia gave the Kingston Sport Club Kickers a thrilling 3-3 tie over the crack Sette Bello soccer squad of Gulph, Canada Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Trailing 3-1 most of the way, the Kickers attacked for two spectacular goals in the final 24 minutes. Elliott Obbi-Asare of the Republic of Ghana dribbled through two defenders at the 66-minute mark to tie the score at 2-2.

With a second remaining, Ventriglia shot from an impossible angle. The Canadian goalie reached into the corner of the goal for what appeared to be a save but referee Henry Heberling ruled Ventriglia's boot was over the goal line.

Grasmeier Scores
Walter Grasmeier's boot at the 16-minute mark sent Kingston ahead, 1-0, but Sette Bello tallied three times before the Kickers again hit the scoreboard.

Bruno Tofolon tied it at 1-1 at 22 minutes and Bert Kempers' penalty kick sent the visitors ahead, 2-1 at 35 minutes. Outside left Danny Strutt scored at 55 minutes.

On the 28th at Shea Stadium, Italy's Nino Benvenuti defends his middleweight title against Emile Griffith in a return match.

Among the bouts on this week's schedule are a 12-rounder between lightweights Lovell Franklin of Oakland, Calif. and Herman Escobar of Los Angeles in Los Angeles on Thursday, and a 10-round heavyweight match between Robert Davilla of Argentina and Chuck Leslie of Los Angeles in Las Vegas, Nev. on Tuesday.

Samuels, K. Fowler - Fredericks Ulster County Tennis Champs

Miss Kitty Fowler of Kingston won one and lost one in the Ulster County Tennis Tournament over the weekend.

She bowed to veteran Kitty Ann Samuels of New Paltz in the singles finals, but teamed with Jim Fredericks to share the mixed doubles championship.

Miss Fowler, a Colorado College sophomore, took the first set from the cagey, experienced New Paltz star, 6-3, but lost the next two as Kitty Ann scored the equalizer at 6-3 and won the deciding set at 6-1.

In the mixed doubles, Kitty and Fredericks against Miss Fowler's mother, Mary, and Dick Smith in two rugged sets, 7-5 and 6-4.

It was in effect, a rubber match win for the Fowler-Fredericks tandem. It was the third meeting between the teams in the past year.

Last year, Mary Fowler and Smith had beaten the Kitty-Fredericks team in the semi-finals of the now defunct New Paltz tennis tournament. Earlier this season, Kitty and Fredericks evened the count in the finals of the Middletown tournament.

See - Saw Action
It was see-saw action all the way in the mixed doubles finals. In the first set the teams were tied at 3-3 and 5-5 before Fredericks won the next two straight games and set Fredericks also nailed down the clincher at 6-4 in the second set.

The two weekend finals attracted a large gallery which was rewarded with some excellent tennis. Kitty Ann's reputation had preceded her and she lived up to the press clippings.

The tournament had more and greater variety of entries than in any year since it has been played. Cancellation of the New Paltz tournament was a factor in the larger and better local entry.

Crusaders Top Stamford, 17-6, in Football Opener

Myrick Proves Find Before 800 At Stadium

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

About 800 fans greeted the return of semi-pro football to the city Sunday night at Dietz Stadium and saw the Hudson Valley Crusaders make their Kingston debut with a 17-6 victory over the Golden Bears of Stamford, Conn.

Two fourth period touchdowns—one on a 55-yard pass interception—salvaged the day for the Poughkeepsie-based Crusaders.

Although Manuel Rodriguez was tabbed as the No. 1 quarterback before the game, the Crusaders may have come up with their own version of Johnny Unitas in 6-foot, 200-pound Roger Myrick, former Beacon High quarterback.

Myrick ran the club well and displayed unusual talent as a rusher. On the Crusaders' 43-yard touchdown drive in the fourth period, he carried five times for 36 yards on rushes of 8, 6, 9, 8 and 5 yards.

Chip McDowell, 6-1, 200-pound halfback accounted for the Crusaders' second touchdown with a 55-yard runback of an intercepted pass.

Tracy Effective
Bob Tracey, the Scottish looking specialist, kicked a 20-yard field goal in the first quarter and added two extra points later in the game.

The seemingly disorganized Golden Bears, who appeared in a variety of shirts (some without numbers) scored their only TD on a 2-yard pass from quarterback Solomon Harris to William McDonald. The pass climaxed a 24-yard march after an interception. Don Roman blocked the try for extra point. Kingston's defense contained the Golden Bears, although they were outscored, 100 to 71 yards. They picked off five interceptions.

Best player on the field, however, had to be Solomon Harris, the Golden Bears quarterback, who ran and passed superbly.

First Big Break
Crusaders capitalized on a big break at the start of the game when defensive tackle Melvin Bennett recovered a Golden Bear fumble on the kickoff on the Stamford 2. Pushed back to the 20, with a penalty, the Crusaders called on Tracey for a field goal and he split the uprights to put them ahead, 3-0.

Stander Peter intercepted a Crusader pass in the second quarter on the 30 and returned it to the 24. Harris passed to Rich Bartlett for 6 yards and slammed to first down on the 12. An offside against the Crusaders and Norman Lloyd's slam gave Stamford a first down on the 2. On the first play Harris passed to William McDonald for the TD and a 6-3 lead as the half ended.

Myrick was the whole show in the Crusaders' 43-yard trek for their first touchdown with 36 yards on 5 carries. He picked up two first downs on a quarter-back sneak and right end sweep, then bulldozed over from the 5 with half the Stamford team riding herd on him. Tracey kicked the point to put Crusaders ahead for the first time, 10-6.

McDonald was accompanied by a cordon of blockers on his 55-yard pass interception and was untouched the last 30 yards. Tracey missed the first try for extra point but got a reprieve when Stamford was off side. He didn't miss the second time.

Kickers Tie Canadians In Last Second, 3 to 3

A disputed last second goal by All-America Eugene Ventriglia gave the Kingston Sport Club Kickers a thrilling 3-3 tie over the crack Sette Bello soccer squad of Gulph, Canada Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Trailing 3-1 most of the way, the Kickers attacked for two spectacular goals in the final 24 minutes. Elliott Obbi-Asare of the Republic of Ghana dribbled through two defenders at the 66-minute mark to tie the score at 2-2.

With a second remaining, Ventriglia shot from an impossible angle. The Canadian goalie reached into the corner of the goal for what appeared to be a save but referee Henry Heberling ruled Ventriglia's boot was over the goal line.

Casper Cops Carling On First Extra Hole

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP)—It was described as a monster golf course by others but Billy Casper found the Toronto Board of Trade Country Club little more than a jolly green giant. The San Diego, Calif., pro beat Al Geilberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., on the first hole of sudden-death playoff Monday to win the $35,000 top prize in the fourth Carling World Golf Championship.

Geilberger, the third-round leader, and Casper finished the regulation 72 holes in three-under-par 261s.

South African Gary Player, who finished third and won $8,500, was the only other entrant with an under-par final score. Player, the leader at 36 holes, finished with a one-under 263.

The other 80 players who made the 36-hole cut could not break par on the 7,024-yard par 35-36-71 layout, featured by expansive and undulating greens. In all, the field was able to produce but 45 18-hole scores of under par.

It was Casper's second victory of the year and both have come in Canada. He captured the Canadian Open by trouncing Art Wall Jr. in an 18-hole playoff at Montreal earlier this summer.

"I must get inspired here," said the 36-year-old Californian. "I'm looking forward to coming back to defend the Canadian Open next year."

Three Subpar Rounds
The slim shotmaker, who follows an exotic diet because he has an allergy problem, took a first-round 74 Friday. Saturday his golfing fortunes turned for the better and in the final three rounds he shot 68, 70, 69.

It was a heart-breaking loss for Geilberger, 1966 PGA champion and widely known for the peanut butter-and-jam sandwiches he eats to maintain his stamina while in competition.

Rejecting one challenge after another on the final 18 holes, Geilberger had a chance to win the tournament on the last hole but his 18-foot putt for a birdie stopped an inch shy.

Both players drove poorly on the extra hole and Geilberger said each might have reached the water but the shots were stopped by the large crowd along the fairway.

Both missed the green with their chipped shots and Geilberger chipped eight feet past the hole while Casper dropped his chip shot three feet from the flag.

When Geilberger missed his try for a par and took a 5, Casper stepped up for what proved the winning putt.

Playoffs Thursday
Perry's Grill and Royal Grill open the finals of the City Softball League playoff series Thursday at 7:15 p. m. at Block Park. It is expected the new lighting system will be ready in time for the game.

The final whistle blew almost simultaneously with Ventriglia's goal and drew a sharp protest from the Canadian team. The teams headed for the dressing rooms with the arguments continuing.

Grasmeyer Scores
Walter Grasmeyer's boot at the 16-minute mark sent Kingston ahead, 1-0, but Sette Bello tallied three times before the Kickers again hit the scoreboard.

Bruno Tofoloni tied it at 1-1 at 22 minutes and Bert Kempers' penalty kick sent the visitors ahead, 2-1 at 35 minutes. Outside left Danny Strutt scored at 55 minutes.

Grasmeyer's first goal for Kingston followed a beautiful pattern free kick from Schwabel to Asare's head to Grasmeyer who connected for the goal.

Boxing Month Is September

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Although there isn't much sock on this week's program, September figures to be a most interesting month for boxing fans.

Southpaw Karl Mildenberger of Germany faces Argentina's Oscar Bonavena on Sept. 16 in Frankfurt in the third of the heavyweight elimination bouts to produce a successor to Cassius Clay.

On the 28th at Shea Stadium, Italy's Nino Benvenuti defends his middleweight title against Emile Griffith in a return match.

Among the bouts on this week's schedule are a 12-rounder between lightweights Lovell Franklin of Oakland, Calif., and Herman Escobar of Los Angeles in Los Angeles on Thursday, and a 10-round heavyweight match between Robert Davilla of Argentina and Chuck Leslie of Los Angeles in Las Vegas, Nev., on Tuesday.

Samuels, K. Fowler - Fredericks Ulster County Tennis Champs

Miss Kitty Fowler of Kingston won one and lost one in the Ulster County Tennis Tournament over the weekend.

She bowed to veteran Kitty Ann Samuels of New Paltz in the singles finals, but teamed with Jim Fredericks to share the mixed doubles championship.

Miss Fowler, a Colorado College sophomore, took the first set from the easy, experienced New Paltz star, 6-3, but lost the next two as Kitty Ann scored the equalizer at 6-3 and won the deciding set at 6-1.

In the mixed doubles, Kitty and Fredericks against Miss Fowler's mother, Mary, and Dick Smith in two rugged sets, 7-5 and 6-4.

It was in effect, a rubber match win for the Fowler-Fredrick tandem. It was the third meeting between the teams in the past year.

Last year, Mary Fowler and Smith had beaten the Kitty-Fredricks team in the semifinals of the now defunct New Paltz tennis tournament. Earlier this season, Kitty and Fredericks evened the count in the finals of the Middletown tournament.

See - Saw Action

It was see-saw action all the way in the mixed doubles finals. In the first set the teams were tied at 3-3 and 5-5 before Fredericks won the next two straight games and set, Fredricks also nailed down the clincher at 6-4 in the second set.

The two weekend finals attracted a large gallery which was rewarded with some excellent tennis. Kitty Ann's reputation had preceded her and she lived up to the press clippings.

The tournament had more and greater variety of entries than in any year since it has been played. Cancellation of the New Paltz tournament was a factor in the larger and better local entry.

Twins Run to Daylight Then Out of the Money

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins were running to daylight until Harmon Killebrew ran out of the money.

Luckily for the Twins, their pursuers in the American League pennant derby were running on a treadmill.

Cleveland's Chuck Hinton raced home in the 10th inning Monday night as Fred Whitfield beat out a scratch hit to first baseman Killebrew, giving the Indians a 2-1 victory and a doubleheader split with the league-leading Twins.

Killebrew's 35th home run put the wraps on Minnesota's 4-1 triumph in the first game, but the Twins lost a chance to gain ground on Boston, Chicago and Detroit, who also divided holiday twin bills.

The second-place Red Sox bowed to Washington 5-2, then bounced back for a 6-4 victory and remained one half game off the pace. The third-place White Sox edged New York 3-2 in 10 innings after bowing 3-2 in the opener and stayed one game back. And fourth-place Detroit's 8-4, 2-4 split with Kansas City left the Tigers 1½ lengths behind.

Baltimore and California followed suit, the Orioles taking their two-night opener 4-2 and the Angels rebounding 5-4 in the 12th inning nightcap.

Tied in Ninth The Twins, held to one hit by right-hander Sonny Siebert until the seventh inning of the nightcap, tied it at 1-1 on Tony Oliva's one-out double and Bob Allison's run-scoring single.

It stayed that way until pinch hitter Hinton drew a walk from reliever Al Worthington to open the 10th. Vic Davalillo sacrificed, Lee Maye was walked intentionally and Max Alvis flied out before the runners moved up a base on a passed ball.

Whitfield then bounced to Killebrew about eight feet behind first base. Killebrew slipped, then regained his feet and sprinted for the bag — only to lose the race by an eyelash as Hinton scored the winning run.

"We missed a chance to open up a little daylight...to get a little breathing room," said Twins pilot Cal Ermer. Killebrew belted a two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener after Rod Carew tripled in the sixth and scored on Oliva's single to break a 1-1 tie.

Lumbering Frank Howard dazzled the Red Sox in the Washington opener, breaking open the game with a two-run homer after legging out a pair of infield hits that contributed to run-scoring innings. He also robbed Carl Yastrzemski of a first inning homer before the Boston star hit his 36th of the year in the sixth.

Adair Relivers Boston erased a 4-2 Washington lead in the sixth inning of a nightcap when Rico Petrocelli's infield hit, a walk and an error by relief pitcher Dick Lines set the stage for pinch hitter Jerry Adair, who singled home two runs and scored on a single by Dalton Jones.

Duane Josephson's run-scoring single with two out in the 10th inning earned Chicago a split with the Yankees after the White Sox gave away the first game on errors by Don Buford and Rocky Colavito.

The Yanks scored two runs on Buford's wild throw to the plate in the fourth inning and tallied the winner in the fifth when right fielder Colavito slammed into Buford and knocked the ball loose after the second baseman had gloved Charlie Smith's high fly.

Four Twinbills

It Was Laboring Day For Harrassed Cubs

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

It was Labor Day for everyone else and Labor Week for the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs split a holiday doubleheader with Los Angeles Monday, winning the first game 2-1 on Ernie Banks' 11th inning home run and dropping the nightcap 8-6 when the Dodgers rallied for five runs in the ninth.

The two games ended a string of four doubleheaders in as many days for the Cubs. Chicago split three of the twinbills and swept the other.

And if the Cubs thought they were worn out, consider St. Louis' pitching staff, which suffered through a 32-hit 10-8, 9-3 doubleheader loss to Pittsburgh Monday.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta swept a pair from Philadelphia, 8-2 and 8-1. Cincinnati nipped New York 2-1 and San Francisco edged Houston 4-3.

Six Perfect Innings Young Rich Nye pitched six perfect innings in the first game for Chicago and had a 1-0 lead with a three-hitter in the ninth inning. Then Lou Johnson ripped a two-out homer, tying the game and sending it into extra innings.

Banks' 21st homer of the year, leading off in the 11th, broke it up. The Dodgers, trailing 5-3 in the ninth inning of the nightcap, scored five runs with Wes Parker's two-run double the big hit. Willie Davis had four hits including a home run for Los Angeles and Billy Williams and Ron Santo homered for the Cubs.

Randall Takes Round Robin With Record Plus 33 Points

Leon Randall, the human golf machine out of Wiltwyck Country Club, rewrote the record book en route to his third Kingston Area Tournament of Champions title over the weekend.

He embellished his plus 33 winning margin with three consecutive sub-par rounds, first time the feat has been accomplished in the tournament.

Neither Bill Van Aken, the Woodstock champion or Twaalfskill's Form Coughlin could mount a serious challenge against the Wiltwyck putting master. Van Aken finished minus-9 and Coughlin trailed with minus-24.

Randall fired a 1-under-par 69 Sunday morning at Twaalfskill and had 2-under-par 70 in the afternoon on his home layout at Wiltwyck. He then finished in one-under-par 69 at Woodstock for a 54-hole total of 4-under-par 208.

The plus 33 winning margin shattered the former record of plus 32 set by Harvey Bostie in winning the 1963 event.

69 at Twaalfskill Randall put together nines of 35-34 at Twaalfskill to pick up 8 plus points. Van Aken's 36-35-71 enabled him to finish plus one while Coughlin, 35-40-75, fell behind at minus 9.

A par-36 on Wiltwyck's front nine, while Van Aken was carded in 40 and Coughlin 45, widened Randall's lead to plus 16, with Van Aken minus 1 and Coughlin minus 15.

Randall toured Wiltwyck's back nine in 2-under-par 34 with three birdies of 5 feet on No. 15, 16 and 18. He narrowly missed making it four consecutive birdies with a 5-foot miss on the par-five 17th.

Van Aken with a 40 on the back nine dropped into the minus bracket with a bogey-5 on the 15th hole. At the end of 36 holes, Randall had piled up an impressive plus 24, with Van Aken minus 6 and Coughlin minus 18.

Seeks Record With victory assured at the earliest stage in the history of the tournament, had only one real incentive at Woodstock—a new record in the form of three consecutive sub-par rounds.

He reeled off six straight pars on the front nine Monday morning, then ran down a 10-foot birdie-3 on the 345-yard 7th hole and a 10-foot birdie-3 on the 295-yard 8th to go 2-under. He finished with a bogey-4 for a 34.

A bogey-5 on the 12th brought Randall even for the day but he went one down on the 14th where he capitalized on a break, chipped to within 2 feet and got his birdie-4.

Four Twinbills

It Was Laboring Day For Harrassed Cubs

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

It was Labor Day for everyone else and Labor Week for the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs split a holiday doubleheader with Los Angeles Monday, winning the first game 2-1 on Ernie Banks' 11th inning home run and dropping the nightcap 8-6 when the Dodgers rallied for five runs in the ninth.

The two games ended a string of four doubleheaders in as many days for the Cubs. Chicago split three of the twinbills and swept the other.

And if the Cubs thought they were worn out, consider St. Louis' pitching staff, which suffered through a 32-hit 10-8, 9-3 doubleheader loss to Pittsburgh Monday.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta swept a pair from Philadelphia, 8-2 and 8-1, Cincinnati nipped New York 2-1 and San Francisco edged Houston 4-3.

Six Perfect Innings

Young Rich Nye pitched six perfect innings in the first game for Chicago and had a 1-0 lead with a three-hitter in the ninth inning. Then Lou Johnson ripped a two-out homer, tying the game and sending it into extra innings.

Banks' 21st homer of the year, leading off in the 11th, broke it up.

The Dodgers, trailing 5-3 in the ninth inning of the nightcap, scored five runs with Wes Parker's two-run double the big hit. Willie Davis had four hits including a home run for Los Angeles and Billy Williams and Ron Santo homered for the Cubs.

A White Dove?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There's a homing pigeon at a motor inn here who apparently can't remember where his home is. The banded bird flew into the kitchen of the motel Sunday and was caught by dining room manager Vero Bent. After work, one of the employees, Ann Rogers, took the bird home. On Monday, the bird looked well, so Miss Rogers turned him loose. He promptly flew back to the motel kitchen.

Investigation Of Friars Club Not All Funny

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Janet Leigh turned the first spadeful of soil for the start of building the $750,000 Friars Club a few years ago. George Jessel offered the benediction: "May this be a good place where men will laugh and drink and dine and tell a story and cut a card—all in goodwill." Lately a U.S. grand jury has been looking into reports that some of the card-cutting has not been performed with complete goodwill. Tony Martin, Phil Silvers, shoe millionaire Harry Karl and others have been called to testify of gin rummy losses at the Friars Club. George Raft told the jury last week that he never played cards at the club. Others, including gambling figures of Las Vegas and Miami, have been asked about alleged installation of electronic equipment to cheat players of stakes as high as $100,000. Mittie: 'Friar Took' The disclosures have given rise to cracks from Hollywood comedians, most of whom are members of the Friars. Milton Berle has his own designation for Karl, a former president of the club and one of the reported losers, "Friar Took." But the investigation isn't funny to those who have tried to build the Friars Club into a place of companionship and good works. Said Phil Silvers: "It's despicable. It's sickening to find two or three scamps around and to know it'll take years for the club to recover." The history of the Friars Club goes back earlier in this century when a group of New York theatrical personalities banded together for fun and fraternity. One of the early members was Victor Herbert, who supplied the club's anthem. In 1946, George Jessel led a campaign to establish a West Coast branch of the Friars Club. He enlisted such members as Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Jack Benny and George Burns as officers. The site of the first club headquarters was significant; it was the old Clover Club, a Sunset Strip night spot where Hollywood's stars had gambled during the mad '30s. The clubhouse maintained a restaurant, steam room and card room and sponsored dinners and programs which have raised $2 million for charity.

Investigation Of Friars Club Not All Funny

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Janet Leigh turned the first spadeful of soil for the start of building the $750,000 Friars Club a few years ago, George Jessel offered the benediction:
"May this be a good place where men will laugh and drink and dine and tell a story and cut a card—all in goodwill."

Lately a U.S. grand jury has been looking into reports that some of the card-cutting has not been performed with complete goodwill. Tony Martin, Phil Silvers, shoe millionaire Harry Karl and others have been called to testify of gin rummy losses at the Friars Club. George Raft told the jury last week that he never played cards at the club. Others, including gambling figures of Las Vegas and Miami, have been asked about alleged installation of electronic equipment to cheat players of stakes as high as $100,000.

Mittie: 'Friar Took'
The disclosures have given rise to cracks from Hollywood's comedians, most of whom are members of the Friars. Milton Berle has his own designation for Karl, a former president of the club and one of the reported losers. "Friar Took."
But the investigation isn't funny to those who have tried to build the Friars Club into a place of companionship and good works. Said Phil Silvers: "It's despicable. It's sickening to find two or three scamps around and to know it'll take years for the club to recover."

The history of the Friars Club goes back earlier in this century when a group of New York theatrical personalities banded together for fun and fraternity. One of the early members was Victor Herbert, who supplied the club's anthem.

In 1946, George Jessel led a campaign to establish a West Coast branch of the Friars Club. He enlisted such members as Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Jack Benny and George Burns as officers. The site of the first club headquarters was significant: it was the old Clover Club, a Sunset Strip night spot where Hollywood's stars had gambled during the mad '30s.
The clubhouse maintained a restaurant, steam room and card room and sponsored dinners and programs which have raised $3 million for charity.

The Friars moved to the old Romanoff's restaurant in Beverly Hills, then decided to build its own luxury clubhouse on Santa Monica Boulevard. Some members say that was the start of the club's troubles. Many of the show business Friars were too busy to devote much time to supporting the club. The membership was widened to include professional people and businessmen, including those of Las Vegas.

"I'll tell you when I quit being a member," says Groucho Marx. "I sat down at one of the dinners, and I heard this guy next to me saying, 'Gee, they're sure getting a strange bunch in the club nowadays.' Then I turned to see who was talking, and it was my barber! The next day I sent in my resignation."

Lake Resort Hit, Two Get $6,000

RENSSELAERVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Two men held up the office of a resort on Triangle Lake near this hamlet south of Albany early today and escaped with $5,000 to $6,000, State Police said.
Troopers said the men entered the manager's office at Camp Winsocle and one of them pointed a rifle or shotgun at the manager and ordered him to remain still.
The other took the money from the safe and both men left the office and drove away.
The robbers were described as young white men dressed in rough clothing. They were not wearing masks, State Police said.

Properties Acquired

Y Acquires Property for Expansion

G. Herbert DeKay, president of the Board of Trustees of the Kingston-Ulster County YMCA has announced the acquisition for the YMCA of the property adjacent to the YMCA building on Broadway. Known as the Eryne property, it now has on it a laundry, a transmission company, trucking company and a vacant building. The property measures approximately 150 feet square, DeKay said. The current tenants will remain indefinitely on the site, as the purpose of the acquisition is to allow the YMCA adequate expansion and area for development. The YMCA, a member of the Ulster County Community Chest, has already announced its intention for a capital fund drive in 1968, and it is expected this property will eventually be utilized in completing the development program.

RECEIPTION LIVELY

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — The wedding was lovely—but it took 16 police units to quell the free-for-all at the reception.

The bride's father, her two brothers and a wedding guest wound up in jail.

And two police officers were wounded in the fracas which broke out Sunday night at the home of Joe Camerona, 47, whose daughter was being married.

Police said they were attacked by guests when they arrived at the house.

Camerona's sons Joseph, 24, and Armando, 20, and a guest, Lawrence Babish, 23, were hauled off to jail and booked for disturbing the peace.

Armando was also charged with battery on a police officer.

Buckley Rules

NEW YORK (AP) — William F. Buckley Jr. has written to leaders of a draft-Buckley Citizens committee and the Conservative party saying that "for personal reasons it is not possible for me to run" against Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits next year.

Buckley — Author, editor, Conservative party candidate for mayor of New York in 1965 — made his position known Monday after hearing news of the movement to persuade him to run against Javits.

Buckley applauded the efforts of his backers to deny Javits the Republican nomination for a third term. But he urged them not "to waste your time or your money in making approaches to me."

His letter said in part: "I wish to commend you for your zeal in desiring that someone challenge Mr. Javits who, at an age when most people are retiring from active work, is insisting on six more years of disservice to the Republican party."

Javits is 63, Buckley is 41.

Buckley promised to try to persuade "a well-qualified candidate to rescue the poor, beleaguered voters of New York from their present predicament in the United States Senate."

Buckley is a resident of Stamford, Conn., but he would be eligible under New York State law to oppose Javits in the Republican primary next year and to serve as a senator if elected.

He merely would have to become a resident of New York State by election day.

Funeral Is Held For 'Gypsy King'

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — More than 1,000 Gypsies from 25 states attended the funeral Monday of Alex Mitchell, 62, described by followers as the "King of Gypsies."

Mitchell, whose address was listed as Louisville, Ky., died Saturday in Good Samaritan Hospital after a heart seizure. After his death, bands of his followers cried and recited chants at the hospital and funeral home where his body was taken.

Police estimated the crowd at the funeral at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church. They said license plates of cars at the church showed that more than 25 states were represented.

Mitchell and other Gypsies had been working on roofing and siding projects in the near-by Alexandria Bay area. His body was to be shipped to Bedford, Ohio, for burial.

A spokesman for the Gypsies said a new king would be elected in New York City. He did not elaborate.

Lockport Teens Cause $15,000 School Damage

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Two teen-agers have been accused of going on a spree of vandalism at Lockport's North Park Junior High School, causing damage estimated at $15,000.

Russell Shaver and Lawrence E. Adkins, both 17 and of Lockport, were arrested by police Monday, shortly after the damage was discovered by a school employee. They were charged with criminal mischief, third-degree burglary and petty larceny.

Police said 106 window panes inside the building had been smashed and that the contents of 25 fire extinguishers had been sprayed over floors. In addition, they said, virtually every book in the school's library had been knocked from its shelf and equipment in a science laboratory had been broken.

Two pianos were damaged when hammers inside the instruments were torn out. Investigators said an outside window was broken to gain entrance to the building Sunday night. Bloodstains were found near broken glass and on several door knobs, they said.

Despite the damage, the new school year will begin on schedule Wednesday for North Park's 900 pupils, Schools Supt. Kenneth A. Fuller said.

Woodstock Girl Scouts Announce Dates

The Woodstock-West Hurley Girl Scout Neighborhood Association met recently and decided upon plans for an early Fall Community Chest kick-off parade.

The date the group set for the parade is Saturday, Sept. 16.

Also discussed were plans for the annual Campfire Songfest, slated for Friday, Sept. 22, at 7 o'clock.

Blind Sale Report Given

Proceeds of $477.76 were netted from the recent Woodstock Sale of blind-made products, conducted Aug. 22, on the Lutheran Church lawn.

The sale featured merchandise produced in the shops of the Albany Association of the Blind.

Mrs. Iven Freer acted as general chairman. Serving with her on committees were Mrs. John Marcato, Methodist chairman; Miss Florence Peper, Lutheran chairman; Miss Marguerite Graham, Catholic chairman; Mrs. Paul Williams, Episcopal chairman and Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, American Legion Auxiliary chairman.

The Albany Association of the Blind expressed sincere thanks to all persons who assisted in making the sale successful.

Board Notes Lunch Hike

The Onteora School Board today disclosed that reduced government surpluses and an increase in food and labor costs made it necessary to raise the price of the school lunch program.

At a special meeting conducted Aug. 29, the Board increased the lunch menu as follows: Type A Student Lunch from 30 cents to 35 cents, Type A Adult Lunch from 40 cents to 45 cents, Student White Milk from 2 cents to 3 cents, Student Flavored Milk from 3 cents to 4 cents, Adult beverages from 7 cents to 10 cents and Adult Flavored Milk from 8 cents to 10 cents.

The board said it reached this decision after carefully studying the cafeteria financial operation.

"In order to continue this pay-as-you-go plan," the board emphasized, "we find it necessary to initiate the lunch hike."

The Board said information concerning prices charged at other schools indicate the increase will bring Onteora in line with other area schools.

In other action, the Board announced that despite material shortages, classroom spaces would be in use opening day.

Also the Board said it would petition to have the speed limits regulated at 15 mph in front of schools. A new law eliminated the old 15 mph speed limit.

Dear Abby

Retarded Need Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I read in your column about the couple who put their retarded child in an institution with others like him, "for his own good."

That's where we got our children in the first place. Our little boy was 9 months old and weighed 10½ pounds when we got him. The doctor said he didn't think the child would ever see his first birthday as he was a cerebral palsy child, and retarded, too. I told the doctor that with God's help I would bring him thru. I spent many a sleepless night and shed plenty of tears when he would have convulsions, but I would work with him until he got over it. He has done so well with therapy. He has gained to 42 pounds and the doctors say he will be walking without braces in a few months. He is such a dear, loveable child, and has brought so much joy and laughter into our home.

Our little girl came to us at 5 weeks old. She's a retarded (Mongoloid) child. She is now 3 years old and walks and talks and grows smarter every day. All it takes is love and patience to care for these little ones. I have 4 grown children and 10 grandchildren. All normal, and I love them all. I hope you will print this, Abby, so others will realize that even imperfect babies need a loving home. Thank you.

DOROTHY

DEAR DOROTHY: There are no words to describe the nobility of people like you. The relatively few cases of man's true humanity to man should make countless millions ashamed.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are ordinary working people (retired) trying to get along on social security, so we must draw on our savings, which of course are limited. We have a number of children, all adults and married with children of their own, up to college age. From time to time in order to help them out, we have lent

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: Don't assume that because your children have not honored their commitment that YOU have failed. THEY have failed. You can lead some people to a fountain of integrity, but you can't make them drink from it. (P.S. Silence implies agreement. Speak up!)

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that worried mother who was so shook at the idea of her daughter presenting her garter to her prom date as a souvenir to relax. In Scotland, when a boy and girl become engaged, the boy gives the girl his kilt. If an American version of that custom ever catches on, the boy will give the girl his trousers! CUSTOM COLLECTOR

DEAR CONCERNED: What's the difference? I'm told that in most American homes, it's the wives who wear them. Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. ## It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Wednesday, September 6, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Pressure to make decision exists. But today play waiting game. There is definite lesson to learn. Be sure and thorough. Otherwise you repeat steps at steep cost.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Check sources. You may be confused by one who makes extravagant promise. You would be wise to work in conjunction with club, group or special organization. Be co-operative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Information forthcoming concerning investments. You obtain valid picture. Those who have been singing their own praises come down to earth. Be gracious. Don't say I told you so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Give attention to home, basic security. Be sure you are building on solid base. Mistake to take things for granted. Double check. Live up to potential. Handle responsibility.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid travel unless absolutely necessary. Best to sum up. Directions apt to be confused. Unless cautious you could be trapped into wild goose chase. Act accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Reward due. Past efforts pay dividends. Older individual demands audience. Be gracious. Ride with experience. Listen, learn, apply lessons.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Cycle move up. But some opposition remains. Regard this as a temporary challenge. Avoid tendency to be depressed. Circumstances due to turn in your favor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid extremes where health, work, recreation concerned. Obtain hint from LIBRA message. Conditions not as confused as they appear. Aid due from close associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You could be disappointed at apparent lack of enthusiasm by friends. Stick to your beliefs, principles. Others require time. Be diplomatic. You eventually win your point.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Reach out for new methods, contacts. Be cheerful at home. Some of domestic scene requires encouragement. Provide it. The more you give to love, the more you will receive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Don't try too much at once. Take one thing at a time. Put together puzzle pieces. Restrictions are temporary. No real need to be discouraged. Stick close to home base.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Highlight practical approach. Some attempt to promote get-rich-quick schemes. Don't be taken in. Demand facts. Ask questions. Obtain answers. Stick to conservative course.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your chief aim is to provide service. Your basic desire is to be needed? You are a natural teacher and you would also make a fine dietitian. You are concerned with health and usually side with the underdog. GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for LIBRA, SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Special word to TAURUS: if alert you could come up with answer to major question. (Copr. T-M, 1967, Gen. Fea. Corp.)

Bridge

'Automatic' Lead Works for East

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here we are back again with the code word ARCH.

Analyze the lead. Review the bidding. Count your winners and, finally the $64,000 question: "How can I make or how can I beat this contract?"

In duplicate you also look for overtricks because one made or saved is likely to be the difference between a good score or a bad one but in rubber bridge the contract is all-important.

West's six of hearts opening lead would be correct in any game. He wants to attack in hearts before declarer gets a chance to develop his own suits. Don't worry about that old saw: "Never lead away from a king." It might have been a good rule in the game of Whist although we doubt it, but we know it is a bad rule in contract bridge.

East wins the heart lead with the ace and has what should be an automatic lead to trick two. That automatic lead is the deuce of clubs. It works this time. West ace and returns clubs. The defense has four tricks gathered before declarer can do anything except follow suit.

Anyone can see that East's lead is correct when he looks at the South hand and anyone should see that it is correct without looking at anything but the East hand and dummy. East knows that either South or West holds the ace of clubs. If South holds it there is nothing that East can do to beat the contract. South will have time to clear up the trump suit. He may have to lose an immediate trick to the trump ace if West holds that card but it will be clear sailing then since the diamond suit is sure to develop. East must lead that club and hope for the best.

'Automatic' Lead Works for East

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here we are back again with the code word ARCH.

Analyze the lead. Review the bidding. Count your winners and, finally the $64,000 question: "How can I make or how can I beat this contract?"

In duplicate you also look for overtricks because one made or saved is likely to be the difference between a good score or a bad one but in rubber bridge the contract is all-important.

West's six of hearts opening lead would be correct in any game. He wants to attack in hearts before declarer gets a chance to develop his own suit. Don't worry about that old saw: "Never lead away from a king." It might have been a good rule in the game of Whist although we doubt it, but we know it is a bad rule in contract bridge.

East wins the heart lead with the ace and has what should be an automatic lead to trick two.

That automatic lead is the deuce of clubs. It works this time. West takes his ace and returns clubs. The defense has four tricks gathered before declarer can do anything except follow suit.

Anyone can see that East's lead is correct when he looks at the South hand and anyone should see that it is correct without looking at anything but the East hand and dummy.

East knows that either South or West holds the ace of clubs. If South holds it there is nothing that East can do to beat the contract. South will have time to clear up the trump suit. He may have to lose an immediate trick to the trump ace if West holds that card but it will be clear sailing then since the diamond suit is sure to develop. East must lead that club and hope for the best.

'Sudsy Families' Catching

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Labor Day is one of those weekday holidays when, if there are no television sets in the house, both are likely to be in use during daylight hours, anyway.

There were some network pre-emptions of regular programs on Monday—for baseball and a real cliff-hanger, the sudden death playoff of a Canadian golf tournament which won Billy Casper $35,000 for a short putt.

But in between there must have been bewilderment when the bread winners, usually out of range of daytime television, were confronted with the assorted soap operas.

Always a Crisis
Tuning in a soap—be it "Love of Life," "The Doctors" or even "Peyton Place"—for the uninitiated is sort of like walking into a strange living room full of hysterical people. Everybody in the daytime serials is in constant crisis, physical or emotional and some times both. Yet all they seem to do about it is sit in living rooms drinking coffee or stand in hospital corridors discussing their problems.

It is easy to see why the normal reaction by a nonfan is: "Is this the way you spend your time?" But after a little exposure to these sudsy families, it is easy for anyone, even a working man down with the flu, to get hooked.

After all, you do want to know if Bill will get acquitted of the murder charge, if the young lovers ever get married and if John's nervous condition is that or a brain tumor.

CBS was on the late side Monday night in scheduling a musical adaptation—a very, very loose adaptation—of a Hans Christian Andersen story, "The Emperor's New Clothes." It was so broadly written and played that it could have been appreciated only by the tiniest tots in the audience and by 8 p.m., the older viewers deserved more substantial material. This was strictly Saturday morning stuff.

'Sudsy Families' Catching

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor Day is one of those weekday holidays when, if there are two television sets in the house, both are likely to be in use during daylight hours, anyway.

There were some network pre-emptions of regular programs on Monday—for baseball and a real cliff-hanger, the sudden death playoff of a Canadian golf tournament which won Billy Casper $35,000 for a short putt.

But in between there must have been bewilderment when the bread winners, usually out of range of daytime television, were confronted with the assorted soap operas.

Always a Crisis

Tuning in a soap—be it "Love of Life," "The Doctors" or even "Peyton Place"—for the uninitiated is sort of like walking into a strange living room full of hysterical people. Everybody in the daytime serials is in constant crisis, physical or emotional and some times both. Yet all they seem to do about it is sit in living rooms drinking coffee or stand in hospital corridors discussing their problems.

It is easy to see why the normal reaction by a nonfan is: "Is this the way you spend your time?" But after a little exposure to these sudsy families, it is easy for anyone, even a working man down with the flu, to get hooked.

After all, you do want to know if Bill will get acquitted of the murder charge, if the young lovers ever get married and if John's nervous condition is that or a brain tumor.

CBS was on the late side Monday night in scheduling a musical adaptation—a very, very loose adaptation—of a Hans Christian Andersen story, "The Emperor's New Clothes." It was so broadly written and played that it could have been appreciated only by the tiniest tots in the audience and by 8 p.m. the older viewers deserved more substantial material. This was strictly Saturday morning stuff.

Network Kickoff

kicks off officially tonight with the premiere of ABC's "Garrison's Gorillas," at 7:30 EDT, an hour-long war-adventure series built around a team of dangerous convicts paroled for dangerous duty.

Later comes ABC's "N.Y.P.D.," a half-hour series based— with considerable dramatic license—on cases from New York police files. At the same time, 7:30-10—CBS will run its "Good Morning, World," a half-hour situation comedy about a pair of radio disc jockeys.

NBC, in an effort to brighten its corner of reruns—its premiere start a "week"—will run in a pair of pilot films which might or might not be under consideration as midseason replacements. They are "L'I' Abner" and "Sheriff Who?" and will be seen between 7:30 and 8:30.

Uniform ASC Election

Sept. 18-22 has been set as the period for the election of ASC community committeemen throughout New York State, according to Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The elections will be held by mail.

Previously such elections had been held at various times in different states from July through December. The uniform voting period is expected to focus greater attention on the important election of some 75,000 committeemen in about 25,000 rural communities and result in increased voter participation. The ASC community committees assist county committees in the local management of the ASCS farm-action programs.

All farmers who are taking part or are eligible to take part in any of the programs administered by ASC committees are eligible to vote in the elections. Almost any farmer who is eligible to vote and lives in the community is eligible to run for community committeeman. The current community committee selects a slate, and the county committee may also add to the list.

Chairman Sauer pointed out that the regular members of the newly elected community committees serve as delegates to the county convention, where committeemen are elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee. These county committeemen are elected to 3-year staggered terms.

County ASC Committees have the vital role of administering at the local level various ASCS programs aimed at (1) improving farm income, (2) keeping farm production balanced with needs, and (3) conserving land and water resources. Their decisions are important to farmers in the county they serve, thus emphasizing the desirability of widespread participation in the elections.

Programs administered by ASC committees include wheat, feed grain, acreage allotments, and marketing quotas, Agricultural Conservation, Conservation Reserve, Cropland Conversion, price supports, farm storage facility loans, emergency assistance programs and related activities.

Loyalty Day Parade September 23, Some Participants Are Announced

A Kingston "Loyalty Day" parade will be conducted Saturday morning, Sept. 23.

Sponsored by the Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, the parade is expected to last more than two hours, be comprised of nearly 35 various units and include at least a thousand marchers.

The march will commence at 10:45 a. m. from the VFW Post on Delaware Avenue, thence up Broadway to Dietz Stadium. The two-mile trek is in support of the Vietnamese War-

John Dwyer, publicity chairman for the parade arrangements, told The Freeman, "We have mailed more than 200 letters in Ulster County inviting various organizations to participate in the parade." To date, Dwyer said, the response has been disappointing.

He explained, "As it stands now the parade will be one of the largest Kingston has ever had, but we had hoped to make it the largest in this city's history."

Dwyer said that letters mailed to President Johnson, Congressman Joseph A. Rockefeller received replies. He noted none of the three public officials could attend; however, Dwyer added, "The Congressman has been most helpful and said he would certainly try to be on hand."

Organizations participating in the parade range from a Stewart

Air Force band to Girl Scout groups. A partial list is as follows: recruiters, Local Hall 461 of U.F.A., Union Hose with band, Betty Bunce Twirlers, Wicks Hose with band, Plumbers Union Local 223, Marine Corps League, Junior Marine Corps League, Kingston V.F.W. Post and Rapid Hose with band.

In addition there will be Ladies Auxiliary, Saddlebrook, N. J., marching unit; Tillson Volunteer Fire Co.; Ulster Hose No. 5; Welcome Wagon Club, The Salvation Army, Ulster County Conservative party, Excelsior Hose and Musicians Union Local 215.

Also slated to march are Rifton Volunteer Fire Co., U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary of Kingston and American Legion Post 150 of Kingston and the Auxiliary.

Dwyer said he was surprised that no answer had been received from the Common Council, Board of Supervisors, Sheriff's Department or the State Police.

He also noted several VFW Posts and fraternal organizations, as well as civic groups, had not responded to their invitations.

Cease-Fire Follows Duel Along Suez

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
U.N. truce observers put a cease-fire in effect Monday night after Israel and Egypt fought a seven-hour artillery and naval duel along the Suez Canal.

Israel claimed it sank an Egyptian torpedo boat. Egypt claimed it knocked out seven Israeli armored cars and tanks in the sharpest fighting since the U.N. team began patrolling the truce line six weeks ago.

Denies Charge
Israel said it had one man killed and one wounded. Egypt reported eight civilians killed and 35 wounded. It accused the Israelis of shelling residential areas in the cities of Port Suez and Port Taufiq, knocking down several houses, hitting a hospital and damaging two cargo ships, one Greek and one Indian.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv denied the charge, saying: "Our guns were aimed only at Egyptian positions in an attempt to silence them. There was no indiscriminate shelling of populated areas."

Egypt announced that during the fighting three Soviet destroyers returned to Port Said at the Mediterranean end of the canal and six Russian ships arrived in Alexandria. The Red ships entered those ports just after the June war, promising "to repel any aggression against Egypt," but recently left.

Each side claimed the other started the shooting, which began with a skirmish between Israeli patrol boats and Egyptian shore batteries.

Amer Faces Trial
Meanwhile, the semi-official newspapers Al-Ahram confirmed that Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's former vice president and army commander, may be tried by a court-martial with 50 other officers accused of plotting against President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Loyalty Day Parade September 23, Some Participants Are Announced

A Kingston "Loyalty Day" parade will be conducted Saturday morning, Sept. 23.

Sponsored by the Uniformed Fire Fighters' Association, the parade is expected to last more than two hours, be comprised of nearly 35 various units and include at least a thousand marchers.

The march will commence at 10:45 a. m. from the VFW Post on Delaware Avenue, thence up Broadway to Dietz Stadium. The two-mile trek is in support of the Vietnamese War.

John Dwyer, publicity chairman for the parade arrangements, told The Freeman, "We have mailed more than 200 letters in Ulster County inviting various organizations to participate in the parade." To date, Dwyer said, the response has been disappointing.

He explained, "As it stands now the parade will be one of the largest Kingston has ever had, but we had hoped to make it the largest in this city's history."

Dwyer said that letters mailed to President Johnson, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller received replies. He noted none of the three public officials could attend; however, Dwyer added, "The Congressman has been most helpful and said he would certainly try to be on hand."

Organizations participating in the parade range from a Stewart

Air Force band to Girl Scout groups. A partial list is as follows: recruiters, Local Hall 401 of U.F.F.A., Union Hose with band, Betty Bunce Twirlers, Wicks Hose with band, Plumbers Union Local 223, Marine Corps League, Junior Marine Corps League, Kingston V.F.W. Post and Rapid Hose with band.

In addition there will be Ladies Auxiliary, Saddlebrook, N. J., marching unit; Tillson Volunteer Fire Co.; Ulster Hose No. 5; Welcome Wagon Club, The Salvation Army, Ulster County Conservative party, Excelsior Hose and Musicians Union Local 215.

Also slated to march are Rifton Volunteer Fire Co., U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary of Kingston and American Legion Post 150 of Kingston and the Auxiliary.

Dwyer said he was surprised that no answer had been received from the Common Council, Board of Supervisors, Sheriff's Department or the State Police.

He also noted several VFW Posts and fraternal organizations, as well as civic groups, had not responded to their invitations.

Cease-Fire Follows Duel Along Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.N. truce observers put a cease-fire in effect Monday night after Israel and Egypt fought a seven-hour artillery and naval duel along the Suez Canal.

Israel claimed it sank an Egyptian torpedo boat, Egypt claimed it knocked out seven Israeli armored cars and tanks in the sharpest fighting since the U.N. team began patrolling the truce line six weeks ago.

Each side claimed the other started the shooting, which began with a skirmish between Israeli patrol boats and Egyptian shore batteries.

Amer Faces Trial
Meanwhile, the semi-official newspapers Al Ahran confirmed that Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's former vice president and army commander, may be tried by a court-martial with 50 other officers accused of plotting against President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Sweet Revenge
NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Three weeks ago while on a fishing trip to Lake Norman, D. B. Brannock was bitten on the left ankle by a copperhead snake.

After spending more than a week recuperating in a hospital, Brannock returned to the lake, found a copperhead and killed it.

Denies Charge
Israel said it had one man killed and one wounded. Egypt reported eight civilians killed and 35 wounded. It accused the Israelis of shelling residential areas in the cities of Port Suez and Port Taufiq, knocking down several houses, hitting a hospital and damaging two cargo ships, one Greek and one Indian.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv denied the charge, saying: "Our guns were aimed only at Egyptian positions in an attempt to silence them. There was no indiscriminate shelling of populated areas."

Egypt announced that during the fighting three Soviet destroyers returned to Port Said at the Mediterranean end of the canal and six Russian ships arrived in Alexandria. The Red ships entered those ports just after the June war, promising "to repel any aggression against Egypt," but recently left.

Each side claimed the other started the shooting, which began with a skirmish between Israeli patrol boats and Egyptian shore batteries.

Upstate Pilot On Raid of Sams Site

SAIGON (AP) — A flight of 105 Thunderchiefs jets evaded two North Vietnamese Surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) last week and bombed the missile launching site.

U.S. Air Force Maj. Lawrence L. Friedman of New York City said the missiles crashed in a village north-northeast of Hanoi.

Also on the raid was Maj. Donald D. Windrath, 38, of Rome, N.Y.
